Brussels, July 22.—The finest showing at the exhibition here is made by France, Great Britain being a good second and Germany third; but the exhibition of the United States is most melancholy. There is an amazing display of cheap and shabby furniture, labeled as made in obscure western towns. There is a creditable display of American roots, agricultural implements and bicycles. In fact, the lastnamed exhibits excel those of all the other countries. Almost all the leading American exhibitors have criticisms to make.
