President Charles H. Ebbets of Brooklyn is all worked up because reports have come from Cincinnati that the Reds are trying to buy Hy Myers of Jimmy Johnston. Mr. Ebbets asserts that he would not consider selling these players, and has sent the following telegram to August Herman, president of the Cincinnati club:—

"Please discontinue stating directly or indirectly, that you have offered or will offer large cash, consideration for certain named star Brooklyn players, statements for which you or your representatives are responsible have caused the Brooklyn club serious injury. It is not our policy to sell our rights to the services of our best players, and you have no right, reason, or foundation to presume we are foolish enough to do so. We would prefer to sell our entire baseball holdings rather than insult our loyal patrons by selling the release of our star players."

The Yankee-Boston squabble isn't the only thing engaging the attention of Ben Johnson, the toppling American League president. A committee of Detroit citizens, incensed over what they call the partiality of umpires officiating at Detroit, are heckling Ben with a petition for a change in umpires. It is claimed that the Tigers are getting the worst of the umpiring to the detriment of their pennant chances, and Detroit's baseball population is intensely aroused.

Foel Fifth to Retire. Lee Foel is Cleveland's fifth American League manager to retire in mid-season. Nap Lajoie was the first. He retired in August, 1909, turning the reins over to Jim McGuire. The latter remained in charge until May, 1911, when he quit and was succeeded by George Stovall. Harry Davis was the third. He celebrated Labor Day, 1912, by severing

Sidelights On Sport

There was considerable interest manifested in the game in the City League last evening. Weather conditions were ideal and a large gathering of fans turned out to see Carleton and St. Peter's play.

At a meeting of the St. John League executive last evening it was decided to form a nine from the Y. M. C. I. and Carleton teams to play Moncton on Thursday evening, and a nine from St. Peter's and Fairville to play St. Stephen on Friday afternoon. Both these games should prove interesting.

Carl Mays received a great ovation in New York recently when he appeared to pitch his first game for the Yankees.

his connections with the Indians. Joe Birmingham then took the helm and held it until May, 1915, when Charley Sontz effectively hinted that Birmingham would make an excellent manager elsewhere. Foel took Birmingham's place.

Clark Likes Trap Shooting. Fred Clarke, former manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and regarded as one of the greatest field directors ever connected with the national pastime, is devoting his time now to trap shooting, farming and the oil business.

Farmer Will Box Saunders. Frankie Farmer who is coming to Bangor to box Jackie Saunders at the Bowdoin next week with the intention of putting the latter out, is the featherweight champion of the South, having acquired that title by besting Baltimore Dundee. While Farmer was in the navy he won many fights and holds the fifth naval district featherweight championship by whipping Dundee as before stated. He has also beaten such good boys as Willie Murphy, Johnny Murray, Jack Courtney, Jack Sharkey, Kid Henry and other headliners in the metropolitan section. Henry was the boy who was recently cleaning up all the fighters in the Boston section.

Farmer is working daily with Frankie Burns, the famous Jersey City Batman for his match with Saunders and is coming to Bangor with the intention of scoring a knockout.

Sanders on the other hand is working hard, as he knows that he will meet a tough proposition in Farmer. Jackie is boxing daily with Young Pooler of Brewer and Shorty Smith as sparring partners, and both boys are sufficiently handy with the mitts to give him real exercise and quite a lot of experience.

He was cheered from all corners of the Polo grounds, while Ban Johnson received boos. It was hardly a month ago that these same fans who cheered so lustily for Mays hissed him and threatened to have his life. At that time Mays was pitching for Boston and sent in a ball that just shaved Hannah's head. Hannah was almost ready to murder Mays then, but it is evident that he forgave the submarine pitcher for he is catching his in great style now.

Battling Levinsky is still in the ring and going strong. A few nights ago he knocked out Jim Tullet, amateur lightweight champion in less than two minutes. A wicked jab on the jaw ended the bout.

A large party of rowing enthusiasts from Halifax are due here today or tomorrow to be present at the celebration and also to witness the rowing races in the harbor. A strong crew was expected in the city today to represent the North West Arm Club.
