HOLY TRINITY DOWNS THE SHAMROCKS

There was some classy pin picking in the intersociety bowling league game last evening between the Holy Trinity and the Shamrock quintettes. In the third string both teams tied and rolled off with three balls for each man. Holy Trinity won the roll off and the string. The grand result of the match was a win for Holy Trinity with four points to nothing. O'Brien was high man for Holy Trinity with an average of 88 1/3, and D. Colgan for the Shamrocks with 83. The individual scores follow:

Holy Trinity.
McDonald	76 81 75 232-77 1/3
Ryan	89 80 77 246-82
O'Brien	89 80 86 265-88 1/3

TWO GREAT LITTLE MEN DUE TO FIGHT TONIGHT

OWEN MORAN.

These great little men have signed to meet at Billy Gibson's Fairmont athletic club, New York, tonight. The articles calling for 125 pounds at 5 o'clock will result in McFarland entering the ring close to 125 or 130 pounds, while Moran will not weigh more than 120, if he scales that high. The confidence of the little Briton must be unlimited, to give away so much tonnage to a boy of McFarland's class. He had to do it to get the bout. They go 10 rounds.

New York, N. Y., Mar. 13.—Owen Moran, the clever lightweight boxer who knocked out Battling Nelson a few months ago, a triumph which Ad Wolgast was unable to achieve over the Durable Dane, is training hard for his bout with Packey McFarland, which is scheduled to take place at the Fairmont club tomorrow night. The aspirant for Wolgast's title rushed through a number of training stunts and four 3 minute rounds at Lakewood.

Moran's work was impressive. He showed he will be ready to put up a hard battle with McFarland when they meet. Moran sent in many a piercing blow and it was fortunate for the sparring partner that he was enclosed in a pitcher's pad and wore boxing gloves. Jeff Perry, the partner, took a bad beating as it was. After Moran had toyed with the weights and had punched the bag for a half hour "just to limber up," he started his session of boxing with Perry. They sparred four 3 minute rounds. Perry showed that he had a punch and was not afraid to use it. He tried to knockout Moran, but the latter was too clever for him. In the first round Moran hit Perry so hard on the chest protector that he broke the straps which held it in place.

During the milling Moran demonstrated he is a rugged, aggressive and yet a shifty fighter. He took many a wallop on the jaw without wincing. He played for Perry's stomach almost continually. He did this in order to develop his muscles for that kind of work. Then to show he had good judgment regarding distance, he ducked and sidestepped many of Perry's blows.

The following is a synopsis of the training that Moran has undergone: He arises every morning at 7 o'clock, drinks a cup of tea, takes a walk of a mile or two for a "breather," swallows some lemon and soda, and then starts on a good run. When he returns he takes a plunge. Then he has his dinner. Like many an English fighter, he has his mug of ale at that meal. After a rest of an hour he indulges in several games of bowling. Before the start of the run for an hour and a half, relieving the monotony with a spin on a bicycle.

LIGHTWEIGHT WRESTLERS IN MONTREAL
(Montreal Gazette, Saturday.)
Eugene Tremblay, the local light weight wrestler, won his match against Bingham, the Englishman, in two straight falls last night in the gymnasium of the new Canadian club. The local boy took the first fall in 24 minutes and the second in 13 minutes. The first bout was in catch-as-catch-can style, and the second in Jiu-Jitsu. Tremblay proved to be the better man even in the latter, although Bingham is considered to be an expert at the Japanese game.

The first bout was stubbornly fought and Tremblay had to use all his strength, combined with his great knowledge of the game to pin the Englishman's shoulders to the mat, and only succeeded in doing the trick after over half an hour of the stiffest kind of wrestling.

For the first five minutes of the bout the wrestlers remained on their feet, Bingham showing the quickness of a cat in evading Tremblay's rushes. The champion got his opponent at last and taking the upper berth subjected him to a series of toe holds that, while they proved decidedly uncomfortable, did not hurt the Englishman in danger, for he proved to be remarkably strong in the legs and kicked Tremblay's hand off time after time, finally taking the offensive himself after five minutes or so on the defence. While on top he held Tremblay several times in dangerous looking positions, using his legs with great effect, but never essaying the toe hold, but the Frenchman broke away every time. His great strength standing him in good stead against the tricky work of the Englishman. After he had got free Tremblay regained his feet and both men locked for holds for some time, when like a flash Bingham sent Tremblay to the mat with a hip throw and had been able to follow up his advantage he might have pinned his opponent quite easily for Tremblay landed squarely on his back, but rolled quickly and was out of danger by the time Bingham got to him.

The latter did not stay long on top and when Tremblay again started to work from above still essaying the toe hold, it looked bad for the Englishman, but time after time he broke clear with a squirm at the right moment, but he failed to kick his feet clear as easily as he had done at the beginning. Finally after 24 minutes of the hardest kind of work Tremblay got a grip on the Englishman's toes, which the latter could not free himself from, and after a short sharp struggle, turned him over on his shoulders. Bingham limped off to his corner amid cheers for the crowd appreciated the plucky fight he had put up against his stronger opponent.

After a short rest the men came

AD. WOLGAST OFFERED A BIG PURSE FOR GO

Ad Wolgast, holder of the world's lightweight championship, is on his way to Los Angeles, Cal., to prepare for a 25 round fight with George Memie, a well known second rater. The scrap will take place in Tom McCarney's arena at Vernon, not far from Los Angeles, and the date will be fixed for the first week in April. After that affair Wolgast will cross the continent for a bout with Packey McFarland at the Fairmont A. C., New York, and his manager may alter these plans when they hear from the National Sporting Club of New York. Tom O'Rourke has wired to Wolgast and his manager to consider here and wants to box Wolgast about the middle of April. Before Wolgast met K. O. Brown, he knew that O'Rourke was after him, but it had not been received from the latter, it was impossible to arrange details. As a result it appears that Wolgast and his manager will decide hurriedly whether to box McFarland or Welsh first. The lightweight champion is a business man and plays no favorites among the matchmakers.

A Big Purse.
Tom McCarney meanwhile stands ready to hang up a $15,000 purse for a 25 round bout between Wolgast and K. O. Brown at Vernon, to be decided some time in May. As soon as Wolgast arrives in Los Angeles McCarney will put this proposition squarely up to him. It is known that Wolgast is disgruntled over the way Brown trimmed him in six and ten round bouts. He is anxious to recover his lost prestige by whipping K. O. in a longer affair. McCarney says he will show Wolgast that he must decisively beat Brown if he expects the public to further recognize him as a champion. McCarney isn't a piker, and it is believed that he will offer such a purse to Wolgast that the latter may decide to remain on the coast, that is, if Brown will meet him at Vernon.

Brown is resting for a month picking up soft money in vaudeville, but he says he will resume rink work with a vengeance in April. He is very anxious to beat Wolgast in a 25 round bout, for he thinks he can surely get a decision on points if he doesn't score a knockout. Wolgast is regarded highly in California, by the way. The ring followers there say he had an overrated back number in Nelson and that he shows his true calibre when he got a decision over Lew Powell in 25 rounds, for Powell has been knocked out in half that time by Frankie Burns, the "Prize" lightweight, who also beat Hogan on a foul in 12 rounds not long ago. According to this kind of pugilistic dog, Wolgast is no better than Hogan.

ARTIE HOFMAN SAYS HE IS STRONGEST RAH RAH BOY IN THE U. S.

When you consider the case in the abstract, you'd think Artie Hofman would be the last ball player in the world to attempt a holdout game. "The best paid ball players in the world," is the way the Cubs have been referred to, and Hofman, billed a great utility player must have been drawing his in bales. So his "retirement" is a shock.

Y.M.C.A. MEN WERE GIVEN THEIR PRIZES
The winners of the city basketball senior league were presented with an oak shield as the team trophy also individual silver medals mounted on oak shields. The winners were Roy Willet, H. B. Babson, F. Finley, D. Macaulay and W. Latham. Louis Burton was presented with a silver mounted shield as the winner of the most points in the all round gymnasium contest for the winter season, covering 12 events. The second winners in these events received ribbons.

Cambridge, Mass., Mar. 13.—Freeland Huston Leslie, Harvard '12, of Milton, is still the strongest man in the United States colleges, having a total record of 1,313 points in the tests given under the direction of Dr. Dudley A. Sergeant, of the Hemingway gymnasium. He broke the record he made last year by 41 points, Leslie's nearest competitor was H. K. Bush, '11, who totaled 1,177.6. Leslie was a substitute on the Varsity football team last fall. He worked on his freshman eight three years ago, but since that time has not been able to get the swing of the Varsity or the big hit.

Bush was a substitute Varsity football man. Two years ago he was first substitute on "Ham" Fish at right tackle in the Dartmouth games, and figured in most of the games last fall. The statistics of the leading man are as follows: Leslie—Height, 6 feet 1 1/2 inches; weight, 183 pounds; lung capacity, 325 cubic inches; strength of lungs, 40 foot pounds; strength of back, 300 kilos; strength of legs, 600 kilos; strength of right forearm, 90 kilos; strength of left forearm, 65 kilos; chest and upper arms, 248 1/2 kilos; dips, 18; chin, 12.

GREAT SUM PAID RAILROADS BY NATIONAL CLUBS.
The National League teams will travel about 12,000 miles less this season than in 1910. The Philadelphia will cover 8,426 miles in travelling around the circuit, which is the minimum distance. The mileage of the Brooklyn is 9,397, with 10,574 for the Giants, 10,862 for the Cincinnati, 11,081 for the St. Louis Cardinals, 11,234 for the Boston Hustlers, 12,590 for the Pittsburghs, and 14,479 for the Chicago Cubs. This means a total of 89,733 miles for the 8 teams, which means about $1,763 for the railroad transportation of one player. As the teams will carry an average of twenty men each on the road, the railroad fares will reach $35,000 to be paid by the entire league. Averaging each salary list at $50,000, it is estimated that the expenses for one season will reach the $100,000 mark for a single member of the circuit.
