Chicago Hurlers Outclass Those of the McGraw Staff

Cicotte, Russell and Faber Are the Pitchers to Oppose New York's Left Handed Trio in the World's Series

New York, Oct. 2.—Shining superbly all season, despite the offsetting brilliance cast by the moundmen of Boston, Chicago's pitchers will go into the world's series backed heavily to hold off the McGraw sluggers and take the edge off anything that the New York flingers may be able to throw. Cicotte, Russell and Faber, the three of the left-hand defense, cast a brilliant reflection in the American League. As compared with National leaguers they attain heights that McGraw's men hardly will find it possible to reach.

Schupp, Benton and Salie, a trio of left-hand stars, will be the main defense of McGraw, but more than one critic expects Foll Perritt, right-hander, to prove the real pitching star for the Giants.

The Sox Don't Fear Southpaws

It has been stated that the White Sox will find the going hard against left-hand flingers, but no one ever has had the temerity to charge Eddie Collins and Joe Jackson, swingers from the south side, with any unusual fear of a left-side curve ball. Collins and Jackson have been making high-class hitting from every angle for so long they have come to take the left-handers as a matter of course and hit with equal agility against right and left-handers. "Hap" Felsch does his batting from the right-hand side, so the Comiskey heavy artillery will be well protected against the left-handers.

It is probable Rowland will send Cicotte in to open against the Giants, leaving Faber for the second day's struggle, with Russell for the third game. These three pitchers should be able to work in rotation. Two games will be played in each city, with a jump to follow. A full day has to be allowed for travelling, so Cicotte, starting the series, would have a two-day rest.

The same principle holds good for McGraw, with Benton probably to start, Salie to follow and Schupp to pitch the third game. It is likely that one of these will be shot from the box—probably Salie, and that would mean right-handed relief—possibly Tesserau or Anderson. Nobody would be left but Perritt.

Perritt May Start Again

The former Cardinal stands the best chance of beating the Sox, but it isn't considered at all likely that McGraw will use him unless forced to do so by failure of his southpaws. Next to Perritt stands Benton and then Schupp. Salie, on the face of the season's running, should stand fourth in effectiveness against the American League champions.

Cicotte will prove a tough proposition for the Giants, if he is in the right kind of form. Figuring Benton to start against him, the battle should be finely drawn, with plenty of action. With Salie starting the second game, Faber should find it not a hard matter to win his game. And if Schupp starts in the third contest, Russell probably will prove more than a match for him. Russell's case is perplexing. If he isn't just right he won't be given a shot at the series, for his arm is one of the kinks in the only works right on occasions. If he is in condition he will be practically unbeatable.

The second line defenses of the two clubs also give an edge to the White Sox, with Danforth and Williams, Tesserau, Anderson and Perritt will form that line for the Giants, with Perritt the only one who has shown championship effectiveness.

The three left-handed stars of the Giants top the list in National league averages, while Russell is the only regular who has accumulated a top average for Chicago. The reason is found in the number of games the hurlers have appeared in. Cicotte, for instance, has worked in more than 45 pastimes, and has won about 25 of them. Not a New York hurler approaches that service.

NEW YORK SURE THAT GIANTS WILL WIN THE SERIES

But the Best They Will Give Is Even Money on the Result

New York, Oct. 2.—As regards the world's series, the fans here in New York, judging from the talk in hotel lobbies, subway trains, etc., think the Giants will knock "an fist" but if one wants to bet a bit of cash, it seems even money is the best to be obtained.

However, there is no doubt that New York right down in its heart, which means the belief of the fan from the lowest seat side to Tomkers, is convinced that the Giants outclass Chicago.

It was estimated that $12,000 was bet on the curb yesterday at even money. One broker here has $10,000 to bet on the Giants. Another has $10,000 to wager on the Sox at even money. Still another has $10,000 to lay in a $11,000 bet on the Giants. Percy Guard, who handles the big commissions here, is laying to 5 that the White Sox will win the opening game.

The Gotham sporting critics look for a tough series and a long one.

MATTY MISSING FROM THE GIANTS' TEAM—THIS YEAR

Seems Strange That Giants Could Start in Big Series Without Old Master

It does not seem quite in order that John McGraw's New York Giants would start in a world's series without Christy Matheson, "Matty," the grand old master of the Giants for many years, and Matty it was who always gave his manager the best of everything he had.

When passing, don't forget that in 1905 Matty blanked the Athletics in three games, a feat never before accomplished, and a feat that has not even been imitated since. He was the master of them all and none knew it better than John McGraw.

Heine Zimmerman has been in one world's series before, 1916. He subbed for Johnny Evers that year, as previous to the big clash, Evers was nearly killed in an auto accident.

Tesserau and Demaree took part in the world's series of 1912 and 1913 as members of the team which they now represent. "Steamer" AV gets back to his first love just in time to get a slice of the big melon.

George Burns, the peer of National league outfielders, took part in the 1913 world's series. He was a member of the Giants then as now and played against the Athletics that year.

Fletcher and Herzog played with the Giants in the world's series of 1911, 1912 and 1913. They are veterans now as they were veterans then, but have enhanced their value by their experience and their refusal to "go back."

Eddie Collins, the sole member of the White Sox who has had world's series experience, was a member of the famous
