The Breeding of Horses

(Sussex Record)

That good horses pay has been proved over and over again by leading breeders and dealers in Ontario. At the big New York house show, which is one the society events of the continent, Canadian horsemen have, in late years, won many distinctions. Last week they captured many first honors in the classes in which they were competitors and had no difficulty in disposing of their winners at high figures. This sort of thing has been going on for some years. The Ontario farmer has come to the realization that good horses pay and has been devoting considerable attention to improving the horse-flesh on his farm. It is from among this class of horses that many high priced equines have been purchased by leading dealers who have fitted the animals and then disposed of them in New York at fancy prices, after winning much fame and valuable awards in competition with the best breeders of the United States. In last week's bout Canadians swept the field in Clydes, and won distinction in the big fair at Seattle a Canadian swept driving and hunting classes. At the the boards in the Percheron classes and Canada has been represented in the trotting and pacing world by some of the fastest horses on the American circuit during the past two years, the products of Ontario farms. The commanding position now occupied by Ontario was not won in a day. It has required years of scientific breeding to get the results arrived at. Good horses have been brought in to the province and a foundation laid from high-class animals, the best in America, have been produced. There is no reason why New Brunswick cannot reach a similar goal. Possibly we are too impatient in the matter of the improvement of our horses. The stock hereabouts is badly run down and often a breeder expects too much from a poor dam and a high-class stallion. Only the succeeding generations bred in turn to high-class animals can be looked to for progeny equal to the best Ontario horses. The American horse-breeder, the highest authority on trotting and pacing stock in the world, points out in each issue, that in order to get good stock the blood of the thoroughbred is necessary. The Horse Breeder is responsible for the statement that no great race horse has been campaigned in the United States for years, which has not shown a full measure of thoroughbred within three or four generations. That has been the history of Ontario in her campaign for the best horses and it is blood that New Brunswick needs. Everybody knows that good horses, animals that will stand right up to hard driving, are scarce in this province. When they can be secured, good prices are realized for them. Within a few months several importations of high-class stock will be brought to New Brunswick by private dealers. The animals are to be sold at St. John and every purchaser will be assured of good stock. The mares will have been bred to pure bred animals and in this way there will be a further acquisition to the horseflesh of the province. Purchases may be made conditionally or unconditionally as the buyer desires. He may, under the former arrangement, secure assistance from the local government to the extent of having freight paid to point of delivery on the understanding that the animal must remain in the province for five years, or he may buy, pay the freight and then be in a position to sell when and where he chooses. The first importation is to be a lot of Clydes, mares and stallions. Other breeds will follow later. An effort should be made to get some of these animals for Kings county, either through private buyers or agricultural societies. It is necessary to do so if we want good horseflesh and no sane man will deny that we are badly in need of just that commodity.

Why He Deals Home

A physician in a town in the American West recently received a personal letter from one of the Chicago mail-order houses in which his patronage was solicited. This eloquent appeal concluded as follows:

"If there is any reason why you do not buy of us, please give us your reasons in the enclosed stamped envelope and we will strive to remove the cause."

The forcible reply of the physician in which a loyal stand on behalf of the home town was taken, was as follows:

"Your letter asking why I had not traded with you for a long time received, and as you ask me to tell you frankly, I will give you a few reasons: "1. I am in business in this community and am looking to this community for my support. I cannot ask the merchants of this town for their support if I do not give them mine."

"2. In looking over my book I fail to find the name of either your company's officials, which reminds me that none of these gentlemen have evaded given me a penny's patronage. Why is this? Am I too far away, or have neither of them needed a physician, or are they afraid of the mail-order plan when it comes to the practice of medicine? I can certainly give as good satisfaction by mail as your house can, and will appreciate a call from either of them when in need of medical service."

"3. In looking over the subscription lists for improving our streets and public highways, I have failed to find the name of any member of your firm down for one penny to assist in the work. Also, I have failed to find your name on any of the charity lists where help has been rendered to our poor; in other words, you are not down as a contributor to our Helping Hand Society. In fact, in all the movements for the betterment of our condition, where our community has needed the united efforts of her public spirited citizens, I have failed to find your name among the list of our contributing merchants. Your name is not on our city tax books, nor do I find where you have paid a city license to do a mercantile business in competition with our home merchants. "These are a few answers to your questions, and I trust you will see the justice of them."

HEALTH, WEALTH, AND WORK.

So long as Nature's laws require that mankind shall work, the necessity of keeping one's self in health and strength is of first importance. Many people believe that men of great wealth do nothing. That is a mistaken idea. They may not work with hammers or shovels, but they work with their nerves, brains and minds. Scores of millionaires have worked themselves into nervous prostration in their efforts to control, to avoid losing, their millions. But it is the humble workers who suffer most. Mr. Arves Beren, of Robertson, Gloucester Co., N. B., is a sturdy man of 65, who works in the lumbering districts in winter, and who, therefore, must have good health. Some years ago, he suffered much from Dyspepsia, with headaches, dizziness and rheumatism. In a statement, dated June 24th, '09, he says he used only Mother Seigel's Syrup and four bottles cured him completely.

DULL TIMES IN THE STATES.

At a meeting of the Georgia Industrial Association held at Atlanta, attended by prominent cotton-mill men from all parts of the state, it was decided to curtail production by reducing the operating time of cotton mills of the state 25 per cent. This action affects 150 mills.

It was declared that the mills face critical conditions in view of the wide difference in the prices of raw and manufactured cotton. For two months or longer the mills will operate on three-fourths time, the curtailment to continue after January 2, providing the price of cotton goods does not advance to a point where the mills can operate without sustaining a loss. Following the plan of curtailing production of manufactured goods in this country and abroad, owing to the prevalent high price of cotton, the management of the Everett, Mass., mills announce that the plant will shut down for the week on Thursday night, and that beginning on Monday Nov. 1, until further notice, the mills will run on a schedule of fifty hours weekly, a curtailment of two hours daily. Twelve hundred hands will be affected. The mill consumes about 150,000 pounds of cotton a week.

Joker's Corner

HARDLY FOR IMMEDIATE USE.

On the day the boy was 11 years old he visited an artist friend. The artist liked boys. He gave him a gun and cigarette coupons worth $2.50. The boy was proud of the gun, but he thought still more of the coupons. "What are you going to get with them, son?" asked his mother. "I don't know," said the boy. His mother was about to offer a few suggestions, but the boy's father interfered.

"Just let Jim alone," he said. "Let him pick out his own prize. He knows what he wants." "But he'll get something foolish," argued the practical mother. "No, he won't," said the father. "That boy's got the best judgement of any boy I ever saw. He won't throw his money away. He'll come home with something useful—something that he needs right on the spot. I wouldn't be afraid to bet on that." So the mother finally gave in. On Saturday the boy went downtown to exchange his coupons for a prize. When he came home the family was gathered at the dinner table talking about him.

"Come, dear," said his mother, "show mother what her little man got." They sat expectant while the boy unwrapped his prize. After a little they spoke. The mother said: "What did I tell you?" and the father said: "Well, I'll be darned!" The boy had bought a razor.

NOVEL ARGUMENT WON

At an important state function in London, blue tickets were issued to persons of high rank, admitting them to that part of the hall reserved for members of the royal family. Less distinguished guests were given white tickets. Through some mistake, an important public man received a blue card while his wife received a white one.

When the couple reached the audience chamber, there began to be trouble, inasmuch as the lady firmly declined to be separated from her husband. An aide endeavored to reason with her, pointing out the dreadful consequences that would follow a mingling of blue and white. "How absurd!" exclaimed the lady. "What do you take us for—a Seidnitz powder?" She was permitted to enter with her husband.

THE CAMPAIGN FUND AGAIN

A political office in a small town in Iowa was vacant. The office paid two hundred and fifty dollars a year, and there was keen competition for it. The Democratic candidate, Ezekiel Hicks, was a shrewd old fellow and a neat campaign fund was paid over to him. To the astonishment of all, however, he was defeated.

"I cannot account for it," said one of the Democratic leaders gloomily. "With that money, we should have won. How did you lay it out, Ezekiel?"

"Well," said Ezekiel, slowly pulling his whiskers, "yer see, that office only pays two hundred and fifty dollars a year salary, an' I didn't see no sense in payin' nine hundred dollars out to get the office, so I just bought me a little truck-farm instead."

TRAPPED

"No, I don't go to church very often," a young man declared to the girl whom he had accompanied to a house of worship Sunday evening. "but when I do go I make up for my absences by slipping a five dollar gold piece in the offering."

"I don't think I have been to church in six months, so that sort of squares me," he whispered, when he dropped a coin about the size of the five-dollar piece in the box as the usher passed it.

At the close of the service the minister arose and announced: "The collection for foreign missions this evening amounted to $326."

The young man didn't have much to say on the homeward walk.

He Passed Through The Fiery Furnace

WORKMEN IN PULP MILL, MILTON, N. S., HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM HORRIBLE DEATH

A workman in the big pulp works, at Milton, Queens County, had a narrow escape from a horrible death at that place one day last week says the Truro Sun. During the greater part of the day he had been engaged, with others, unloading a car, or cars, of coal; his clothes becoming drenched by rain that fell steadily during the time he was at work. When the task was completed he went to the boiler to warm and dry himself. Attached to the boiler is an arched brick flue. When wet and cold certain employees had been in the habit of standing on the arch of the flue, which is always quite warm. They had been frequently warned that it was not safe to do this, but this warning the man in question did not heed, with the result that the arch gave way, and he dropped into the flue filled with flames. The engineer noticing that something was wrong, turned on more draught, thus causing a greater amount of flame to rush into the flue. This not making any change for the better he started to investigate, and was startled when he met the victim of the accident with his face as black as the ace of spades, the hair nearly all burned from his head and with nothing on but his under clothing and his boots, the latter burned to a crisp. The man's clothing had been burned away to the underclothing, which, by the way, happened to be Stanfield's unshrinkable. Strange to say, the man was not severely injured. There were burns on his hands, his knees and his feet. He said he had passed through a terrible few minutes while fighting his way out of the flames.

TORTURED BY PILES

Could not Rest! Could not Work! Could not Play,

How Zam-Buk Brought Relief

Mr. Julius Glacier, of Denbigh, Ont., says:—"I was so tortured by piles that I could not get ease whether lying down, sitting or standing. The ailment robbed me of strength, of appetite, and of all desire to live! I had suffered so long and so acutely that I came to think there was no ease for me, but one day I found out that I was wrong! "I was told that Zam-Buk cured piles, and that this balm was altogether different to ordinary ointments scores of which I had proved useless for bad a case as mine was. I got a supply of Zam-Buk, and began to use it regularly. "Without going into unnecessary details in a few weeks I found myself cured. I owe my cure to Zam-Buk entirely, and I trust my experience will be the means of leading other sufferers to try this great herbal balm."

Nothing need to be added to this plain, powerful testimony save one question—if you suffer like Mr. Glacier did, why not get relief from the same source as he did?

Zam-Buk—as he truly says—is "something different" to the ordinary ointments and salves. It is a powerful combination of healing and soothing herbal essences. No mineral astringents or poisons; no impure animal fats.

It is a proved cure for inflamed areas (as in piles) erysipelas, eczema, ulcers, sores, abscesses, cold cracks, chapped hands, burns, cuts, scalp sores, and all skin injuries and diseases. It is the most suitable balm for children's rashes. All Druggists and Stores at 50c. box or post-free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price

A little girl came to her mother with a plaint that her shoe hurt her. The mother looked at the little foot and asked the child where it hurt, and then demanded alcohol. This being at hand, she thoroughly saturated the child's shoe over the part where the hurt was, using her fingers and pressing them gently on the shoe. The remedy eased the child's pain, and the mother said that she always used it to loosen a tight shoe. For either kid or canvas shoes the treatment was the best where the shoe could not be put on a last.
