He hurriedly rivewed the leakage in the Ministry of War, the discovery of the bordereau, the arrest and trial of Dreyfus and the latter's alleged confessions before the ceremony of degradation, to Captain Lebrun-Renault. Witness said he believed the confessions were genuine. He next referrd to Col. Picquart's appearance in the intelligence department, although witness hesitated to appoint him, because he thought Picquart too self-confident and not sufficiently deferential towards his chiefs.

Rennes, Aug. 19.—Mrs. Emily Crawford writes as follows:

Opinions differ as to what the judgment of the Dreyfus tribunal will be. 4 Townspeople who know welf General Germain and General Lucas, of this army corps, think the decision will be against the accused. On the other hand, at the Hotel Modere, which is now the great conversations.

Capt. Cuignet's Aim.

To-day Captain Cuignet's task was to destroy the effect of the questions of Maitre Damange, and to set up again the demoished theory of Gen. Mercler Cuignet was in the Forts Bureau of the General Staff when Dreyfus was in another bureau there, but not in under his orders. They were both engaged in calculating what work invasion would throw on the railways, but on different lines. Dreyfus, he said, constantly came to alim for information, which he had no cause to do.

Cuignet kept refusing, until he was tired out by the importunities of the accused. Then, by degrees, he gave him, Cuignet deposed, all the notes he himself had made.

Defended Esterhazy.

Dreyfus, according to the witness, never returned the notes. Cuignet then defended Esterhazy against Picquart and next against Du Paty De Clam. He gave fresh peeps at the secret military dossier. in which are many-ordinary letters from women, opinions from men and tittle-tattle of a spicy sort.

Cuignet said he was sorry the court had not examined the voluminous dossier, which poured a great deal of light, sometimes crude light, "on spies or different categories, including military attaches." The latter, he remarked, were far from being the only spies regularly kept up by foreign governments. It was only natural, he argued, that the military attaches should accuse Esterhazy, but they knew the traitor had been in the very heart of the citadel, in the general staff. "The traitor," he exclaimed, "Is not Esterhazy, but Dreyfus Lost Self-Control

Here Captain Dreyfus lost his self control.

Here Captain Dreyfus lost his self control. Starting to his feet, he violently apostrophized Cuignet. But Cuignet did not seem stung to anger.

No new fact was brought forward by Captain Cuignet, and everyone tired of him. When he turned to Colonel Schneider's Ems telegram, which he compared to another despatch from Ems that let loose invasion upon France, Maitre Demange shrugged his shoulders.

CUIGNET BACKED MERCIER Stoppage of Arms at Delagoa Bay Denounced by the Boers as a Breach of Treaty Rights-Portugal Evidently Acting Under British Pressure.

New York, N.Y., Aug. 20.—The London correspondent of The Tribune says: "The only new fact in South African affairs is the stoppage of arms and ammunition by the Portuguese officials. This act is denounced at Pretoria as a breach of treaty rights and international law, but the Boers themselves will violate the convention with England if they attempt, on their own account, anything like a spirited protest; for the direction of diplomatic affairs under Mr. Gladstone's compact rests entirely with the suzerain power. Portugal is evidently acting under pressure from London, with a view to convincing the Boers that their military operations will be hampered by lack of an available base where supplies can be obtained. It is another turn of the screw, but increasing pressure does not deaden President Krugent Spread of the Sir Alfred Milner, based on the terms air reducible minimum of five years qualification for the franchise.

"The People says it learns through a presson occupying a high oficial position, that fire Alifred Milner, the British Commissioner in South Africa, being convinced that the diplomatic conflict had reached a relative to the Government, urgently requesting authorization to insist upon the Transvaal Government accepting the terms offered to the Government, urgently requesting authorization to insist upon the Transvaal Government accepting the terms offered to the Government, urgently requesting authorization to insist upon the Transvaal Government accepting to this source of information, Sir Alfred Milner's acceptance with the opinion and intention of the Government and consequently Mr. Chamberlain despatched an utilimatum to President Kruger through an utilimatum to President Kruger through the source of information, Sir Alfred Milner's an utilimatum to President Kruger through an utilimatum to President Kruger through an utilimatum to President Kruger through an utilimatum of five years qualification for the franchise.

"The People also states that the War Office is prepared to despatch 30,000 tro cused. On the other hand, at the Hotel Modere, which is now the great conversational news centre, the idea prevals of a reluctant judgment in his favor.

Maitre Bemange is more hopeful, although acknowledging the perverse use the Nationalists make of the Schneider and Panizzardi telegrams and letters to inflame patriotic sentiment. The party now demands the full publication of the secret dossier, so as to heap disgrace on the millitary attaches and the illustrious German triangle and the illustrious German triangle acknowledgment of the series of concessions made by President Kruger."

Mr. Schreiner, in an interview, an hour prior to the writing of this despatch, explained that the incident was five weeks old. The cartridges, he said, were the absolute property of the Orange Free State, the relations of which with England were perfectly friendly. He said that he saw no objection to their removal.

With Sir Alfred Milner.

New York, Aug. 20.—The London correspondent of The Tribune, referring to the recall of Sir William Butler from South Africa, says: "Sir William Butler, who has been recalled from the chief military command at the Cape, has taken a greater interest in English politics than other generals have done. Born in Tipperry, he sympathized with the Home Rule movement, was once talked of as a Nationalist candidate, and has remained a staunch Radical. Naturally, his recall has been sharply criticized by partisans, both in England and Ireland, but it was fully justified by the fact that he was not corporating well with Sir Alfred Milner. Too many cooks spoil the broth in South Africa as everywhere else. He is one of Lord Wolseley's oldest friends, and Lady Butler is the painter of "The Roll Call" and other strong military works. His successor, Sir Frederick Walker, is a veteran who served his apprenticeship in South Africa under Sir Bartle Frere, and has been in many expeditions and campaigns."
