TWO FIGHTS FOR JOHNSON

Victor Breyer Makes $20,000 Offer for Match in Paris With Jeannette—Langford Go in London.

New York, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion of the world, is offered $20,000 for a fight with Joe Jeannette in Paris.

This offer, sporting men here say, was a liberal one, inasmuch as Johnson has characterized Jeannette as a "soft mark."

In the letter Breyer says among other things:

"Johnson must put up a forfeit which must be one-half of ours, viz: 100,000 francs, as guarantee that he will appear."

The date suggested is that at Grand Prix (June) time will do, but Johnson must engage himself not to fight for the title between now and then. Naturally enough the contest must be for the world's championship."

Langford in London.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 24.—Joe Woodman, manager of Sam Langford, is in receipt of a letter from Hugh McIntosh, the Australian boxing promoter, in which McIntosh offers to give Jack Johnson $15,000 and his expenses for his end of a fight with Langford to take place in London during Coronation week.

CANNY SCOT MAY PILOT BROWNS

BOBBY WALLACE.

Col. Bob Hedges, owner of the St. Louis Browns, says he is not ready to reveal the identity of the man who will manage his team next season, but the opinion prevails that Bob Wallace, the wonderful little shortstop, will be the St. Louis mascot.

While quiet and reserved, the Scot is one of the keenest men in baseball today. The only criticism heard is that Wallace is not aggressive enough, but since Connie Mack put it all over Frank Chance in the world's series, aggressiveness hasn't commanded such a premium as of yore.

HURRY-UP YOST MAKES GOOD

Hats off to the old master! Hurry Up Yost came back so fast that football critics have not yet recovered their breath.

They had Michigan all in, down and out time and again. When dinky college teams played the Wolverines to a tie, or held them almost even, supporters of Penn and Minnesota winked and said, "Wait till we get at them."

Well, they got at them, and what's the answer? Yost is again supreme. With an eleven that rounded into form slowly, he held Pennsylvania, by many considered the strongest eleven in the east, to a scoreless tie. Some critics insist the Wolverines played a better game than Penn and had the red and blue on the defensive most of the time. Be that as it may, Michigan invaded the east and returned home with honor.

Then against Minnesota, pounds heavier to the man, the Michigan eleven proved its class. For three periods the eleven battled back and forth. Although both goals were threatened neither was crossed until shortly before the end of play in the fourth period.

It was just before time was called that Yost, crouching along the side line, signalled, and a moment later Wells shot the ball to Bortleske for 20 yards. It was a successful pass, unexpected and successful. Like a flash the Wolverines lined up again. Again the ball went. Wells to Bortleske. If the first pass was unlooked for the second was a bolt from the blue—and the ball was on the eight yard line, from where Wells planted it behind the Gopher goal posts in two bucks.

Now I wonder where the men who have been selling for Yost's retirement will hide? There has been a crowd shouting for the dismissal of the great coach for the past two or three years, founding new football was beyond the man who gave the university a place on the football map. Under the circumstances I imagine these men will clap stoppers on their jaw tackle, at least for the present.

WOLGAST HAS NEW MANAGER

Lightweight Champion of World to be Married on Anniversary of Nelson's Defeat—Mrs. Ad Has Business Head

Cadillac, Mich., Nov. 24.—Pretty and petite, not a day over 20 and blessed with a good business ability, are the three chief characteristics of Miss Mildred Knight, fiancee of Ad Wolgast, world's champion lightweight pugilist.

The meeting of the couple a few months ago was a commonplace one. There has been no preliminary match making or hard training. The contest started when the pretty saleslady in a music store accepted Wolgast's invitation to go auto riding. Cupid seconded the first round, shot his dart at the champion and the love god counted Wolgast out in the second.

Miss Ensign manages "The Altar," Wolgast's vaudeville show. She sells the tickets, hires the help, pays the expenses, books the actors, looks after the film exchanges and does other work.

Personally she has looked over Wolgast's several farms recently purchased and passed her opinion upon them. She assisted in completing arrangements for renting some and others were left idle until next year.

A brother of Miss Ensign's is in Montana in the sheep raising business. She sees money ahead in that industry in Wexford county and has purchased 100 breeding ewes and has them comfortably housed on his Cham Lake farm. Carpenters are rushing work on more buildings and more sheep are to be purchased.

Miss Ensign secured a buyer for Wolgast's 60 horse power Oldsmobile. Winter is approaching and room rent for the monster machine would have been expensive. Next summer Ad is to have a new car. The new one will carry Mr. and Mrs. Ad Wolgast.

PENN DEFEATS CORNELL 12-0

Playing of Quakers Proved Disappointment to Spectators and Game Was Marred by Much Fumbling.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 24.—In a hard and fast game in which there was a mixture of good and bad playing, the University of Penna. football team defeated Cornell on Franklin Field today, 12 to 0.

The Quakers' score was made on two touchdowns and goals from placement by Quarterback Butler. Notwithstanding Pennsylvania won, the score was a disappointment to the followers of the Philadelphia eleven. The red and blue team at times lacked the dash it has shown in several previous games, this season and some of its plays were marred by fumbling and poor handling of punts.

On the other hand Cornell played a more dashing game than was expected. Her interference was at times almost perfect. On several occasions it looked as if the Ithaca man would succeed in carrying the ball across the goal line, but the Pennsylvanians braced when things looked dangerous and held the big team from New York state repeatedly. Then Cornell would resort to a goal from placement, but it succeeded only twice in the five or six times it was tried.

Pennsylvania's backfield was a disappointment. It failed to play up to the form shown in previous games. This was due in a large measure to men who had been injured again becoming incapacitated so far as first class football was concerned. Scott played poorly compared with his brilliant work heretofore, being out-punted by Butler and frequently being fumbled punts. Except a wing shift used by Cornell, the game brought out no new football features. The forward pass failed almost as often as it gained, Cornell being more successful with this play than Pennsylvania.
