The Village Choir

Half a bar, half a bar, Half a bar onward! Into an awful ditch. Choir and Precent Into a mess of pitch. They led the Old Hundred Trebles to right of them, Tenors to left of them, Bassos in front of them, Bellowed and thundered O' that Precentor's look When the sopranos took Screeched all the trebles here Raising the parson's hair. Theirs not to reason why This pealm was pitched too high Out the Old Hundred Tenors to left of them.

Basses in tront of them. Bellowed and thundered. Stormed they with short and yell. Not wise they sang, nor well, Drowning the sexton's bell. Dire the Precentor's glare Sounding fresh keys to bear Swiftly he turned his back. Reached he his hat from rack Then from the screaming pack Himself he sundered. Tenors to right of him. Trebles to left of him Bellowed and thundered Right to the end they fought! ome tune the, sang, but not Not the Old Hundred.

Mr. Bonner and Mand S.

The following remarks on the Queen of the trotting turf, by her owner. Mr. Bonner, will be read with interest by Lorsemen :-

"Now take Blaud S. for example. Well, she is a glutton, if ever there was one. As Bair said to me the other day, she was never known to leave around a mouthful of anything to eat. She would eat twelve quarts a day now if I would let her but I give her barely six quarts, and let her grumble to herself about my stinginess if she wants to. As it is, she keeps in fine condition, just nice and right. If I let her eat her fill she would get as fat as a porpoise; and even if nothing worse happened, should have the hardest kind of work to get her back into condition when spring came around again. Of course economy or any such idea as that has nothing to do with it. When I give $40,000 for a mare I don't care how much she eats. If one hundred quarts of oats a day would do her any good I'd only be too glad to give it to her. That is the great trouble with a man who has a fine anibought of Mr. Paul Dana for $4,000, and, by the way, I wouldn't look at $10,000 for him now; you can't get that horse fat, no matter how much you may Temper. feed him. He is a kind of a horse that won't fatten, just like some men who are always lean and lank, no matter how good a cook they may have.

"One thing that may cause the loss many valuable horses at this time of the year is ignorance or carelessness, that results in their catching cold. Herses are exercised too violently, perhaps, and then allowed to stop and grow cold sud- HARKNESS PAGGES denly. That is all wrong; such treatment is likely to kili a man, and it is restores grey just as dangerous for a horse. After hair to its nament is likely to kill a man, and it is my horses are exercised they are warmly blanketed, and my boys lead them around my stables more and more slowly. A horse wants to cool off gradually and slowly, as the air does when the sun sets, not like a bottle of wine stuck into a freezer. And then, too, you can't be too careful in exercising and driving horses at this time of the year. They should be taken out every day without fail when the weather permits, but be very careful. If you speed your horses in the face of a cold wind, all that cold air pouring into his lungs is likely to injure him very much, and give him lung fever. And even when it is fine you can't be too careful about the surface on which your horse is trotting. wouldn't for $10,000 let Maud S. go out and By for half a mile at top speed on the hard roads of Central Park, and yet lots of men send their best stock flying over such roads daily. A man who knew anything and saw such a thing done would take the horse from the driver and say he was crazy. The beet change you can get to drive in winter is on the soft snow. That won't hurt any horse. Only be careful and not drive them too much at first. The slipping of the feet before they become accustomed to the ice surlace is very painful to the legs, and they should be worked up to it gradually."

If you suffer from Headache you may he sure that your Stomach, Liver or Blood is at fault, and perhaps all three are combined in bad action. If so, the best remedy is Burdock Blood Bitters, wyich cures Headache by regulating the organic action generally.

Most women value a clear complexion, if attainable. Helen of Troy is said to have bathed daily in wine and milk to preserve the purity of her silky skin. Cleopatra used various medicated ointments and fragrant cosmetics to enhance her charms. Catherine of Russia habitually washed in strawberry juice; while strange and grim tales are told about the preparation of the mysterious baths. strange and grim tales are told about the preparation of the mysterious baths Ninon L'Encles is supposed to have indulged in. Our fair sex are less luxurious in these days, and we find that ladies who value a transparent white skindadies who was better the skindadies who was a transparent white skindadies who was a transparent who was a transparent white skindadies who was a transparent white skindadies who was a transparent who was a transparent white skindadies who was a transparent who was rubbing, the face and neck should be washed, and gentle friction is to follow. Ladies are strongly unged to always keep a raw potato on the washstand. One great advantage the potato seems to possess over many other skin purifiers seems to be its exceeding cheapners, as one potato may be used over and over again, since it is only necessary to remove a little of the ovter surface and to pare off a thin slice before applying the freshly cut surface.

Apropos of the excitement which has recently been stirred up regarding the discovery of a cure for the rabies, a correspondent points out that the fourth Duke of Rich mond met a terrible death from hydrophobia in 1819, while Gover-nor General of Canada. He was bitten by a fox while hunting in the county of Perth, Upper Canada.

1873. GRIP! 1886. CANADA'S COMIC JOURNAL!

Thirteenth Year of Publication. The aim of "GRIP" is to set forth, in an impartial and independent manner, the paseing events of Canadian political and social life. Its Cartoons speak more definitely and more pleasingly than whole columns of editerial. In this pungent, easily appreciable, and artistic style of presenting a subject, the whole situation is revealed at a glance. The success of Grip shews how weit this fact is appreciated—its Cartoons on the passing political events of the country being even more eagerly sought after than the chaste and humorous letter-press of the paper,—though the latter is equal to that of any similar publication on the continent.

Fo. 1886, Grip is considerably improved. The old over is to be discarded; the paper is to comprise 12 pages; while a handsome de-
