THE BOY'S OWN PAPER.

This delightful work is read, not only by boys, but by their fathers and mothers, as the information therein is such that while tending to make boys eminently useful, it is a great help to those in advance of childhood. While teaching how work is to be done in the most profitable manner, it directs boys not only to play, but in the most enjoyable one, but to make their own pastime subservient to instruction. Each part contains 64 to 80 large quarto pages, with an average of 100 illustrations, many of them chromos of a superior class.
