A Hair Dressing

Nearly every one likes a fine hair dressing. Something to make the hair more manageable: to keep it from being too rough, or from splitting at the ends. Something, too, that will feed the hair at the same time, a regular hair-food. Well-fedhair will be strong, and will remain where it belongson the head, not on the comb The best kind of a testimonial—"Bold for over sixty years."

The Bacon Hog

The hog question is an important one to the Ontario farmer, and any thing that can be done to aid this industry will be readily acknowledged by the producers. About a dozen years ago the hog production of Ontario was quite different from that of to day, in point of quality of the output. gathered in picnic parties and spent the day on different points. An Athenian party spent the day pleasant their ideas to the box type—if we can call it such. And, in view of the demand from the lumber woods and fat-eating population of the big cities, this was a justifiable type for our farmers to grow. But an English demand for bacon, that might be described as "streaked," created a change in the style of the hog to be produced. Thus we had the selection of the longsided smooth bacon pig, that nearly every farmer now knows at sight. A visitor to stock yards in 1890 and again in 1906 was particularly struck with this great change in the conformation of the pig. The lumbermen have found out the desirability of the bacon type also, and do not desire so much the thick fat sides of yesterday. Still there are, some farmers who produce the fat kind, and these are sent to supply Montreal and other cities where fat meats are still in some demand. The hog required for the bacon type should not be less than 170 pounds and not more than 220 pounds in weight

A Warning

To feel tired after exertion is one thing; to feel tired before is another. Don't say the latter is laziness-it isn't; but it's a sign that the system lacks vitality, is running down, and needs the tonic effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It's a warning, too-and sufferers should begin taking Hood's at once. Buy a bottle to-day.
