PRINCE HAS SPILL FROM HORSE.

NEWMARKET, Ont., Oct. 15. Word was received here this afternoon that the Prince of Wales had a spill during the first ninety minutes of the fox hunt, which was held by the Toronto Hunt Club in his honour to-day. His Royal Highness was unhurt and continued his ride. The Earl of Dunmore also fell and returned to the residence of Senator Mulock. The first fell a victim to the hunters shortly before one o'clock, on George's Thomson's farm about three and a half miles from the Mulock residence. The hounds again picked up the scent and the party were soon away to make a second killing. His Royal Highness was well in front for the second kill which was about two o'clock. He obtained the brush.

MECCA FALLS TO WAHABIS.

CAIRO, Oct. 15. The Wahabi tribesmen, enemies of the Hashimite dynasty in the Hedjaz, under pressure from whom King Hussein abdicated in favor of his son, Ali, have entered Mecca, the Holy City of the Islamic world. IS IT AN OMEN?

LONDON, Oct. 15. Recalling a similar mishap to Premier MacKenzie King at Montreal, a few months ago, Premier Ramsey MacDonald had an alarming experience while addressing an audience of ten thousand people at Cleevechilton, in Yorkshire, this afternoon. The speaker's platform suddenly collapsed, dropping the Premier and two hundred persons with him to the ground. There was much excitement but no person was seriously hurt. Mr. MacDonald picked himself up, mounted a point of vantage, and smilingly continued his address.

similar offence. It was necessary to bring ten talsmen of the street to complete the jury, there being many objections, challenges and stand asides by both crown and defence. A number of witnesses for the crown testified in the morning.

RECORDS OF THE AIR.

Airdrome, Lakehurst, N.J., Oct. 15. The safe arrival of ZR-3 from Friedrichshafen, Germany, marks the fourth successful attempt of humans to span the waters of the Atlantic ocean in non-stop flights. Aeronautic experts of the army and navy regard it as the most significant if not the most spectacular flight. They declared to-day, as the huge liner ended the longest continuous aerial passage in history and headed toward her berth to settle docilely and be tied up, that the world was witnessing undeniable evidence that the dirigible was destined to be the inter-continental passenger ship of the near future. It has been five years since the forerunners of this latest feat were recorded, when the perilous currents hovering over the North Atlantic were negotiated in land to land ventures by U. S. seaplanes. The British team of Alcock and Brown, both Royal Flying Corps men, took the air at St. John's, Newfoundland, in a Vickers Vimy airplane, on June 14th, 1919, dropped their landing gear on the rock-rimmed coast and headed eastward. Sixteen hours and twelve minutes, later having traversed 1,922 miles of sleet and fog, they plunged with their craft into a bog near Clifton, Ireland. The machine was a wreck, fit only for transportation to a London Museum. The aviators were battered in the crash but a record that still stands had been made. Hawker and Grievie had tried the stunt before and had been plunged into mid-ocean when their motor failed. They were rescued by a tramp steamer. Hardly had the nations ceased to gasp over the audacity of Alcock and Brown, when the Dirigible R-34 rose from East Fortune, Scotland one day in July. One hundred and eight hours that flight continued. At the end R-34 hovered over Mineola, Long Island, an officer descended 2000 feet by a parachute to direct her landing, and the big bag was drawn down. A few days later she headed homeward, arriving in England after a comparatively uneventful passage. She had crossed the ocean twice. The use of non-explosive helium gas as a substitute for the treacherous hydrogen, promises to make Dirigible transit of the future safer than airplane travel is to-day.

SWEDISH CABINET RESIGNS.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 15. The Swedish Cabinet tendered its resignation to King Gustave yesterday in consequence of divergent views between it and Parliament on the question of disarmament.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR GUEST.

LITTLE MISS NANNY GOAT.

Little Miss Nanny Goat, what will we do
With such a curious intention like you?
Those little teeth weren't glued to bite
Marks into everything shiny and bright;
That lovely mouth wasn't meant to take in
Ribbons and buttons and cardboard and tin;
Hey, little nanny goat, listen to me,
You musn't eat everything that you see!

Was there ever a baby so greedy before?
You've chewed at the windows and chewed at the door;
You've eaten the fluff from your blankets of white
And out of the table you've taken a bite;
You've chewed up the tassels your sweater once had,
You worry your mother and worry your dad;
Those little teeth are for cookies and cones
And not for lead pencils and whistles and stones.

Last week your stomach was round as a ball,
Poor little sick girl, you worried us all!
But what did we find was the cause of your scream—
You'd thought your mattress was filled with ice cream;
You've picked at the stuffing so fluffy and white
And swallowed it down as you played there at night.
Now what in the world are we going to do
With a baby who thinks everything is so sweet?

Cup custards can be baked in small screw-top jars for school lunches. Use rich starch for fabrics of delicate texture. Wash and wax your linoleum as soon as it is laid.

Percolator brushes are handy for cleaning the insides of salt and pepper shakers. An inexpensive rubber sponge is excellent for cleaning the tub and lavatory.

Woman Scientist's Triumph

What the scientific experts in America and Canada have failed to do has been accomplished by an Englishwoman, Miss Mackenzie, an experimenter employed by the Ministry of Agriculture.

Her discovery concerns the method of preserving fruit in liquid in such a manner that it remains its natural colors. The measure of her success may be judged at Wembley, where specimens are on view in the Government Pavilion. Although some of the fruits, including apples, plums and gooseberries, was picked last autumn the colors are still quite fresh.
