the following recommendations: For all handicapped students in wheelchairs and those who are ambulatory, registration should be held in one building. If this were done, registration could be completed within three hours.

The ramp in the Biological Sciences Building should be covered with a non-skid substance.

A ramp should be installed in the Humanities Centre, the Central Auditorium and the Physical Education Building.

There is a need for a pay phone in the Humanities Centre.

Underground tunnels or enclosed walkways are needed between buildings.

Finally, Pempet believes that a person in a wheelchair needs help to register. For the time being, he must ask volunteers to help see him through registration.

Cable TV for U of Illinois

(EN) - The University of Illinois has signed a $100,000 a year contract with Champaign-Urbana Communications, Incorporated to provide the school's four hundred buildings with a 24-hour-a-day cable TV system, using 24 channels.

When it begins operations in about eighteen months, Illinois students will have what's believed to be the most extensive closed-circuit, educational TV system in the U.S.

For example, a student will be able to tune into a chemistry class at any time during the day--at 10 a.m. or 10 p.m. Other channels will carry registration instructions, dorm menus, and even a schedule of campus events. The university's law school will be hooked up to the local courthouse, so trials can be televised for observation. And with the development of two-way communications, students can take televised tests and response with push-button answers.

The TV system could also be used to monitor buildings, turn light and air conditioners on and off, and be on the look-out for burglaries or fires.

People living on campus will have free use of the cable system, while off-campus residents will have to pay a six-dollar-a-month subscription fee.

Counselling course offered

Educational-vocational counselling is available to the general public and students through the Department of Extension adult counselling service.

Through the service, the student is provided with an opportunity to discuss their future educational or vocational plans through the provision of information on vocation possibilities and the type and availability of programs.

Program information on personal enjoyment and enrichment courses is also available.

Vocational and psychological testing is available on request.

Appointments for interviews about the service may be obtained by calling the department of Extension at 432-3031 during the day or 432-3116 at night.
