DESTRUCTION AT DAWSON

The Ensign in Charge of the Salvation Army Shelter Says the Conditions Are Appalling.

A Relief Committee Organized to Look After the Destitute - A Miner's Tragic Death on Bonanza.

Arrivals from Dawson by the steamer Dirigo report that a citizens' relief committee has been organized there to look after the destitute and sick of the great mining camp. It meets at the office of the American consul. Many sick men have been sent to the hospital - the committee's orders, and one man with badly frozen feet was taken care of. An old man, who is seventy years of age, was given money and will be helped out of the country in the spring.

Some idea of the prevailing condition at Dawson can be obtained from a statement made by Ensign McGill of the Salvation Army, who has been before the committee about a month ago. He said: "The Salvation Army shelter will be ready for occupancy about December 20, and the dining-rooms will be furnished on the short order plan, at bedrock prices. At present the bunkers are without mattresses or blankets. This is a serious necessity, as many of those seeking shelter are suffering from the effects of the winter. The prospect of furnishing those who ask for food and shelter with work at wood chopping is meeting with some difficulty, as the demand is so poor that many would have to be refused. Although the wood was cut into stove lengths and accumulated on our hands, the conditions of destitution in this town are appalling. In one hour I saw a large number of men, many of whom were actually on bedrock. Such conditions are difficult even for me to believe in."

Mr. Ben Atwater, the oldest pioneer miner and carrier of the Yukon, who has been in Dawson for many years, says that a man was found dead from starvation in the morning. He denies the statement which appeared in the morning paper that a man was found dead from starvation in the morning. He denies the statement which appeared in the morning paper that a man was found dead from starvation in the morning.

Mr. C. Anderson, another Dawsonite, who arrived by the Dirigo this morning, says the Salvation Army have opened a shelter for the destitute, and 300 people sit down to the opening dinner on Christmas day. Ensign McGill is in charge of the shelter, and has nine assistants, two of whom are ladies. Mrs. Poor, an old lady, who arrived by the Dirigo, says many are dying from want and the bodies of scores are around the hospitals wrapped in sacks and frozen solid. Her husband is a miner, but his funds have run out.

The Dawson Nugget also tells of the destitution. It reports the death of a miner who lived alone in a cabin on Bonanza creek. He was taken sick and in his bunk alone unable to move until death came. One knew of his illness, and as he was unable to light his fire or get up to get himself food, he starved to death. The doctor found on him telling of how he met his sad end.

While Fighting the Flames, Firemen Are Injured by the Fall of a Wall. Columbus, Iowa, Feb. 2.—A serious fire broke out in the Hotel Grand Hotel in Columbus last night. Half a block of fine buildings in the heart of the city were destroyed, and at daylight the fire brigade had not control of the flames. The total loss will be more than $100,000. The fire is thought to have started in the basement of the Dunlap building, occupied by the Chicago Bank and Trust Company. It spread up the elevator shaft and soon the whole building was ablaze. The brigade, although doing their best work, seemed to be unable to stay long, and the progress of the flames. The audience at High street theatre, which is across the alley from the hotel, was dispersed in a hurry and this crowd was soon swelled to enormous proportions by a number of excited people from all parts of the city. The fire soon spread to the Jones block, on the left, and to the stores of Messrs. Souder & Co. and Mr. D. S. Adams. The fire soon spread to the Jones block, on the left, and to the stores of Messrs. Green, Joyce & Co., wholesale drygoods, from the others, but this was not until about one o'clock this morning the fire had eaten its way through and was burning fiercely in the upper stories.

At 11:30 last night, with scarcely any warning, the front and rear walls of the Dunlap building, as though rent asunder by an explosion, fell on High street. Fortunately the police had kept the street fairly cleared, or loss of life would have been great. The falling walls were caught while fleeing from the crumbling walls. Whitley Davis's wife, Mrs. O. W. Davis, was killed. Mrs. O. W. Davis, who was in the Dunlap building, was killed. Mrs. O. W. Davis, who was in the Dunlap building, was killed.

INFIDEL DOGS.

Constantinople's Christian Coal Dealers Won't Give Aid the Damned Any More Credit.

Constantinople, Feb. 2.—A curious situation in Turkey greatly embarrasses the Sultan. The government has run out of coal and official vessels are unable to move. The infidels are the only ones who possess coal and they refuse to trade with the impoverished Sultan. As is usual every year, the Sultan sent out a ship to carry a cargo of coal and iron to the provinces to Mecca. At the present time the whole outfit is stranded for want of fuel opposite Constantinople. It is regarded as a serious matter by the Turks, if the sacred camel does not get to Mecca, and the Sultan is offering honors in lieu of money in order to obtain coal.

Strikers Threaten to Fire the Town of Colon.

New York, Feb. 2.—A dispatch to the World from Colon, Colombia, says: Terrified by the threats of the strikers to fire the town, the merchants have asked for stronger military protection. The railway authorities are confident they could extinguish the fire if it was started at night. The authorities have prepared to respond promptly to an alarm. The crews of several steamships waiting on both sides of the isthmus to unload have struck. The press hints that serious international trouble is likely to arise because the over-zealous police have beaten some peaceable foreigners, mistaking them for strikers. Several complaints of such abuse are said to have been lodged at the British consulate.
