The staff of the expeditionary army is particularly remarkable for the number of Irish gentletlemen in it. The Earl of Lucan who commands the calvary, has a rent roll of upwards of £40,-000 a year, and may well be described as the Cincinnatus of the British army. Lord de Ros. cousin of the Duke of Leinster, is also an Irishman. So is Sir R. England, who is a distant relative of Smith O'Brien. Sir De Lacy Evans is a Limetick man.
