The Eager Populace of Munro, La., WIII Look in Vain for Cobb When the Detroit Team Arrives.

Detroit, Jan. 27.-Unless Ty Cobb changes his mind, there will be wailing and gnashing of teeth among the fans of Monroe, La., and some of the other cities visited by the Tigers in the spring training period. The reason for all this approaching sadness is that the Peach declares he will not go south this year until about April 1. If he adheres to this programme, he will not be seen at Monroe at all, but will pick up the Tigers somewhere in the vicinity of Birmingham. This will cut Monroe. New Orleans and Mobile off the star's calling list and will mean a very considerable reduction in the revenue that might be derived from the exhibitions in those cities were Ty to appear in the line-up.

If such a state of things can be imagined, Cobb is even more popular in the south than he is in Detroit, Thousands of fans below the Mason and Dixie line go to the exhibition games for no other purpose than to view the wonderful southern athlete in action. It will be useless for the Tigers' management to point out that Cobb isn't the whole team cities visited by the Tigers in the spring

Cobb's reason for not going south until late is simply that he doesn't believe that he needs the work. He never has any trouble in keeping his weight down to the proper figure, and says that he requires only about a week's practice in hitting to give him an eye for judging the flight of a pitched ball. As for fielding, he finds that the knack of catching fly balls and stopping grounders does not leave him during the winter.

Ruthless Methods Attacked by Opposition and Minister Monk Promises an Investigation.

Ottawa, Jan. 266. - The "evidence" upon which the Government is conducting its official guillotine on civil servants suffered a severe expose tonight in the Commons, when the Nova Scotia public building estimates were under discussion.

Mr. Sinclair (Guysboro) renewed his request for information regarding the cause of the dismissal of Roderick Sutherland, janitor of the postoffice at Canso. This man, Mr. Sinclair stated, was dismissed without notice, and he and his family put out, to find his successor and his furniture waiting at the doorstep.

Monk produced the Hon. Mr. papers, which Mr. Sinclair read to the House. No charge had been preferred against Sutherland other than a letter to the Postmaster-General from George A. Pyche, which started by cluded by informing Hon. Mr. Pelle-

COPY OF A LETTER RECENTLY RECEIVED Fred M. Brock, City.

Dear Sir: I must acknowledge with a thousand thanks the receipt of payment of Transcona Lots, which you sold for me recently. When I consider the fact that after only twelve months from the date of investing in these lots they were sold at an advance of one hundred and thirty-eight per cent, less 5 per cent which your company charged as commission on the transaction, it was certainly a most fortunate deal for me.

With all good wishes for your success, Believe me, Yours sincerely, asked Sir George Gibbons. Ald. Wright answered in the negative saying that the figures would be obtained shortly. The dicussion was merely on the principle of the thing. A Great Asset.

Mr. J. I. A. Hunt declared the road to be a great asset to the city, although t was not carrying the freight that it hould. It was a rate maker. He was afraid that the electrification would interfere with the heavy freight carrying business.

In speaking of the grain trade, it was pointed out that a more favorable rate could be obtained by way of Goderich than by Port Stanley. "I know what I am going to say is not popular, but I think it is right," said Mr. Hunt. "It would not be a bad thing for the city if the Grand Trunk or the C. P. R. were given the operation of the road. Pair of Robbers Clean Out a Vancouver Branch Office

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 26. - The Royal Bank of Canada branch, at the corner of Main street and Seventeenth avenue, was literaly cleaned out of all its cash by two robbers at eleven Boards. The amount of loot secured by the robbers is unknown, because A. A. Steeces, manager of the branch, refuses to make a statement. It is, however, estimated that between $1,000 and $5,-000 was taken. Instead of going out the way they entered, the two men unlocked the back door, and made their exit that way. So far as can be learned no one saw the men enter the bank or saw them leave, but the door to the back of the building is always kept locked, and when the clerks recovered from their shock it was found that the door was open, and there were the footprints of two men in the lane behind. Later it was reported that the men had turned down the lane and made their way to Sixteenth avenue, down which street they had turned toward the east. A little boy stated to the detectives on the case that about fifteen minutes after the bank is supposed to have been held up he saw two men running down Sixteenth avenue. As soon as the robbers had left the bank two men who had been shut up in the vault hurried out and gave the alarm. Harrison was still lying on the floor where the robbers had struck him down, but he soon revived, and was taken to a nearby pharmacy, where a clerk gave him a stimulant which completely restored him. He was presumably suffering as much from shock as from anything else, as when he revived no marks except a slight lump on the head were found upon him. No arrests are in sight yet.

The first thing Hugh McBreen did as a magnate at Jersey City was to sell Pitcher Hugh Bedient to the Boston Red Sox for a price said to be $10, 000 in cash or players. Jersey City bought Bedient from John L Taylor $750 and thought so little of him that it loaned him to Providence for the season. McAleer thinks him
