Your cough, like a dog's bark, is a sign that there is something foreign around which shouldn't be there. You can quiet the noise, but the danger may be there just the same. Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil is not a cough specific; it does not merely allay the symptoms but it does give such strength to the body that it is able to throw off the disease.

You know the old proverb of "the ounce of prevention?" Don't neglect your cough.

ALMOST A MIRACLE

OTTAWA, Sept. 9th, 1896. To the Phrenoline Medicine Co., Ltd., Otlawa,

GENTLEMEN,—I hardly know how best to express my appreciation of your valu-able rheumatic remedy, Phrenoline. My son Gordon, who is 9 years old, has been a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism for the past two years; was so had at times that he had to be carried about on a mattrass; was attended by two city doc-tors apparently without the slightest benefit; spent 10 days at Caledonia Springs, came home with no marked im-provement; took three bottles of a Homeopathic remedy now being exten-sively advertised, which did not relieve him in the least. I was beginning to give up sively advertised, which did not relieve him in the least. I was beginning to give up all hope of his recovery, when by chance I mentioned the case to a friend who strongly advised me to give Phrenolme a trial. I did so, with the result that when my boy had taken only half a bottle he was able to get on to his bicycle and ride fike any other boy around the block. I certainly feel that I cannot say too funch in praise of your medicine, and much in praise of your medicine, and shall do all I can to make known its value Yours very sincerely, (Signed) REUBEN CLARK. to others.

1826. Oct. 14. Thermometer ranging from 55 to 63. Grass still growing and looking like spring. Busy husking corn. The neighbors around used to husk for a bushel of apples per day and their victuals, but none came this year as apples are be-coming more plentiful and cheaper. Oct. 21. One or two frosty mornings have stripped the trees of their leaves, except the beech and a few others. Read to day in the newspapers that the wheat sent from Canada to England arrived in a damaged state. Col. Talbot's this year is in fine condition. I weighed a bushel this spring of last years growth which gave 62 lbs. to the Winchester bushel. Nov. 1. Having closed my engagement with Col. Talbot I started off for York, but found the roads in bad condition for walking, from the recent rains and the coustomary road making, where the country is new the road is made in soft places by laying logs crosswise, this makes a solid but rough road, so in older sections the road is now made by ploughing the sides and drawing the dirt into the middle with a large shovel with a handle, called a scraper. Four men and two yoke of oxen with plough and scraper can round up more road in a day this way than 20 men by digging. When getting very tired I was overtaken in the evening by an elderly man who procured me a night's lodging in a comfortable log house, with one of the earliest settlers in the place. The settlers in the woods are the most independent and containing two rooms, one above and one below, sometimes only one, below, with a large open fireplace and a log fire. The oriationing two rooms, one above and one below, sometimes only one, below, with a large open fireplace and a log fire. The oristed out of the creek or off the farm, a barded floor, unplaned, perhaps, if too far from the mild only hew slabs, a small sash window, the panes 7 by 9 it may be, an dometimes no window at all ; doors and fays with wooden hooks and hinges. A few articles of common household utensils, two spinning wheels, one for flax and one picked out of the creek or rew steers and sneep every year the farmer lives happy and manages to make ends meet and lay by something for a "rainy day." Nov. 2. Bid my friend good-bye and thanked him for my supper and bed, as he would not take any money. Called at a tavern for breaktast, was told the landlord had gone to the ,mill with a grist and there could be no bread got till he came back, while the landlady was gone to gossip with a neighboring woman. Called on an English farmer from Gloucester, who lives on a rented farm near Catfish Creek. He had seen better days, but was hanling up logs with a yoke of oxen. Overtaken today by an Englishman on horseback, now residing in Ancaster. He is canvassing the country for subscribers to a weekly news-paper he is going to publish. Stopped all night at Loder's tavern. Some smart lasses living near by came in during the evening, most of them took a smoke with the landlord and the landlady, passing the short black pipe from one to another. Nov. 3. Passed through the pine woods again and breaktasted at Umstead's tavern, chrrge 1s. 6d. New York currency, thus is the usual charge in the west and 3½d. for bed. Sovereign's tavern at the lower end of Talbot street is one of the best in the whole length, it is kept by a civil obliging son of a Dutchman who, has a good new farm house and barns in connection. His wife, about 30 years, is seldon long without her pipe, and a young girl of about 18 came for a pound of tobacco (of the landlord's own raising) to break herself into the custom of the neighborhood. In the even-ing a Jersey waggon drove up to the tavern to take the landlord and his wife to a "paring bee," that is, an assemblage of neighbors invited to one house to prepare apples for drying. Nov. 4. Snow and sleet all day, a con-trast to vesterday which was fine. Passed banks, but lease out to white people for a term of years. Walked forward to Ancaster and dined at a tavern where a bill was stuck up informing the public that a Yankee show would be exhibited there to-morrow, among other things would be "the glorious victory over the British at New Orleans." Stopped at Vanderlip's tavern, 3 miles from Ancaster, he said he had three sons in the battle of Queenston. Govern-ment and military officers have been here looking out an elegible situation for fortif-cations. Cash given for grain and farm produce make this place more thriving than places arther west, wheat is now 28. 64d, per bushel. Some farmers have from 1200 to 1400 bushels this year, and yet employ but little hired help. Ancaster is a large thriving and handsome village with some good buildings, good houses and a neat new church situated on the brow of the hill. There are two distilleries, a brew house and a large mill, with other public works. This place I am told mostly be-longs to one of four brothers, Scotchmen, of the name of Crooks, who have all been members of the Colonial Assembly. The village is approached on a level from the west but on arriving in it you find it is really on an eminence or mountain edge, and must be in summer both a beautiful and really on an eminence or mountain edge, and must be in summer both a beautiful and healthy place to live in.

LITERARY NOTES.

The Prince of Wales at Short Range.

George W. Smalley will contribute an article on "The Personal Side of the Prince of Wales" to the July Ladies' Home Journal. It is said that Mr. Smalley gives Journal. It is said that Mr. Smalley gives a uniquely interesting, close view of the Prince, touching in detail upon his great personal popularity in England, and the reasons therefor, his love of sports, his pastimes, his social duties and diversions, and showing him as an affectionate son, a devoted father and brother.

All the Nine are Brothers.

All the Mine are Brothers. Portsmouth, Ohio, June 10.—This city probably contains the most unique baseball olub in the country. It consists solely of the Dodds brothers, whose ages range from seventeen to thirty-six years. The youngest is Frank Dodds, who is the regular pitcher, and he has shown remarkable ability for the position. The club ranks second only to the regular professional club, and in a recent game with it was beaten only by the score of 3 to 2. All of the young men are carpenters and play ball only for pleasure. They have christened their club the Polar Bears.

"paring bee," that is, an assemblage of neighbors invited to one house to prepare apples for drying. Nov. 4. Snow and sleet all day, a con-trast to yesterday which was fine. Passed through ten miles of woods, pine and sandy oak plains, chiefly belonging to United Empire Loyalists. Passed some oak plains with so few trees on them that if the brush-wood were moved off, they would look like immense parks. A few small villages as Waterford, Sincoce and Dover with 15 or 30 houses scattered at no great distance along these plains. Breakfasted at a house of "entertainment," that is a house having no tavern license. You eat and drink whiskey if you choose, the whiskey bottle is sitting on the table but they charge for the food only, you add a perquisite for the drink. At taverns whiskey is 34d. per gill, or 500 per cent. profit; by the gallon the gill is about a half penny. License taverns in the province are still high. Taverns pay according to situation, which is settled yearly by the magistrates at from six dollars to twenty-five dollars, while eating breakfast men and women came flocking in from all directions, the women to have a "quilting bee," and the men a "husking bee," a sheep had been killed for their entertainment.
