

? ? ?

THE PRINCE.—But, after all, my dear Governor what is the real object of this celebration? I understand absolutely nothing about it.

LORL GREY.—Simply this, the French Canadians are celebrating the defeat of their ancestors.

IN THE BARBER SHOP

THE BARBER.—Your Highness should get his face clean shaven. It would look ever so much more English.