LAUSANNE, Feb. 6.—The trucks will not sign the Lausanne treaty. The trucks will not sign the Lausanne treaty. The trucks will not sign the Lausanne treaty.

ANOTHER STORY.

PARIS, Feb. 6.—Poincaré, after consultation with M. Bompard and other French ministers to the Lausanne Conference, decided to associate himself with the British cabinet's decision, declaring that the economic clauses from the Lausanne conference would be signed by the French government. Poincaré's statement was a surprise to the British cabinet, who had expected him to remain neutral. The French government's decision was a significant move towards the resolution of the Ruhr crisis.

proves the services for the transport of food to armies and the civil population, and also to operate twenty per cent. of the normal passenger schedule. It is understood that every railroad in France will send a certain percentage of trained men from all departments. The efforts of the "Committee for the defence of the Ruhr," formed under Chancellor Cuno's direction, is beginning to be seriously felt. The French have abandoned hope of the German railroad men restoring their ports. They are well supplied with money which enables them to live on the same line as when working. Essen is completely isolated from telephonic and railroad communication. The French ever Hugo Stinnes' visit to Essen was partly responsible for the renewed resistance of the German leaders. The French officially admit that the Ruhr Coal production has dwindled to twenty per cent. of normal since the occupation.

Regular Fellow is Gloria Swanson

OF "BEYOND THE ROCKS" FIRST TO FELLOW PLAYERS DURING FILMING OF PICTURE.

That Gloria Swanson is a regular fellow in the realms of Shadowland, the verdict of her co-workers during the filming of "Beyond the Rocks" her latest Paramount star-vehicle which played at the Majestic Theatre yesterday. The declaration was provoked when Miss Swanson became hostess to the entire company when the play-actors were on location at Catalina Island, filming ocean scenes. After a while in one of the leading hotels at the principal city of the island, Miss Swanson invited the cast to her apartment for a little evening. Coffee and cakes were served and all enjoyed a delightful time. Miss Swanson, upon extending the invitation, said: "Perhaps we all know each other more or less from association in the studio and in various pictures, but there are several new members in the troupe and I think that one of the first essentials to our mutual success is to be well acquainted, socially as well as professionally. So I propose that after the dance, all the members of the company be my guests for a little friendly chat over the coffee and cake."

There will be a Tea and Concert in Canon Wood Hall on Wednesday the 7th inst. Tea will be served at 6.30. Concert begins at 8.30. Admission Tea and Concert 50c. Concert only 20c. Proceeds will go to the Brotherhood of St. Andrew's Chapel Fund. A good time is assured. Candy for sale. Feb. 31.

Last Night's Hockey.

FEILDANS DEFEAT ST. BON'S—SCORE: 4-3.

In a rather uninteresting game the Feildans took the St. Bon's to their camp to the tune of 4 goals to 3. The game was only fast in spots, although the ice was in excellent condition. After ten minutes of play, Paya notched up the first score for the evening. Right from the face-off Murr took control of the disc and passed to Fox who scored the equalizer, a few minutes later. Shortly before the close of the period, Paya again found the net, the period ended Feildans 2 goals; St. Bon's 1.

In the second period the play was fast, but the players were not playing their positions and the play became very open. After ten minutes had elapsed Fox sent in the equalizer. Feildans 3 goals, St. Bon's 2. At the face-off, H. Rendell took the puck and shot from centre ice, scoring No. 3 for the Feildans. Period ended with the Feildans 4 goals; St. Bon's 2.

The final period saw some good bursts of speed, but not much hockey was being played. Winter scored No. 4 for the Feildans after some pretty individual work. Fox again did the needful for the St. Bon's. Although the St. Bon's tried hard to even up the count, no further scores resulted. The final score sounded, Feildans 4 goals; St. Bon's 3.

Mr. J. M. Tobin was referee. The line-ups were as follows:—FEILDANS—Goal, Hunt; defences, Tait and H. Rendell; centre, Paya; wings, Winter and Ewing; substitutes, Alderice, Jerrett, Rendell. ST. BON'S—Goal, R. Halley; defences, R. Phelan, G. Halley; centre, Murr; wings, Collins and Callahan; substitutes, J. Higgins, Dr. Fox, Caul.

NOTES ON THE GAME.

Doc Fox scored all the goals for the St. Bon's, three of 'em at that—Now he is "Barry the Goal Getter." Paya, Winter, and Rendell, did the scoring for the Feildans. Rendell's goal was the "longest" yet.

Team	P	W	L	F	A	Pts.
Guards	5	5	0	23	10
Feildans	5	3	2	18	6
St. Bon's	5	1	4	14	7
Terra Nova	5	1	4	12	3

A Question of Dates.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—While listening in on the Radio last night, I heard it broadcasted by the announcer that Power was the first amateur in St. John's to pick up the American concert, but giving no details as to the date. Not wishing to do other than allow credit to whom credit is due, I would like to state that on November 17th, 1922, I heard Schenck, N.Y., and also again on the 18th December. Previous to these dates, I have many other notes in my diary, which would probably be interesting to amateurs as to whom the honour of being the first is due.

Yours truly,

BROAD CAST LISTENER.

Tax on Servants

Increased.

VIENNA.—Domestic servants are highly prized in Vienna, and there are answers near enough to fill the demand. And of course the government collects a head tax. Recently the scarcity has been so great that the tax collectors figured they could increase the rate 25 fold, which they promptly did. At the same time they increased the dog tax 100 fold, and the tax on automobiles 12 fold.

The Industry of Charles Dickens.

No author ever lived whose method was more exact, whose industry was more constant, and whose punctuality was more marked than those of Charles Dickens.

He never shirked labour mental or bodily. He rarely declined, if the object were a good one, taking the chair at a meeting or accepting a charitable trust. Many widows and orphans of deceased literary men were benefited by his wise trusteeship or counsel and he spent a great portion of his time personally looking after the welfare of the poor whose interests were under his control. Marvellous stories are told (not by himself) of what he accomplished in literary and social matters. His studies were all from nature and life, and his habits of observation were untiring. If he contemplated writing "Hard Times," he arranged with the master of Astley's Circus to spend many hours behind the scenes with the riders and among the horses; and if the composition of the "Tale of Two Cities" were occupying his thoughts, he would banish himself to France for two years, to prepare for that great work.

A little bit of smoked fish flavored scrambled eggs or stuffed eggs rather pleasingly. Spongy cake is delicious cut in layers and put together with chocolate filling.

Lloyd George Sets English Press by Ears.

LONDON PRESS SAYS TELEGRAPH'S REFUSAL TO PUBLISH ARTICLE IS IMPORTANT REBUKE.

London, Jan. 22. (Canadian Press)—The refusal of the Daily Telegraph on Saturday to publish Lloyd George's article on the French occupation of the Ruhr is receiving considerable comment in the English press. (The article referred to was published in the Star on Saturday.) The Times thinks it is an important rebuke to Lloyd George, marking a definite, if rather belated, stage in the public stand of the press against his abuse as a platform by former and possibly future ministers of the crown whose temporary irresponsibility to their own countrymen does not by any means extend to foreign nations.

"The Telegraph, like ourselves," the Times continues, "is profoundly concerned with France's present action, which is the subject of Lloyd George's irritating article. It is not from any sympathy with the current French policy that the article is suppressed, but from the conviction that the delicacy and difficulty of the situation can only be accentuated by the incautious polemics of an ex-premier, who was dealing but yesterday with the tremendous problems he now surveys, and may yet be called upon to deal with them again."

Further, the Times says: "Lloyd George's position in the world, which was very great, has not been improved by his journalistic engagements just before and after his fall from power."

The Mail's Criticism. The Daily Mail, which all along has been wholeheartedly pro-French in connection with the reparations question, says that since Lloyd George vacated the office of premier the Mail has refrained from criticizing him, but it seems necessary now to say that his incursion into journalism has been misguided and unfortunate.

"He has been behaving like a man deliberately bent on mischief," the Mail says. "The articles which Lloyd George is writing are not merely published in England, but appear in American and also in other European capitals than English, including Berlin, where they are believed to be having an inflammatory influence. No professional journalist in England, even though hostile to the present French policy, has ventured to assail France in the offensive terms habitually used lately by Lloyd George."

The Morning Post, under the caption, "Lord Burnham's Wastepaper Basket," described the Daily Telegraph's refusal to publish the Lloyd George article in question as a "disgraceful proceeding," but says that the article which the Telegraph rejected was put at the head of a column by the Daily Chronicle. "Reading it over," says the Post, "we can only say that Lord Burnham (owner of the Daily Telegraph), in all his useful and honorable public career, never showed more patriotism and wisdom than when he put Lloyd George's article in the waste paper basket."

Reasons for Published Article.

The Yorkshire Post, which published Lloyd George's article on Saturday, says it publishes the Lloyd George articles as it would publish Lloyd George's speeches. Not for a moment, however, does it think the tone of the former premier's newspaper articles represents the feelings of the great majority of his countrymen, but it believes that this is more truly reflected by Bonar Law, who declared that Great Britain disented from the French method in the matter of reparations, but quite frankly expressed the hope that France would succeed in her task.

The Daily Express, Lord Beaverbrook's paper, declares that if Lloyd George had made a speech embodying the same views as were contained in his newspaper article, the Telegraph would have reported it. "Why, then, did it refuse to publish the article for which it had paid a high price?" the Express asks.

Judging Distances.

With practice you can judge distance very correctly, and it is often useful to be able to do so. Begin with objects which are near at hand and compare these with others nearer still, trying to correct ourselves as we go on. If you take a man, for instance, at 50 yards distance, his mouth and eyes can be seen, at 110 yards the eyes will look only "like dots," at 200 yards you would be able to see the buttons on his coat, at 300 yards you would see his face but not the features, at 400 yards you could distinguish the movements of his legs as he walked. There are a few simple rules, too, that help you to judge distances. An object seen across water or snow looks nearer than it really is, and anything seen when you are sitting down or looking across a valley appears rather nearer than it is in reality. This is one thing that the Boy Scouts learn, and perhaps some of my readers have already tried their hands—or should I not rather say their eyes—at it.
