

THE CHINESE OATH IN THE DISTRICT COURT

J. E. Wallbridge Insists That The Celestial Oath of the Execution of a Chicken But Prosecution Insist on Christian Oath.

Cluck, cluck, cluck, the clucking of hens mingled with the sound of debating voices in the District Court yesterday afternoon. The subject of dispute was the Chinese Chicken Oath; the trial was that of Charlie Laine, charged with being the frequent of a gaming house. Laine was one of the twenty-eight Chinese men arrested on the night of September 17 at the store of Sam Sing, 443 Namayo avenue, while a game of fan tan was in progress. The raid was made by six policemen and the gamblers were escorted to the police station and were subsequently jailed out. From the police court they were brought up for trial at the District Court. The proceedings opened yesterday afternoon with the trial of Laine and it was determined that no heathen Chinese ignoring the Christian oath should enter the witness box and make false statements. J. E. Wallbridge, acting for the prisoner, arranged to bind the Chinese witnesses for the prosecution by the Chicken Oath, the most ancient and terrible vow of the Celestial Empire. When a Chinaman takes the Chicken Oath, with a knife in his own hand he severs the head of the fowl from the body, and swears to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, failing which may his head be cut off as that of the chicken. The chickens were brought into court in a sack and a galvanized tin pail and long butcher knife were provided for the slaughter of the fowl.

Preparations for Oath. Several witnesses were examined, police officers who took the ordinary oath. Then the witness was called by the prosecution for whom particularly the Chicken Oath preparations had been made. Mr. Wallbridge gave order to have the chicken brought forth from the sack. He unwrapped the knife and felt its keen edge with his thumb, whetted it on the sole of his shoe as a Chinaman takes the oath. He had been years in Canada, and was now a Christian. It was an honor to him to witness a man who had taken the old heathen oath. His objections were strongly urged by Mr. Cogswell. "Swear your oath as you like," said Mr. Cogswell to the counsel for the defence.

Mr. Wallbridge insisted that Mr. Cogswell should take the Chicken Oath. How was the court to know that he was a Christian? He had admitted that he had never been to church for four years, and perhaps had never been baptized. It might be that he would have no regard at all for the Christian oath and would not consider himself bound if he took it. The court was for now to let the Chicken Oath which would be binding on his conscience, might be that he did not want to tell the truth.

His Honor Judge Taylor thought that the counsel for the defence was not making a fair deduction when he said that Mr. Cogswell could not be considered a Christian because he had not been to church for four years, or that he might not be a Christian because he had probably hundreds of Christians in the city who had never been baptized and many so-called ones who never attended church once in four years. He sustained Mr. Cogswell in his objection and called on the clerk to swear the witness in the customary fashion.

Mah Wing being sworn told under examination by Mr. Cogswell of being at Sam Sing's place on Namayo avenue on the night of September 17, when the raid was made by the police. He had gone there at nine o'clock; went upstairs and played fan tan for money with Sam Sing and Charlie Laine. They had been playing half an hour when the police came. Mr. Cogswell said he had played at the same game in the court many times on previous occasions. On the gambling mat brought to the court as an exhibit, and in the chips and fan tan sticks he gave an exhibition of how the game was played.

Mah Wing told the court the names of a number of the Chinamen who were there that night playing fan tan. Charlie Laine was among the number.

The hearing of the witnesses for the crown was not concluded yesterday afternoon and will be continued this morning.

PREPARATIONS FOR CENSUS.

Unit of Representation is 2,154,034. Work to Cost Million.

Ottawa, Oct. 25.—The appointment of about 225 census commissioners will be begun by the government very shortly, and there are many applicants to choose from. To a large extent those experienced in the work will be re-employed.

There will be one commissioner for each electoral district, who will have supervision of the enumerators for each constituency. He will be given a lump sum for expenses, varying according to the size of the district, and no much per head of population for revision of the work of the enumerators. There will be no provincial superintendents, this time the work will be directly supervised from Ottawa.

No less than 536 questions are contained in the various schedules which will have to be filled out and taken a month will be occupied in filling the census. It will be four months before any digest is ready.

The first of June has been selected instead of the 31st of March, as the date of enumeration, because of the difficulty attending travel in many places at the latter time.

Great interest attaches to the census because of its effect upon parliamentary representation, the population of Quebec divided by 65 furnishing the unit.

Ten years ago Quebec's population was 1,648,888. The estimate this year, based on immigration figures, statistics of births and deaths, and natural increase, is 2,154,034.

Taking the census will cost a million dollars for enumeration and compilation. For the latter $500,000 extra will be engaged, and will be selected by the civil service commission on the competitive basis.

PRINCE RUPERT BADLY DAMAGED BY STORM

The Telegraph Lines Are Down, and Railway Tracks Have Been Destroyed in Past Few Days.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 26.—Fierce and destructive storms are sweeping the north coast of British Columbia and Alaska, according to advices from Prince Rupert. Strong winds in the vicinity of the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific. Bridges are being swept away and telegraph and telephone lines are being torn down by wind and landslides. So far as has been heard no lives have been lost.

The storm has continued since last Wednesday, and the damage done by it has been terrific, particularly in the vicinity of Prince Rupert. Last Wednesday the Kyax bridge, one of the largest on the Grand Trunk Pacific, was blown down, and the track washed out for about two miles. The telegraph and telephone lines were blown down, and a mile of poles and wire being taken away by a landslide. The cabins and offices in this particular locality had a foot of water on the floor.

The highest tide of the year occurred on that day, the water rising to within a few feet of the Prince Rupert wharf. As the result of the storm Prince Rupert's water front was devastated for miles, boats and boathouses being carried away, wrecked and battered about.

The telegraph lines and extra gangs are now trying to cope with the situation as best they can under very trying circumstances. The crews of the Grand Trunk Pacific are working hard at work trying to repair the damage done. The railroad line was only within a few feet of the river, an average of about eleven feet above high water level, the damage was done within a few feet of the river.

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—Henry Vivian, M.P., addressed an audience tonight in the railway committee room of the House of Commons on a plan for the general beautification of Ottawa, and for the introduction of suburban homes along the lines of the Ottawa River.

CHARGED WITH MURDER. Young Man Arrested Accused of Killing a Sixteen-Year-Old Girl. Godrich, Oct. 26.—Edward Jardine, a young man, was arrested today, charged with the murder of Elizabeth Anderson, the sixteen-year-old girl whose body was found in the city last night. The American dead-end work but that he looked forward to seeing this condition improved at a very early date. He admits the danger both to the prisoner and to the peaceable citizen of hiring prisoners out to those desiring to use their labor, but that the American dead-end work but that he looked forward to seeing this condition improved at a very early date.

R. B. CHADWICK TELLS OF PRISON CONGRESS

The Portion Dealing With Prison Administration Indicated in Vorn Amount of Thought and Labor Directed to That Field.

"That section of the international prison congress dealing with prison administration," says Superintendent Chadwick, who has just returned from attendance there, "distinctly indicated the vast amount of thought and painstaking labor which has been directed in that field." The best methods of dealing with the youthful criminal, the advisability of the youth of from sixteen to twenty-one years of age being dealt with aside and separate from the older and more hardened criminals of twenty-five to thirty years, were given a great deal of time and attention. Speakers from all over the world expressed themselves strongly in favor of only separating prisoners under twenty-one years of age from those over that age, but as being in favor of special courses of training whereby these prisoners would be given a trade and an education fitting them to re-enter life under the kindly oversight of a parole officer at the earliest possible time.

"The controversy as to the advantages to be derived from the parole system in dealing with older and more hardened prisoners was both long and heated and involved the question of support of prisoners' families and the maintenance of their institutions and his productions sold, the returns going to his family after the expenses of his keep at the prison had been deducted, met with much favor as the question of prison-made goods in competition with others is largely overcome by this system. The Spanish system of compelling a person on whom others are dependent to serve on their own work and under supervision in order that his family might not suffer, was highly commended. Another system of having the prisoner work at the institution and his productions sold, the returns going to his family after the expenses of his keep at the prison had been deducted, met with much favor as the question of prison-made goods in competition with others is largely overcome by this system.
