

TWO BOYS CAUGHT IN AUTO CHASE DISCLOSE CACHE OF REVOLVERS

Blind Temperance Orator Gave First Information Which Led to Capture of John Leggett and Cambridge Goldsworth on Chipman Road near Norton—Brought to City and Revealed to Police Hiding Place of Loot from Thorne's Store—Mrs. Petrie Objects to Chief's Statement.

Thursday, July 9. The sensational arrest of John Leggett, aged 17, and Cambridge Goldsworth, aged 16, near Norton yesterday morning by Detective Lucas and Policeman James McNamee, completed the rounding up of the gang associated with Braman, the assassin of Frank E. O'Leary, and also cleared up the three robberies in which it is believed they were all associated. Seven revolvers, about 1,000 rounds of ammunition, game bags, pouches, a sheath knife, foils and other articles were recovered last night buried in the woods near the boys' camp at Long Lake, where Leggett had told the police the booty from W. H. Thorne's had been hidden. In company with Detective Lucas and Policeman James Pitt, he was taken out to the place last night and led them to the spot where he and Goldsworth had hidden it before their flight on Monday after the shooting.

The whole "gang" was being rounded up, but the credit for the arrests falls upon the gallant police officer who lies wounded in the General Public Hospital, the victim of Jack Braman, the first of the number to be arrested. O'Leary's assassin said that Thomas Petrie was implicated in the robberies, frightened at the shooting of O'Leary, and learning that Braman had implicated him, Petrie gave himself up to the police on Monday afternoon. He is now, implicated Leggett and Goldsworth and gave the police the means to track them with the ultimate result that they were rounded up.

Soon after Petrie had made the statement to Chief of Police Clark in his office, implicating Goldsworth and Leggett, the chief sent telegrams in all directions ordering a sharp lookout for the boys, as he anticipated a flight. The roads in all directions from the city were being watched, to St. George, to McAdam, Fredericton, and all along the route as far as Halifax. The wires were kept busy in an effort to ascertain any of the movements of the youths. The information had been given to the chief by Petrie that the boys had been at the camp at Long Lake and were making ready to run away when he started to the city to give himself up.

The first word about the fugitives was received from Constable Theal, at Bloomfield, about 9 o'clock on Tuesday night. Over the telephone he communicated his suspicions to Chief Clark about two boys who were in the vicinity of Bloomfield, and who corresponded to a minute description of the boys who were wanted. He had seen them wandering about in the road early in the evening, and also saw them enter the village store, where they bought some goods and with a $5 bill. They refused to answer any questions and had a mysterious air. It happened that Michael Kelly, the blind temperance orator, was staying at Theal's house and when Theal told him about the matter he said: "Why, they are the boys the St. John police are looking for." Immediately Theal got in telephone communication with the chief here.

Detective Fred Lucas and Policeman James McNamee were instructed by the chief to leave on the 11:30 train and locate the boys. They left the city and thinking it possible that the boys might continue walking during the night, they continued as far as Sussex, where they stopped. Chief Asbell, of Sussex, however, had already two men searching the roads in the vicinity of the boys, and yesterday morning the two local officers began to search the roads this side of Sussex. Telephone messages had been sent to station at Pollokton Hill, and within twenty miles to keep a sharp lookout and report anything to Norton. An Automobile Chase.

About 8:30 o'clock an answer was received from Norton saying that the two boys had been seen there. They had passed through an ammunition box and were following the road in the direction of Chipman. No trains were leaving Sussex in this direction for several hours so an automobile was used and Lucas and McNamee and Chief Theal started to drive to Norton. The chauffeur was instructed to speed and he did not spare the engine. They arrived at Norton soon after 10 o'clock.

DECEIVED OVER COST OF SOUTHAMPTON RAILWAY

(Continued from page 1.) The witness said that the fencing was complete through all cleared lands. After half an hour's hard work, Mr. Peck secured an advance of one dollar for the engineer's estimate of the cost of a new fence. "Many mules make a mule," quoted Mr. Teed with evident satisfaction. Another long argument regarding the cost of station houses followed with no change resulting.

Regarding Mr. Kilburn's estimate of sixty-two acres cleared, as compared with seventy-two reported by Mr. Johnston, the witness said that he had not surveyed every area which showed signs of having been cleared. A protracted series of questions revealed the fact that the engineer in estimating the cost of a water station at $1,000, included a margin of $400 to be on the safe side. It was reported at 2:30.

There was a little more display of interest among the few spectators when the name of Edward J. Johnston, consulting engineer, who made the report on which the double donation subsidy was paid, was called. Mr. Johnston was questioned by Commissioner Pringle. Mr. Pringle drew attention to an estimate prepared by Mr. Brown and attached to the application for subsidy, in which the cost of the road was estimated at $248,508.60. The witness said he had seen this and identified the marking of this record showing that it had been filed on April 1, 1912. The commissioner produced another estimate of November, 1910, in which the cost of the road was estimated at $150,000 a mile. In 1912, when the road was under construction, Mr. Brown's estimate was $248,508.60.

Mr. Pringle—We have here an item of $12,500 regarding the cost of the road. Did Mr. Brown try to make you believe that 21,500 was correct? "Yes." "Why did you reduce it?" "I was sure it would be wrong," he referred to previous estimates and found it quoted at 12,500 yards.

WESTMORLAND JOURNS HON. H. R. EMMERSON

One of Canada's Leading Statesmen Gone

Died Thursday at Dorchester at Age of 61

Formerly Premier of Province and Most Popular Minister of Railways Canada Ever Had—Greatly Beloved by Constituents, His Death a Great Loss to Province—A True Democrat.

(Special to The Telegraph.) Dorchester, July 9.—Dorchester is today mourning the loss of one of her foremost sons, Hon. H. R. Emmerson, K. C., member of parliament for Westmorland county, who passed away at 11:30 o'clock this morning. He had been ill for the last few weeks and although his condition had recently been considered critical, death was rather unexpected. Mr. Emmerson had reached the age of sixty-one years. Death was due to what he knew him and more especially by those of his own town, who came in almost daily contact with him. A man of sterling qualities and pleasant disposition, he was surrounded by a great circle of friends and his loss will be felt keenly here, as well as throughout the Dominion.

Mr. Emmerson is survived by his mother, Mrs. R. H. Emmerson, who has reached the advanced age of eighty-three years; four daughters—Mrs. E. H. Deacon, of Toronto; Mrs. Julia Cornell, of Amherst; Mrs. Harry K. Bows, of Ottawa; and Miss Bernice, at home; and one son, H. R. Emmerson, Jr., of Amherst. One sister, Mrs. Harvey Atherton, of Ottawa, also survives. All were at his bedside when he passed away.

His Career. Hon. Henry Robert Emmerson, K. C., LL.B., LL.D., D.C.L., M.P., was a son of Rev. R. H. Emmerson, Baptist clergyman and Augusta A. Read, his wife, who was English paternal descent and his mother's side was of Loyalist stock. He was born at Maudsley, Sunbury county, N. B., on September 28, 1853, and received his education at Amherst Academy, Mount Allison University, St. Joseph's College and Acadia College. He held the degree of LL.B. from Boston University; LL.D. from Acadia College; and LL.D. from the University of New Brunswick.

In 1878 he was married to Emily C. Record, daughter of the late C. E. Record, of Moncton, who died in 1901. He was by profession a barrister, was a member of the bar of government of Acadia University, and had been a member of parliament since 1900. On leaving Acadia College he went to Boston, where he entered the office of Messrs. Read, Stephenson & Co., of that city, where he was carrying on the making of grandiose in Gloucester and other counties of these provinces; Joseph Read, the senior partner, being his maternal uncle.

Leaving there in 1874 he went to Dorchester, where he studied law first in the office of the late Sir Albert J. Smith, and subsequently with the late Albert J. Hickman, Q. C. While he was in Mr. Hickman's office he attended the Boston University Law School, where he graduated with the degree of LL.B., carrying off a prize awarded for his essay on "The Legal Condition of Married Women," which prize was offered by the faculty. He became an attorney of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick in 1877, and was called to the bar of his native province in the following year, when he entered into partnership with the late Sir J. Hickman and practiced law with him until that gentleman's death. He next entered into legal partnership with his uncle, the late Sir Albert J. Smith, and partnership continued until about 1888 when it was dissolved owing to his uncle's ill health and who died shortly afterwards. He then practiced law alone for a while and subsequently he entered into partnership with Messrs. W. B. Chandler and W. Hazen Chapman under the name of Emmerson, Chandler & Chapman. This partnership continued until Mr. Chapman received an official appointment, followed shortly afterwards by Mr. Chandler's removal to Moncton.

Mr. Emmerson's progress in his profession was rapid and he was regarded as one of the leading lawyers in the maritime provinces. A few years ago he was created a Q. C. by the government of New Brunswick. In addition to his law practice he had other important business interests among them being an official connection with the New Brunswick Petroleum Company, Limited. He is also a director of the New Brunswick Alberta Land Company. He was connected financially with many industries in Moncton and district and was a considerable shareholder in the Record Foundry & Machine Company. Like many other public men, however, he has been associated directly and indirectly with the newspaper business and in his early years as a resident in Moncton he was probably one of the first newspapermen in the city of Moncton. In 1887 he ran for election to the House of Commons for Westmorland and was elected. In 1888 he was elected to the legislature for Albert, but in 1890 was defeated. In 1891 he was appointed to the legislative council and held office until the abolition measure. Just previous to the election of 1892 he was sworn in as a member of the cabinet with the office of minister of public works and was elected for Albert county as a member of the legislative assembly. On the death of Mr. Mitchell he became the premier of New Brunswick in December 1897, retaining the portfolio of public works. At the general elections

(Canadian P Washington, July 10.—Most glaring instances of corruption revealed in all the recent "railroad" scandals, is the case of the Interstate Commerce Commission's investigation of the management of the New Haven railroad. In a report of $0,000,000 made in the month of August, 1900, the commission reported that the management of the New Haven railroad was "grossly negligent and in violation of law."

The report told of a monster game of corporate stock manipulation, with transportation as a prize. On the height of the game, the commission reported that the management of the New Haven railroad was "grossly negligent and in violation of law."
