As a "farm pupil," the lad com-mences by trudging along behind a plough for 12 or 13 hours a day, mik-ing the cows, grooming the stock, as-sisting in the repair of farm imple-ments, chopping wood and doing odd chores about the premises. Some times the premises. Some ments, chopping wood and doing odd chores about the premises. Some times he receives $4 or $5 a month durtimes he receives so or so a month dur-ing the summer season for his labor, but more often he finds that he has been apprenticed to the farmer at noth-ing per month, and a demand for wages is apt to bring about his im-mediate dismissal. It doesn't take many months of such a condition to discourse the young man and he inmany months of such a condition to discourage the young man and he in variably appeals for relief to the Cana-dian representation variably appeals for relief to the Cana-dian representative of his shippers-his foster father, so they told him. But very little encouragement is meted out to him from that source. He is told to remain where he is and be con-tent. If he is plucky he packs up his belongings and hunts up a farmer on his own account and finds employ-ment at from $15 to $20 per month, with ne more work to do and with

with no more work to do, and with a certain independence about his posi-tion that makes him feel that he is once more a human being and entitled to his share at least of the pure air of a great and promising country. Where i c Worm to ca early curus. That suits the emigrative man wishing to learn farming and eventually to be able to start farm-ing op his own account. I went and received information from the above-mentioned association. I saw Mr. At-kinson there, and he gave me a glow-ing account of farm pupil life in Can-ada. On my next visit I saw Mr. Todd the secretary, and Mr. Todd was also profuse in his encouragement to me regarding the fine time I would have in the winter, only very little work to do-feeding and watering cat-tle and a few minor details. After those few details were completed I would have lots of sport in spearing fish through the ice skating, sleighing, tobogganing and attending winter par-ties and sports in general. This talk of Mr. Todd's was only a repetition of Mr Atkinson's statements, which im-pressed me that life in Canada was Mr Atkinson's statements, which im-pressed me that life in Oanada was pressed me that life in Oanada was one round of pleasure, which to my mind far surpassed a student's life in Oxford or Cambridge; in fact, my friends all envied me, and only wished that they could accompany and revel with me in the bliss that was in store. My father and I talked the matter over, and my father asked me if I was satisfied to go to Canada. I told him that I was; in fact, I was only too anxious for him to complete arrange-ments for me.

ments for me. Before finally deciding, my father and mother asked them for reference, and they gave Mrs. Stone, a lady residing in London, and my mother had an in-terview with her, and her knowledge of the farm pupil business only ex-tended to a friend of hers, who had a son who came out as a "pupil" from the above association. She gave a fa-vcrable account, and so impressed my parents that it was finally agreed that parents that it was infaily agreed that my father was quite willing to part with his 21 British pounds, and I was fo come to Canada. I am quite satis-fiel now that Mrs. Stone was in league with Atkinson and Todd. I arrived in Toronto Sept. 22 last, and took my in-structions from F. F. McArthur, super-interdent of the sold society, who sent structions from F. F. McArthur, super-intendent of the said society, who sent me to the County of Wellington to work as a farm pupil-to labor and delve more like a slave than to enjoy the happiness and bliss that Atkinson, Todd & Co., including the, will I say, gcod Mrs. Stone, pictured for me; but that does not exist for the farm pupil. I have toiled as a menial with the usu-al farm drudgery, and gave three

If have toned as a mental with the usu-al farm drudgery, and gave three months and five days without receiv-ing the value of one farthing in return. If there are any more young English-men in London whose aspirations are in the farm pupil line, they can have it all in so far as I am concerned. But I would advise them to beware of At-kinson, Todd, McArthur & Co., including Mrs. Stone's recommendations-and all "farm pupil" emigration sharks in England. It will only cost will be only $36.75 second cabin and first-class railway to Toronto, and on their arrival is this country they will get steady employment and lots of work from the farmers if they will do it for nothing—the same as I did. I like Canada, its climate and its peo-ple they are much one formation

There are property that are provided in the peo-ple: they are frank and friendly, and Englishmen, if they wish to come to this country, there are openings for them here. By honest work and in-dustry they can better their condition. There are prospects of better times, when work and wages will be more plentiful. No man should come here orly with the intention of getting wages for his work. HUGH FITZWALTER WHITTY, Late "farm pupil" from Atkinson, Todd McArthur & Co., Ltd., Lon-don, England and Toronto.

The Matter Should be Investigated.

The Matter should be investigated. Mr. Whitty is a very intelligent young man, as may be easily inferred from his communication. He is par-ticularly severe in his denunciation of the institution which engineered his coming to Canda and does not hesi-tate in characterizing the men of that company as swindlers of the first water. Nor is Mr. Whitty alone in this respect. Many others among the young men who have been shipped to Canada and the United States are loud in their complaints concerning the manner of their reception and treat-ment on this side of the ocear. It would appear strange that the English authorities permit this ob-jectionable traffic to continue. If the men composing these emigration as-

That is the press version, but the text of this correspondence between the Royal grandmother and her eldest grandson is not yet disclosed. What is evident is that some hitch has oc-curred in the Transvaal over the re-lease of Jameson, and that the main purpose of the Cabinet meeting was to discuss the indemnity and other de-mends of Kruger. It is also plain that Cecil Rhodes has been deserted by his recent ally in Cape Colony, Mr. Hof-meyr, who, as leader of the Dutch element, offers aid to Mr. Chamber-lain in finding out where the responsi-bility for Jameson's raid belongs, even if the secrets of financial speculation and personal rule are disclosed.
