LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, June 17, 1918. KINGS TAKE COVER.

James II. left his perch on a pedestal behind the Admiralty offices in London some months ago and disappeared, Roman costume, baton and all, into some safe shelter known only to the Board of Works. There Sir Alfred Mond, the chief of that department, will probably keep him until the war ends. Now a more famous statue, that of King Charles on horseback at Charing Cross, is being built in with sandbags. I believe that this bronze is too weather-worn to stand removal safely. The statue lay hid for years during the Commonwealth which had ordered its destruction. The blacksmith who bought it sold to Royalists medals purporting to be of its metal, but at the Restoration produced the whole statue. Less substantiated is the legend that its sculptor committed suicide on discovering that he had moulded the king on a horse without stirrups.

LLOYD'S GEORGE'S BRITISH SPEECH.

The Prime Minister's brief but telling speech at the annual festival of the Printers' Pensions Corporation not merely brought his audience to their feet but drew the enthusiastic cheering crowd back to Downing Street with him. Not content with shouting themselves hoarse, with waved handkerchiefs and serviettes they followed him out into the street and cheered him till he was out of sight. It was not that the speech had any very new message to the nation, but it was in the right vein of eloquent stimulus and appeal—the kind of note upon the bugle-horn which is worth a thousand men. It set in strong relief the opposed ideals which are at the back of the great world-war, and though it did not minimize the harrowing price which is being paid and is still to be paid for victory, it rightly emphasised the fact that the cost will still be less than the value of the cause the Allies are defending. Much had been said about Ludendorff's great hammer blows, "Hammer blows," said the Prime Minister, "crack and crumble poor materials; hammer blows harden and consolidate good metal." This country, which had faced great crises in the past, would stand this test also. France and Europe were threatened with the deluge. Let Britain stand like a breaker against this torrent. God willing, we will break it in the end. An appeal of this kind—his for membership of the House of Commons. In fact, one argument frequently heard was that the conferring of the franchise would lead to an agitation to permit women to sit in Parliament. The Courts, however, interpret statutes in quite independent of any views which may have been expressed in Parliament as to their significance, and a counsel who had the temerity to cite in court a passage from "Hansard" as throwing light on the intentions of the Legislature would receive a speedy reproof.

AEROPLANES AFTER THE WAR.

It is often urged that more ought to be done now to develop aerial mail and transport without waiting for the period of peace. Official opinion is against expenditure of material and effort in this direction, chiefly for the following reason. It is true that we have plenty of machines that are no longer of any use for fighting, that might be used for transport, but these machines are far more usefully employed in training aviators for the front. It is also true that we have pilots who, owing to nervous strain, are no longer fit for fighting, but these men are of the greatest value in training work and the thousand and one "ground duties" in which men with flying knowledge can be employed. Neither men nor material can be spared at present from the business of winning the war. At the same time the authorities are fully alive to the necessity of having everything ready for a big development of British air transport as soon as the war is over. It should be remembered that the experience now being gained at the front in every branch of aviation is enormous, and can all be turned to account when the time comes to make Great Britain the leader in the peaceful paths of the air. Invention and experiment are now concentrated on producing a machine which will go the maximum distance with a maximum weight of bombs. When peace comes the bombs will be replaced by passengers and mails.

EMBARGO ON AMERICAN FILMS.

Ninety per cent of cinema films exhibited in this country are produced in America. Recently there has been a difficulty in getting delivery of these films owing to a restriction on exports, and a considerable quantity of films has been held up on the other side. Through this will not mean an immediate shortage of subjects for exhibition, as the production of films is carried on on a very extensive scale and bookings to picture houses are made far ahead of the time of showing. It is nevertheless causing a great deal of anxiety to the industry in this country not only from the trade standpoint, but also from the broader aspect of national interests. Many of the films which are or may be held up are subjects of propaganda value. It is urged that as the storage space required for the reels in shipment is so very small special consideration might be extended to them, and this plea has been met to a certain extent by the authorities concerned. It is understood that the films already waiting shipment will be allowed through, while subsequent consignments will be limited to specially licensed films. In granting licenses the United States Government is, it is stated, guided by the views of the British War Mission, and the Board of Trade is prepared to recommend through the Mission the granting of licenses for suitable films.

PARLIAMENTARY CANDIDATURES OF WOMEN.

Uncertainty exists as to the eligibility of women for membership of the House of Commons. The Government is to be asked whether the Law Officers of the Crown have examined the matter and given an opinion on it. A full authoritative decision of course can only be obtained from the Law Courts in a specific case, and the Home Secretary pointed this out some weeks ago. With ladies coming forward as candidates for Parliament this question will no doubt be thus tested, and the crucial point. I am told, will turn upon the existence or non-existence of a disability at common law as interpreted in the light of the recent enfranchisement of women. The assumption upon which the debates on the Reform Bill proceeded was that it did not make women eligi-

THE SOLDIER AS A "NUT."

The very newest "nut" has nothing to do with the pre-war soft hat, nicely waisted coat, well creased trousers, and starting socks. He is the comely, well-dressed soldier in the new hospital "blues." It is as a "nut" that he is known by his less fortunate comrades still condemned to wear the ill-fitting monstrosities in grey and blue which we have known since the far-away days of August, 1914. The new suits are a great success, and the authorities hope that in time all our wounded men will be supplied with them. They are nicely cut and they make some good pretence to fit their wearers, which is something that could never be said of the earlier hospital clothes.

Shell Shocked Nerves
Shattered nerves are the source of greatest suffering to many a returned soldier. The doctor can give something to relieve physical pain, but when the nervous system breaks down and you are sleepless, nervous and mentally worried, real cure only comes when the exhausted nerve cells are nourished back to health and vigor by such restorative, upbuilding treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

H.M.S. EAGLE LAUNCHED.
Mrs. Page, wife of the American Ambassador, has launched a new British warship on the Tyne, christening her "H.M.S. Eagle" on the First Lord's invitation expressly approved by the King. The Royal Naval Ensign and the Stars and Stripes flew side by side over the ship. Mrs. Page spoke of her privilege in christening the Eagle, and told how deeply she was touched by the graceful courtesy of America's comrades-in-arms in naming a new man-of-war after the United States national bird. Admiral Halsey acknowledged the effective co-operation which has existed for more than a year between the American and British Navies.

St. Bon's "Old Boys."

The St. Bon's Association holds the annual meeting on to-morrow (Sunday) for the election of officers and other business. Under the amended rules, officers may hold office for only one year, so that an entirely new ticket will be elected at the coming session.

The annual re-union takes place on Thursday, July 18th, and the Association will pay a solemn tribute to the memories of their gallant brothers who won immortal fame for themselves, the Association and their native land, on many a bloody field in Gallipoli, in France and Flanders. His Grace the Archbishop will celebrate a Solemn Requiem Mass for the repose of the souls of those who "died" "at the front," and also those who went down in the Florist. His Grace also will impart Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Amongst the soldiers now in the city are a large number of returned veterans, and a goodly showing of Volunteers, who have not yet received their baptism of fire. The Acolytes and Servitors have been selected from these and it will lend picturesqueness as well as solemnity to the occasion to see these gallant young fellows in uniform paying the last tribute to their brothers deceased. After the Breakfast a special photo as a souvenir will be taken of the "Old Boys" in uniform, and which will include His Grace the Archbishop and visiting clergy. The Military Authorities have graciously consented to give leave for a couple of hours to the soldiers so that all may attend. The Servitors in the Sanctuary include Capt. Gerald Byron, M.C., Capt. Leo Murphy, Lieut. Stephen Smith, Corporal Robert Alop, Pte. O'Leary, L.-Corp. Leonard Burke, and L.-Corp. Jos. O'Driscoll. The committee in charge has completed every detail, to make this Reunion one of the most notable of the series.

Pears' Soap

HE WON'T BE HAPPY TILL HE GETS IT!

A. & F. PEARS, LTD., LONDON.

"Royalo" Port Wine. Creme De Menthe.

Black Cherry Brandy. London Dock Sherry.

Sloe Gin. Ginger Wine Cordial.

266 Water Street, St. John's, July, 1918.

Dear Sir, or Madam:

I beg to approach you as one whom I am of the opinion appreciates the good things of life with regard to some new drinks I am about to place on the market.

The wines in question, a list of which you will find at the head of this letter, are manufactured by a Toronto concern who, since that Province went "dry," have made a special study of wines that were popular in the "good old days" and have endeavored to imitate these wines as closely as it is possible to do when same have to be made according to the Prohibition law.

The Wines which I am now offering are the result. Nothing like them has ever been on the market since Prohibition days, and they should in no way be confounded with brands of non-alcoholic wines which have previously been on the market and which in the main are syrupy and nauseating.

Especial care has been taken to imitate the original flavors as far as it is possible, in fact it is practically impossible to distinguish the two Liqueurs mentioned above from the real thing, while the other wines are very similar in flavor to their namesakes. A not unattractive feature is that the drinks are bottled in quart bottles, absolute counterparts of their real namesakes.

It is my desire to get a sample bottle of each of these wines into your home, for I am of the opinion that once you try them you will become a steady user of one or other of the kinds offered. I am therefore going to ask you to give me an order for One sample bottle each of "Royalo" Port Wine, London Dock Sherry, Creme de Menthe, Sloe Gin, Black Cherry Brandy and Ginger Wine Cordial at One dollar per quart bottle delivered (the same price as in Canada), that is Six Dollars in all.

(These sample orders will be filled through one of the St. John's dealers handling these goods, and delivery will be made as soon as the first shipment is received, probably some time in September.) Orders may be phoned to my office—telephone number 60.

Special prices to the trade upon application.

I am sure you will be pleased with this sample order and I hope to hear from you at your convenience.

With best wishes,

Yours very truly,
P. E. OUTERBRIDGE,
Agent for The Gordon Wine Co., Toronto.

Serious Accident.
Yesterday afternoon, at 5:30, James Fogarty, driver with the Reid Express Co., met with a serious accident that all but ended fatally. He was driving a horse to which was attached a van laden partly with express matter, which was to go out by train, and was bound for the station by way of New Gower Street. When about 50 yards east of the West End Fire Hall the fore wheel of his truck hit the hub of a wheel of a large slow-driven by a man named Churchill, who had held up his team to allow a carriage to pass by, the three being abreast on the road at the same time. When the collision came Fogarty was thrown from his seat on the van into the street, falling on the head with much force. His horse bolted and he was picked up in an unconscious condition and taken to the West End Fire Hall, where the armory was phoned for medical aid. Drs. Arch Tait and Campbell reached the Hall within a few minutes, and a brief examination showed them that although the skin had not been broken, the bone had, and was pressing against the brain.
