Seventh Game, If Necessary, Will Be Played in Hamilton.

Special to The Advertiser.

Hamilton, Sept. 20. — While the largest crowd of three years worked itself into a state of frenzy, creating a pandemonium that was never rivalled even in the championship series of 1922, the Clippers turned the tables on the London Tecumsehs there on Saturday. On Friday it was the Tecs who fought viciously to come from behind and even the series, and on Saturday the Wetzel crew refused to go down under the same sort of battle by the visitors. They came on to overcome a one-They came on to overcome a one-Hamilton. They came on to overcome a onerun lead in the seventh and again in the ninth; finally winning by a belated rally in the tenth. The score was President Halligan tossed the coin to decide where the seventh game of the series will be played if it should become necessary. President Carroll won the toss, here. The sixth game will be played here. The sixth game will be played in London, Tuesday. To "Chief" Froman fell the honor breaking up the duel that had been bitterly contested in every one of the previous innings. Heroes were made at every turn, and the chill wind that wrapped the field and stands in the first touch of fall passed unnoticed first touch of fall passed unnoticed as the Chadwickian gladiators feinted and fought with all the pent-up enthusiasm resultant from the headong dash through two series of the Mint schedule and the season-long rivalry between the two Canadian clubs, which will make the series the greatest in the history of the league.

It was Froman, who previously had been held in complete subjection by Yonkers Bill Coogan, who came through with the blow that meant through with the blow that meant victory. With two men out and the score led at three all and Bashang on second base, there as the result of a surprise bunt that caught the Lonaurica surprise bunt that caught the score as the surprise bunt that caught the Lonaurica surprise bunt that caught the score are surprised bunt the score are on second base, there as the result of a surprise bunt that caught the London infield off guard and a sacrifice by Roper. Froman went after two strikes before he lifted a sharp breaking curve in center field to send Bashang clattering across the plate with the winning tally. It was a with the winning tally. It was a Texan leaguer that fell just right

With the Londoners playing ster-ling ball behind him. Coogan had held the locals helpless before his hewildering delivery for restriction bewildering delivery for seven long innings. The chirps had been helped to a lone tally in the third by laxity of the Hamilton outfield, and You samed a lone tally in the third by laxity of the Hamilton outfield, and Yongers Bill appeared unbeatable as he mowed the Clippers down almost on the seventh, when the Ward of the bag.

Wernke disappeared from the battle when a pinch hitter swang for him in this inning, and Judd set the Tees down in the tenth, but Coogan was still in the battle, and Froman's winning hit was not so much the result of any deficiency in Coogan's pitching as a real "break" for the winners.

Both Coogan and Wernke had staged a worthy duel for eight innings. Wernke should have held the cs scoreless, and Coogan was just as deserving. Everything was attempted by either team. thing was attempted by either teaching all the inside strategy of the game, was varied temptingly by surprise plays that were counteracted by sensational spurts of defensive fighting that drew cheer after cheer or left the crowd silent and suppressed. Vermilyea's lone erro started trouble for Coogan in the seventh, but it was forgivable, for the fleet infielder had made a great stop of a hard-hit ball and threw high to Cross in a desperate attempt to get the runner. Browern's error, the only other charged to the Tecs, was given when he momentarily fumbled a hard-hit drive and allowed Hamilton runner to advance an-

Vermilyea's error was discounted by his work in the third, when Lon-don scored their first run. Whitey had led off with a double to deep left center, and after Coogan had sacri-ficed him to third, he waited until Sandquist had rolled out to Riley and then scored on Baker's long single to left, which should have been a two-base knock. LOCALS SNAPPY

The London seniors took another step

The London seniors took another step toward the senior provincial finals by defeating Niagara Falls' nine at Tecumseh park Saturday, by a score of to 3. The general impression was this would be but a short step, but the locals had to wear their seven-league boots to step over the Niagara Falls representatives, who not only overcame a faltering start, but steadled down and played nearly as smart baseball as the locals.

A big crowd saw the combat, and when the locals grabbed a three-run lead in the first inning, settled down to see some long and lusty swatting with perhaps a burlesque finish. Up until the sixth inning the visitors were hitting with abandon if not timeliness, but as their defensive work grew more polished, their offensive fell off and Down was able to hold them to one lone hit in the last four innings.

Bova started off poorly with the muscle-bound delivery and offerings that looked like a football coming up to the plate. He kept making the ballook smaller and increasing the speed and allowed the Londoners but four scattered hits in the last four innings.

scattered hits in the last four innings.

Good Defensive.

The teams both played nice defensive ball, but two errors being credited, and neither of these figured in any of the tallying. The London infield perhaps made the more spectacular plays, one after another of the inner works providing thrills. Armstrong at the danger sack, accepted eight chances without a slip and at least three of them were hard ones in which he had to play the ball perfectly and then cut the runner down with a perfect throw.

On the day's play the locals seemed to have a little edge at every point on the field, and the fans have every confidence that they'll be in the finals by Wednesday.
