

THE EYES OF THE WORLD ARE LOOKING TOWARDS COBALT

Output for Camp for 1906 Estimate Up to $7,000,000

Within Few Weeks There Will Be 30 Mines Actively Engaged in Shipping Ore—Open Call Mining Exchange is Organized and in Operation—Large Area of District Not Yet Prospected.

Cobalt, March 29.—(Staff Special.)—To state in this district that the Cobalt camp is a permanent one is about as true a statement to make as it would be to state on the assertion that the earth is round.

Occasionally a skeptical stranger floats in who may bring some misgivings with his other paraphernalia, but an inspection of the working mines and a conversation with the well-informed, rapidly dispels any existing doubts.

The number of ore-shipping mines rapidly increases. The four or five of last spring soon grew to 22, and 30 will be the figure in a few weeks.

Big Output Expected.
A man of ripe experience in mining, and possessed of scientific attainments of a high order, who always brings into play a large fund of common sense in drawing his conclusions, in conversation with the World's Cobalt correspondent last night unhesitatingly expressed his firm belief that the output for 1906 of Cobalt camp would amount to $5,000,000 to $7,000,000.

These figures to the enthusiast will doubtless seem about half of what a proper estimate might or should be. It is a conservative estimate and should carry weight.

In view of the newness of the camp and the amount of amateur mining by comparatively inexperienced men so frequently found, it will be an enviable record.

In several of the mines shafts have been sunk to a depth varying from one to two hundred feet, and the underground developments have more than satisfied the expectations of the interested owners.

Surface Ore Rich.
The value of the ore comparatively near the surface were in many cases marvellously rich. A secondary enrichment occurs, which experience teaches seldom goes down more than three or four hundred feet, and it is an accepted postulate that the general tendency of all formations is to get poorer the farther down one works after a certain depth.

What is known as the Huronian formation is found in all this north country. It contains the veins that have made the Township of Coleman famous, and may go down four or five hundred feet. When the miners get thru this conglomerate into the schists it may peter out, and it may not.

Not Many Castles.
Money is to be made now, and all expect to be millionaires 20 years hence. The town is filled with men possessing a firm faith in the value and wisdom of living in the present.

At night the lights of the houses and shacks spread along the track for a mile, shine brightly, and the large buildings of the La Rose camp make a scene of brilliant illumination.

A mining exchange has been opened, known as the Cobalt Open Call Mining Exchange, with H. A. Barber as secretary-treasurer. The total $40,000 stock was subscribed within an hour. Thirty-three seats out of the fifty were applied for the first week. The first 25 seats applied for were sold at $50, and the second 25 are $100 apiece.

Hustling Methods.
Things are done here with a rapidity that causes strangers to gasp. A photograph of the new building was taken on Saturday, with musical accompaniment furnished on the organ by a much-decorated, if ill-lapidated-looking individual. As was fitting the opening of a financial enterprise of this, the richest reality in the Dominion, the musician in question had good credentials.

He was no less a personage than Rory MacDonald from the Isle of Skye, and late pupil to Andrew Carnegie of Skibo Castle. Differing from his superior on the question of phonetic spelling, Rory decided to come to America.

Being told that the people of Cobalt, if weak on some points, were strong in their spelling and language, the adventurous piper came hither.

Exchange Has Furniture.
The Mining Exchange will be fitted up in a style in keeping with the expectations of the work its promoters have for the future. Seats are provided for the members, and the secretary has a commodious private office at the entrance.

The rest of the building is devoted to offices, and two of Toronto's leading legal firms have already established themselves here, and if the business done is on a par with the signs decorating the outside, it will be large, indeed.

Real estate values are indicative of a boom—$75 for two small rooms in a monthly rental at present asked, but the completion of other buildings now in the course of erection will bring about a much desired reduction.

Mayor Milne yesterday secured an option on the large building built by Mrs. Legitt at $400. This carries with it only a squatter's title, and the building cost about $500. Visitors of last year on coming up this spring will bewail their many lost opportunities.

Prices Not High.
Are prices high at Cobalt? Is one question frequently asked. For a mining camp in a chaotic and transitional state they are not. Considering the temptation to sell large prices where the demand is great and supply limited, they are a marvel of cheapness.

At the Cobalt Hotel—a temperance house—meals are only 50 cents, and good meals can be got at the restaurant at the same price. Two dollars for a room per night is asked, and one had better telegraph ahead if he wishes to spend the night at Cobalt.

At present there is only one hotel, which was purchased by Messrs. Martin, Hunter & Marsh at a cost of $15,000, but Messrs. Maynor and Evans are building a new hotel.

Better P.O. Service.
In the stores no fancy prices are demanded. Improved postoffice accommodation is being arranged for. The mail matter to be handled here is very heavy, indeed. Cobalt master works miracles in accommodating the public the way he does.

Is there much drinking done? Is another query the newcomer habitually asks. Since Chief George Caldwell came up last August, he has secured strict enforcement of the liquor law. In no case where a complaint has been made has there been a failure to secure conviction, and the order of the town and personal security cannot be too highly commended.

When the bloodshed before the winter was over. Stores and poolrooms were wide open Sunday. The lid was off.

By the exercise of fact and determination to do his duty, peace and order are town.

The business men are in line with the chief, and should a rowdy element develop

Many adventures trips are offered to the seeker of startling experiences in this great north land, but Wm. Thomas Haysett has just returned from a trip attended with great excitement and danger, and many would care to undertake.

The entire trip was one in which both he and his companions risked their lives and limbs, and they were nearly killed.

Haysett is a mail carrier and takes the mail from New Leno to the Trans-continental Exploration and Survey parties working up in the Adirondic District.

The trip involved traveling a distance of 200 miles, and it took these two men over five weeks to reach the end of their journey.

Carrying Mail Dangerous.
Mothers, wives and sweethearts who anxiously await the arrival of mail from these far-distant places are little aware of what risk these hardy mail carriers perform their duty.

They left on Dec. 5 with the mails, three dogs attached to the sled, and carrying 200 lbs. of mail matter and supplies.

They took two dogs and went to Ironsides Falls on the Adirondic River. They then pushed on to Fifty-Mile Creek. Here the grub played out, and so did the men.

With nothing to eat, the winter blast of the north to face and no means to ward off the cold, the men had to go ahead and make a dog trail.

They took the line across the Fred. House River to Deception and Drift Creek, then on to Observation Peak. Then they went to the top of the mountain and from there to Grand Hog 23, getting to their journey's end on Jan. 13.

Transcontinental Survey.

Survey parties were visited in command of Engineers Hamming and Cotton, Hamming party, consisting of 8 men, worked west. The transcontinental survey lines are now about 140 miles from James Bay.

The men live in tents, heated by wood stoves. Each man is supplied with two pairs of heavy blankets and they are getting tired of winter.

The caches are well supplied with everything the men need, and if a good transport service is maintained, the winter, when the trails are good, they will lack for nothing during the spring and summer, when the trails are bad.

Untold Wealth.
Haysett, like many others who have been north, has a firm conviction that a great mineral wealth will be discovered in this great north land.

His belief is shared by many and at Ironsides Falls he found two Yankee prospectors camped for the winter, to be ready to get to work in the spring. One of the men, a cherty copper, are supposed to be around here.

On reaching the Metcalf on the return trip they found that Mr. McCurdy, the cache keeper for supplies there, was very sick. They looked after him and bought him down with them.

These mail carriers receive $40 per month and their supplies. In the spring both intend to go north on a prospecting trip.

Halleybury Notes.
The United Bank of Canada has decided to erect a building devoted exclusively to its banking interests.

By occupying the commanding position that Halleybury will occupy in this district by reason of its proximity to the mines and the natural advantages of its location on Lake Temiskaming, the bank authorities recently purchased a lot at the corner Broadway and Ferguson avenues.

They have let the contract to Miché-Haley of Smith's Falls for a $15,000 building.

It will be a three-story structure of sandstone and brick and will be completed in three months. The office will be on the ground floor with kitchen and dining room for the manager, who will occupy the second story.

The upper part will be fitted up as quarters for the staff, which will consist of five new men, a complete overhauling of the force having taken place.

Another Exchange.
A mining exchange is to be established here, conducted on the same basis as the one of the members regulating the cost of a seat.

Messrs. Whitley and Oliver, the enterprising mining brokers and real estate men, are the promoters. They have been in the town for nearly three years.

Second Bank Opened.
The Bank of Ottawa has opened a branch office in Halleybury, situated in the Fair Block, adjoining the office of the Halleybury Mining Recorder. Smith's office is also in this block. John R. Moffatt is the manager, having been sent here from Maxville.

A Diphtheria Patient.
The discovery that one of its occupants had diphtheria, has been under quarantine for several days. The case was of a mild type, but both the hotel and town authorities were determined that no danger should be incurred. The entire house has been fumigated and thrown open to traveling public.

F. B. Chapin and Other Toronto Men Purchase Coleman Property.

Cobalt, March 29.—(Star Special.)—The McKinnon and Dargach mine, one of the most valuable in Coleman, has been sold to F. B. Chapin and associates of Toronto. The price was in the neighborhood of $700,000, and the terms not cash.

This mine has already shipped over $200,000 worth of ore.

A mining claim in Cobalt, owned by Wm. E. B. of Port Arthur, J. B. Pardee of Sarnia, and J. H. McCaul of Sault Ste. Marie has been sold for $125,000 and an interest in the property to a Columbus, Ohio, syndicate, composed of Messrs. Mohler, Gobelet and Boulton.

The claim is 40 acres in extent, situated on Groulx Lake, and borders on the Foster, University, Lawson, Har- graves, and Jacobs properties. From this claim was taken many large nuggets. One of the nuggets weighed about 300 lbs., and another 225 lbs. Thirty nuggets weighed 50 lbs., and all were almost pure silver.
