HAMILTON, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—While most of the local followers of Rugby, everyone who came from Toronto, and "experts" generally called the Argos, the Alerts were always confident of victory. In the first few minutes of play the O. R. F. U. winners surprised even their own followers by their aggressiveness and by their stonewall defence on the line.

Locked After Smirlie

The first time Hoss Craig, the leather man, hit the Argos' line for five yards the Alert supporters cheered wildly. A moment later, when the great Lawson was carried back several yards while holding the ball, the Hamilton partisans were thrown into a veritable frenzy of joy. Lawson was watched carefully, and from the first had no chance to tear off any of his terrific plunging runs. The much-touted speed of the Argos' line did not develop in the early—stages of the same, while Alerts' speed was most unexpected.

The thanks of the club are also due to Sir William Mulcok, who had most kindly presented a very handsome challenge cup, to be known as the Mulcok. The financial statement of the club, in spite of bad weather experienced both at the spring and autumn meetings, was most satisfactory.

The directors decided to remain at Woodbine Fark for the present and to place new stands there, the work to be undertaken at the conclusion of the next spring meeting.

It is the opinion that Leckie was the shining light in the battle. His kicking by far outclassed either Binkley or Clarke. He was a sure catch of the standard to the ship of the standard thruout.

THIPD RACE—Six furlongs, selling: inved up by the winss with speed and sureness which had the rabid fans on their tees.

Harper, the quarter, also played a very cool and heady game. But of all the performers Ross Craig deserved special mention. No line plunger of his callibre ever played such a game. He had the scullers always at his mercy and bored holes in their line time after time for the necessary yards. And with Craig's wonderful battering and the playing of the wings, backed up by a rear guard that for machinelike work, which roback division has shown for many mons Alerts could not help but pull out a victory. Argos' line was weaker than the Alerts. The wings were just as good, on the opposing team (Alerts), but Argos fell down heavily, on the back division, Lawson was held as in a vise by the Alert wings, something like Laing and Lewis held Jack Maynard at the capital.

Lawson never broke away for any great gains. He fumbled badly at times, as did Clarke and O'Connor. The latter boy was as tricky as ever, but he was up always against a stonewall. Jimmy Dissette played heady Rugby, but his onside kicks were already snatched up for losses. In the last quarter Argos died. Hamition naturally is rejoicing. Alerts won two championships and the Rough Riders one, which was a pretty large order for one day. They make real Rugby players in this city. 1. Melton Street, M1 (Loftus), 7 to 10.
