FEARFUL DISASTER

Tunnel at Smuggler Mine Telluride Colorado

DEATHS OVER ONE HUNDRED

Shift Had Just Taken Their Stations

EXPLOSION OCCURRED

Efforts to Rescue the Doomed Men Were Unavailing—Nine Operators Aboard Great Death Loss.

From Friday's Daily.

Nov. 21.—One hundred men are imprisoned in Smuggler mine near Telluride, Colo., and many have been suffocated by a result of a fire which broke out in the tunnel this morning. The fire started at the bunk house at the end of the tunnel, the principle of the mine from which the work was worked, and spread to the tramway terminal, where bins and smaller buildings were seen in flames. A strong draft of smoke directly into the tunnel of the mine, drifts, upraises and connecting began to fill rapidly with smoke. In the excitement of the men to control the fire outside the mine was forgotten and before the explosion was realized the workings were filled with smoke. By this time the things about the mouth of the tunnel were ablaze and nothing could be done to stop the smoke going in. As soon as possible great bodies of men were blown down into the tunnel and the openings stopped until the workings filled and smoke began working its way up the shafts to the surface, a large number of men were killed. The day shift of two hundred and fifty men had gone into the mine and reached their stations as the fire started. Some escaped through the old Sheridan tunnel and union workings, but a small number of the force, only 22 bodies, have so far been found and the management concedes the death toll will considerably exceed one hundred. Smuggler Union is the largest mine in the Telluride district, its output being one-third of the camp.

WEAK-MINDED SKAGWAYANS WERE TAKEN IN

By a Couple of Fakirs Who Argued That Time Was Ripe for Revenge on Canada for Passing Alien Exclusion Act Three Years Ago—Free Miniature Republic Was to be Established in Klondike With Dawson as Capital—Enthusiastic Cranks Contributed Good Money to the Cause—Men, Rifles and Ammunition Were to Come From Seattle—After Bleeding Skagway Suckers the Sleek Promoters Stole Away—Collector of Customs Busby Was "Next" and Sent Official Report to Ottawa.

Seattle, Nov. 21.—The Seattle Times prints a story this evening which affirms the truth in every detail of the San Francisco Call's sensational disclosures of an alleged conspiracy of miners in the Yukon to attempt to overthrow Canadian authority in that country. The Times says it has in its possession documents and seals of the Fenian Order of the Midnight Sun, organized for the establishment of a free miniature republic on the Yukon embracing the Canadian Klondike, and with headquarters in Dawson.

STORY OF AMUR PASSENGERS

Vancouver, Nov. 21.—Passengers who arrived here from Skagway on the steamer Amur this morning thus explain the origin of the San Francisco Call's and Seattle Times' stories.

which time the promoters informed their dupes that they would begin pushing American interests and start the trouble for the Canadian authorities. "After the two fellows got all the money they could raise in Skagway they left and have not since returned. It is known that one of them went to Seattle, telling the people whom he had roped in at Skagway that he was going to arrange for shipping in rifles and ammunition. It is said he even tried to work his graft in Seattle but it did not go. The people who allowed themselves to be duped by the fakirs now realize that the fellows never had any intentions of carrying out their alleged proposed plans. "This afternoon the newest of the story to reach here was told by Collector Busby, who looks after Canadian customs at Skagway, to a reporter of the Province. He said that not only this attempt at Fenian conspiracy had given Canadian officials some annoyance, but that an official report detailing the result of an extensive investigation is now on the way to Ottawa. He said the plan of the alleged conspirators was to bring several hundred men from Seattle, when they would start the proposed raid on the country, the stated arrangements being to seize banks and use the funds to further the movement. Mr. Busby said the officials took every precaution to see that no rifles or other fire arms were shipped in quantities into the country.

of his plea. It is also stated that the dead man had a knife clutched in his hand when he was found. Owens will be turned over to the U. S. marshal as soon as necessary arrangements are completed.

PUGILISTS MEET TONIGHT

Devine and Slavin Will Enter the Ring at 9 p. m.

Tonight is the big event in sporting circles as Slavin, the as yet invincible, will meet Devine in a 10 round bout at the New Savoy. Of one thing the public can be assured, and that is that a big surprise is in store for somebody. Either Slavin will win in a few rounds or Devine will walloper the big Australian in something like eight rounds. Tickets are selling to the go at both Ben Davis's cigar store and at the Savoy theatre. A big house will probably greet the pugilists, as there is no counter attraction in Dawson at present.

THE MAIL.

Sixteen sacks of mail weighing 500 pounds left at daylight this morning for the outside, cleaning up the entire accumulation of letters since the departure of the Emma Knott. The next mail leaves Tuesday morning, closing Monday evening at 8 o'clock. No word has been received of the incoming mail, it being still above Selkirk on the cut-off.

TOO MUCH ADVERTISING

Causes a Dawsonite to Spend His Money to Get Rid of It.

That everybody reads the Nugget was fully demonstrated to one man in Dawson yesterday evening before the paper had been out an hour. The paper contained an account of Andy McKenzie's having won a large sum of money by a lucky plunge the night before and of his having $1,000 left after buying $550 worth of wine at the Aurora. The result was that a steady stream of chronic borrowers began to pour in on Andy about five o'clock with such requests as: "By the way, old boy, could you loan me an X?" Andy at length decided that his money was becoming troublesome, so he again depleted Tom Chisholm's wine stock to the amount of $500 and today he banked the remainder of what was left of his big winning.

POLICE COURT.

In the police court yesterday afternoon "Whitey" Moore was sentenced to two months hard labor on the charge of vagrancy. Saml. C. McCartney, "Society Red," was acquitted of the same charge.

WORK IS RESUMED

Effort Will Be Made to D. open the Fire Well.

Work was again resumed yesterday on the fire well opposite the old post-office. At the time the ice jammed and the river overflowed the bar the well filled to the top with about 14 feet of water. This it will be necessary to pump and an engine has been stationed alongside for that purpose which will furnish the power for the big centrifugal pump already in position. Mr. Matheson, in charge of the work, states that he intends sinking until he runs into a perpetual flow of water sufficient in extent to keep an engine running continuously at its greatest capacity. He does not think he will have to go over ten feet deeper. Should the scheme prove a failure a house will be built on the ice in which an engine will be installed similar to the one in vogue last winter.

SMALL FIRE YESTERDAY

Shack Occupied by Five Japanese Received a Scorching.

An alarm of fire was turned in yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock which called the department out for a quick run. The location of the blaze was in a small shack in the alley at the rear of Cohen's second hand store on Third avenue, occupied by five Japanese. They were away at the time and the fire is supposed to have arisen from the usual defective fuse. A neighbor who happened on the scene shortly after the alarm was turned in assumed charge until the department arrived, displaying more intelligence than the average layman at a fire. He prevented the doors and windows from being opened, which would have caused a draft, with the result that when the chemical arrived the incipient blaze was easily extinguished. The building is owned by Mrs. M. Morgan. The Japs suffered the loss of some blankets and clothing, which they place at $200.

THE LIFE BLOOD WAS EBBING

From the Country, Being Absorbed by the Vampire, When the Government Interfered.

From Friday's Daily.

No more gratifying news was ever published for the enlightenment of a long suffering public than that which the Nugget gave to the citizens of Dawson and the Yukon in yesterday evening's issue concerning the action parliament has just taken on the unlawful and unjust freight rates which the White Pass and Yukon railroad has been extorting from the people during the past two years. Nearly every merchant in the city, both big and little, commission men, brokers, cattlemen, and many of the heaviest mining operators who in the past have themselves felt the blood-sucking power of the mighty octopus, have not hesitated to extend the glad hand in the warmest terms of congratulation for the victory won by the Nugget single handed and alone. The amount wrung from the Klondike during the last two years in absolute extortion over and above what would have been considered a fair compensation for the services rendered is a sum so colossal as to be absolutely staggering. Indeed, the burden was becoming so great that the question of how much longer this, the richest section on earth, could stand the continued drain was a matter of the future welfare of the country. That the action of parliament was inevitable there can scarcely be a doubt. If it were destined that the Yukon should continue to increase the wealth of the world at the annual rate of $25,000,000 it became necessary that the cost of production should not exceed the value of the product, which in many instances it came near doing. Freight rates regulate the cost of practically everything in the country and if the ruinously high tariff were continued in vogue another year or two it would have simply meant ruin to three-fourths of the citizens of the Yukon territory. The result of the brawn and brains of thousands of honest toilers would have passed into the rapacious maw of a monster which possesses no soul and knows not the meaning of satiety.

The clerk, the miner, the tradesman, the laborer who does not ship goods inside and consequently is not brought into direct connection with the payment of freight bills does not realize that he is one of many contributing to the yearly purchase of the White Pass road—a sum which in the aggregate is said to be nearly sufficient to build the road twice over, and it is in operation but little over two years. He buys his provisions, clothing and other necessities, making a mental comparison between the prices paid here and what the same goods could be bought for outside, complains of the excessive cost, but
