ANNABEL OR THE TEMPTATION.

CHAPTER V.
AN UNLOOKED-FOR MEETING—HAPPY NEWS FOR ANNABEL—STRANGE DEPARTURE—BRIGHT PROSPECTS—THE UNSEEN SHADOW.

After being conducted through the immense warehouse of the American department, filled with numberless bales of cotton from the Southern States, and furs and skins from the more northern regions, which was hencforth to be in his own charge, Philip was making his way across an open court to find egress by a lane in the rear of Mossley Street, when his eye lighted on a man man undoing the wrapping of some packages which had been deposited there previous to being transferred to the interior. The man was stooping at the moment, but something in his figure struck the young man as being not unfamiliar, and he stopped short. The man raised his head at the moment, and presented the round, good-humored face of Jim Potts.

The two regarded each other for some moments with mutual astonishment. Philip was the first to break the silence, and he did it only by giving expression to the surprise he felt.

"What! Jim Potts!" he exclaimed. "The very identical," responded Jim, with a broad grin; "and very glad indeed to see you again."

"Is this the place where you work?"

"Are you stationary here?"

"Been here for two months, off and on, sir. I told you I was a bit restless, and liked to see different places. I have been here ever since I came to Liverpool, and like it very well, considering. How's the old gentleman, sir, as you perpetuated from being robbed and murdered in the lane?"

"Why didn't you call back? We expected you would look in and see how it fared with him."

"Well, you see, sir," said Jim, half-hastily as he cast his eyes on the ground, "I'd had done that with readiness, only I thought he might think I was looking for something, and I wouldn't take on that appearance—not for the world, sir. So I stayed away; but I've been often a-thinking of him, and wanted to know how he got round. Is he better, sir, and who did he turn out to be?"

"Ah, Jim, but the last question is a puzzle. He is a good deal better, thanks to the nursing he has had; but none of us know who he is."

"What? Hasn't he told that?"

"Not he; and what is more, he evidently does not want us to know."

"Well, that's what I call uncommon queer, sir. Hasn't he even let out his name?"

"No. He has carefully concealed both his name and social position."

"Very amazin' indeed, sir. What may his reason happen to be, do you think, sir?"

"I can't conceive."

"Maybe he isn't as tip-top a gentleman as he looks, and doesn't like to let on. But if that's it, all that I can say is, he's got up under false pretences, for I never see a better stamp of a well-to-do gent in all my born days."

"He is a gentleman, Jim, and a most influential one, too, as has been fully evidenced to me within this hour. What do you think? He has been the means of obtaining for me a capital situation in this commercial house of Langton & Company."

"What?" cried Jim. "Are you in a situation here?"

"I shall be, on Monday next. I have just got the appointment, and one great deal better than I looked for, thanks to our unknown friend, who asked to see me this morning, and gave me a letter to Mr. Langton. He had learned from Mrs. Dobson that I was in search of a situation, and without a word from me had written the letter. Goodness what was in it, but its contents seemed to create uncommon interest in Mr. Langton's mind, for the moment he finished it he was ready to offer me the situation 'offhand.'"

The Montreal physicians have signed a temperance declaration to the effect that much human misery, disease, and crime is caused by the use of alcoholic liquors.

BREAKFAST.—EPPE'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Eppe has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills.—"Chil. Serice."—Made simply with Boiling Water or Milk. Each packet is labelled—"JAMES EPPE & CO., Homeopathic Chemists, London."

MANUFACTURE OF COCOA.—"We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Eppe & Co., manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Easton Road, London"—See article in Cassell's Household Guide. 3206mdw

PETRIE'S

NEW

DRUG STORE

Nearly opposite the Old Stand,

NOW OPEN.

Mr. PETRIE takes this opportunity to thank the Public for their large and liberal support during the seven years he has been in business in Guelph.

The New Store is the one formerly occupied by Mr. H. Berry, and lately by Mr. J. R. Fort, as a Confectionery Store. The store has been enlarged and refitted, making it a much more desirable place of business than the old stand.

Having secured the new store for a term of Ten Years, I hope, with the assistance of the Public, to prevent in the future as I have done during the past seven years, any monopoly in the Drug Trade in Guelph.

The old store will remain open for business until the first of May.

By conducting my business in the future in the same upright principle as in the past, I trust to receive a continuance of your generous support.

I am, yours very truly,

A. B. PETRIE.
