

CONSTITUTION
OF
THE CANADIAN ASSOCIATION FOR THE STUDY
AND DISSEMINATION OF SOCIAL SCIENCE.

1. THE NAME—

The name of the Association shall be "The Canadian Association for the Study and Dissemination of Social Science."

2. THE OBJECTS OF THE ASSOCIATION—

(a) It shall be the first object of the Association, since we believe the time exceedingly opportune, to seek by every worthy means to promote the building up of a pure, strong and united Canadian nationality, irrespective of race or language.

(b) It shall be the second object of the Association to take special cognizance of our vital statistics, and endeavor to secure through the proper channels the fullest returns possible, so that our authorized statisticians may be able to approximate more accurately the ratio of our national progress.

(c) It shall be the third object of the Association to discuss questions which bear intimately upon the physical, intellectual and moral welfare of our people; to study the social status of the different nationalities inhabiting Canada, and the research of such reforms as shall promote the best interests of our common country.

(d) It shall be the fourth object of the Association to encourage and stimulate the dissemination of such literature among our families and public schools, as shall instruct the rising generations in the laws that relate to physical health, and in those principles of moral and social order which shall make them good, reliable members of society, and help them, as required by God's Holy law, "to glorify God in their bodies and their spirits which are His."
