The bishops of Ireland can no longer keep silent in the presence of the engrossing question which touches, not Ireland and England alone, but every spot where Irishmen have found homes. That question is, who in the future is to be the leader of the Irish people; or, rather, who is not to be their leader.

Without hesitation or doubt, and in the plainest possible terms, we give it as our unanimous judgement that whoever else is fitted to fil that highly responsible position, Mr. Parnell is decidedly not.

As the pastors of a Catholic nation we do not base tais, our judgement and solemn decolarition on political ground, but simply and solely on the facts and circumstances as revealed in a London divorce court.

solely on the facts and circumstances as reviseled in a London divorce court.

After the verdict was given in court we cannot regard Mr. Parnell in any other light than as a man convicted of one of the gravest offences known to religious society, aggravated, as it is in his case, by almost every circumstance; that could possibly attach to it, co as to give it scandalous prominence in guilt and shame.

Surely, Catholic Ireland, so eminently conspicuous for the virtue and purity of its social life, will not accept as its leader a man thus dishonored and wholly unworthy of Christain confidence. And further, as Irishmen who are devoted to our country and eager for its elevation and earnestly intent
