The death of Mr. Joseph Livesey, a famous speaker and worker among the pioneers of the temperance movement, happily reminds a contemporary, says London Black and White, of the curious derivation of the word "tee-totalism." Joseph Livesey, albeit a fluent speaker when wound up to his subject, generally began in stammering and hesitating fashion, and indeed suffered in some measure from a natural impediment of speech. From this cause certain peculiarities of his diction led the irreverent jesters of that day to make no little fun out of his allusions to the blessings of t-t-t-total abstinence. The word became famous; t-t-t-total was in everybody's mouth, and finally, in its abbreviated form of tee-total, was gradually introduced into the English language. The old joke is long since dead, the result of it remains, and bibliographers a thousand years hence will, like enough, invent mystic and learned explanations as to its true derivation.

REV. ALEX. GILRAY, 91 Bellevue avenue, Toronto, has used Acetocura for eighteen years and recommends it for colds, sore throat and indigestion.
