 Mr. King - Visiting this place very interestingly reminded us of you and I am taking advantage of the excellent opportunity for which I have been waiting for the last two weeks to write and congratulate you as I am sure hundreds of others have already done. When in London we read that you were now a member of Sir W. Gladstone's cabinet and you certainly have every reason to be proud. Like Wellington, you have proved the hero of a hundred battles and your last success has been with all the others.
 We have had a wonderful time and I am anxiously looking forward to the guests in London when we return from the Continent. But it will be all in vain for me until the 12th of August for home.
 With best wishes for a continued success. Believe me, very sincerely yours
 Charles Oliver.
