Though not a preacher, Congressman Candler of Mississippi takes an active interest in religious matters, and while at home during the summer always holds revival meetings in the country places where it is difficult to secure the services of men of ability and note. He has spoken from several Washington pulpits.

Ernest von Leyden, one of Germany's best known medical authorities and authors, celebrated his 70th birthday on April 20. He has been one of the leaders in the fight against cancer and tuberculosis, and it is largely due to his efforts that more than a hundred sanatoria for consumptives have been built in Germany during the last decade.

Edwin Ginn, the publisher, was honored recently by 30 of his townsfolk, representative citizens of Winchester, Mass., by a dinner in appreciation of his recent purchase of Ringeley, a beautiful residential park in the centre of the town. Had it not been for his timely purchase this beautiful expanse of trees and lawns would have there divised by seculptors into a have been divided by speculators into a hundred house lots.

The funeral of George P. Thomas was field Tuesday afternoon from his brother's home, St. Patrick street. Service was conducted by Rev. T. J. Deinstadt, and interment made at Fernhill. There were no pall bearers, but the general attendance was large, many members of the printers' craft being among those attending.

Col. II. T. Hester, secretary of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, paid a visit to Omaha the other day. Of New Orleans, he said: "We are going to make New Orleans the deep water port of the west. We are going to carry the products of the west from tidewater, and we are going to bring to the states in the Louisiana purchase all of the foreign goods that they need."

The Sultan of Turkey is a musician and a player of some brilliancy on the piano. The old masters, such as Beethoven, Mozait, Handel, etc., he does not care for, and devotes his time to accomplishing the intricacies of such works as La Fille de Mme Angot, The Mikado and Mme.

Favart. Owing to his dread of assassina-tion he has lately taken to revolver prac-tice, and can now shoot with unerring accuracy with either hand.

Emile Waldteufel, the waltz-writer, though an old man of eighty, still com-poses a remarkable amount of dance music. He is said to have a piano in every room of his magnificent house in Paris, and composes first at one and then at another, just as the fancy takes him. Over 800 waltzes, polkas, mazurkas and other dances have been written and published by M. Waldteufel.

After serving for some time in the treasury he went to India as vice-regal private secretary. In 1886 he became private secretary to Mr. Gladstone. Ten years later he was appointed chairman of the board of customs, and in 1889 chair-man of the board of inland revenue. He is an expert on tariff questions.

Minister Chekib Bey, the new Turkish diplomat representative at Washington, is occupying one of the most unique positions known in the annals of diplomacy. His official presence is still unknown to the administration of Mr. Roosevelt, although he has been in the city for six months or more. Coming to America accredited to Mr. McKinley, he reached the capital two days after the departure of the latter for his summer trip to his home at Canton. His credentials could not be presented to any one else, and, after the tragedy at Buffalo made a change in the personnel of this government, they had to be sent back to Constantinople. Until the corrected papers are in his possession, Chekib Bey is obliged to live in official retirement.

In 15 cases a relapse had occurred, but 12 of these patients had improved again; 12 of the 90 had died. Dr. Wolff's inquiries concerning 95 patients discharged as cured from Brehmer's institution in Goerbersdorf, resulted in the following: five were dry this training, Miss Brennan believes, is the making of a nurse, for the well at the time the inquiry was made, alive and well after a period of from 21 alive and well after a period of from 21 to 29 years; 52 were well after a period of from 12 to 21 years; and 38 were well after a period of from seven to 12 years. Forty-six did not reply, five were reported dead, 12 had grown worse, 201 thought themselves still relatively oured, and 72 were absolutely cured. Dr. von Ruck, of Asheville (N. C. reported to the author of this essay that he had written to 650 of his former patients who had left the sanatorium from one to three years before; 457 responded, directly or through friends. Of these, 67 felt absolutely cured; 70 felt relatively eured; 258 felt still improved; 62 got worse or had died. Dr. E. R. Baldwin, of Sarnac Lake (N. Y.) reported recently that at the Adriondack Cottage Sanatorium they were in constant correspondence with 115 patients who had been discharge within the last 10 or 12 years, and while a few had relapsed slightly, the majority were well at their homes. Of course, these reports do not, and cannot, correspond exactly. With the exception of the last named institution (Adirondack Cottage Saratorium), which only takes patients in the earlier stages, those sanatoria receive patients for treatment in all stages of the

Now there are 80 in the school, all on duty, with two and three night nurses to each ward. In those days the patients, babies and all, were fed condensed milk. Now they all get fresh milk. There were no special pavilions for the insane and alcoholic patients then. All patients received were put either in the medical, ceived were put either in the medical, surgical or emergency ward. Up to 1888 old-fushioned maturesses were in use, with limited facilities for refilling them with clean straw, and every time a bed had to be remade the nurses were compelled to reach down and run their arms through strength of a nurse in those days, Miss Brennan recalled one ward, the women's surgical ward, in charge of a girl she knew in 1881. There were 30 beds and the patients were constantly changing, many of the cases being emergency ones. For these 30 beds the nurse had a supply of 100 sheets to do with, best she might. Another instance she mentioned was that

In speaking of the generous aid to pa tients given by persons outside the hospital, Miss Brennan recalled the beginning of the work of sewing societies in supply ing garments for patients in the children's ward. In 1884 a woman visiting the hos pital displayed such an interest in the little ones that her attention was called to their garments (then it was a probler for the nurses to cover the bodies of their charges), and it was suggested that they awould look much brighter and happier if they all had clean jackets.
