A few have been working at the saw mill and more will be working there this winter. Mr. Joseph Brackman is moving his mill down south to ection 9, township 59, range 1, where he has quite a large cut in readiness. Still a greater number of settlers have been engaged on their own farms improving the land or building homes. Within a distance of 2 1-2 miles on the built since spring two large frame houses three frame shacks and a large store. The latter is run by Weidrich Bros., and is a branch of their Clyde store. All this work and improve ment speaks well for this part of the country and does not reflect the "financial stringency" which occupies so much space in the papers.
