TRUTH SHALL MAKE YOU FREE

There is a certain verse in the Bible that always makes me wish I were a minister because I could preach a dandy sermon on it.

The verse is this: "And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

I think that the two verses: "Now we see through a glass darkly, but then face to face; now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known," are the most satisfying picture of a future existence in all the Bible or all literature.

We think we know the truth about a good many things nowadays, but do we?

What Do We Know!

What do we know the truth about? Public questions? Do those who know the most about them know the perfect truth? Alas, no! I think no one deserves greater sympathy than the man in public life who wants to do right and stand for truth and who finds himself plunged into a whirlpool of facts and arguments and biases all purporting to be the whole truth. And how much less should we know the truth than he.

Do we know the truth about our friends? Surely not. Those we love? A little more truth but even so only a little. Ourselves? Perhaps the least of all.

Suppose one could have a marriage in which there were both love and perfect truth. Would it not be a wonderful thing—or would it not be able to stand at all?

The Wife's Blackmail.

A man said to me "You have to lie. Life makes you. Love makes you. A marriage without some lies would be impossible. People can't stand the truth. They blackmail each other into lies. We've been married eight years. I love my wife as much as ever but I do take more interest in the society of other women than I did when I was courting her—in the first year or two. Yet she couldn't bear to know that. And so she blackmails me into pretending that I don't, for the sake of peace. Other men do the same, I know. I suppose it has to be but it does seem as if marriage would be a stronger edifice if it had truth as its foundation."

"I shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." What a breath of ozone that seems to carry with it! And just as we cannot breathe pure ozone with the lungs we now have, perhaps we should not be able to survive in an atmosphere of pure truth.

But I like the idea that some day we shall so develop that we shall be able to breathe that purer air.

A Heaven Worth While.

I like the feeling that all the efforts we make to-day toward comprehending truth and toward living truth, are bringing us nearer to that capacity.

I'm not partial to the conception of Heaven that pictures us playing on harps. I never was attracted by the vision of golden streets, with walls of amethyst and gates of pearl (I'd much prefer a wood road in May powdered with horsehoe violets). I hate the suggestion of eternal idleness. But, oh, I do love the promise of a clearer air where we shall know the truth and the truth shall make us free.

Free from anxiety, free from fear, from vanity and jealousy and the petty tyrannies and passions, I think it means. And above all free from self. Don't you often wish you could get away from yourself? I do. And I think that means we shall.

TEN YEARS OLD.

Ten years old and your head up high. With never a cloud in the summer sky. And seldom a tear to dim your eye.

Ten years old, and you fancy still That life must bow to your slightest will. And you may eat till you've had your fill.

Ten years old, and your legs are stout. And made for kicking your new boots out. And you haven't encountered a single doubt.

The worst you know of the world so Is a cut or a bruise from a jolt or a jar. And the terrible trial that fractions are.

Ten years old, and your laughter rings. As sweet as the song the robin sings. For never a burden the morning brings.

Little you know of the ache and strife. And the pitiless edge of Fate's cruel knife.

Or the hurts which come in the game of life.

For always the sun is as gleaming gold. And never the wintry days seem cold. Out of your boyhood you soon must run.

But laugh along and reap your fun. Out of your boyhood you soon must run. And care begins when the playfife's done.

Then as you stand where I stand to-day. Watching a boy of your own at play. It may be that I shall have gone away!

But I hope you'll smile as I smile at you. Hearing his laughter the whole day through. And think one more of the joys you knew.

Then you may tell, as his hand you hold. As I'm holding yours, what your dad once told: It's a wonderful joy to be ten years old.

Municipal Council

The regular weekly meeting of the Council was held yesterday afternoon. Mayor Cook presided and Councilors Outerbridge, Vinnicombe, Collier, Ryan and Dowden were present.

The Minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed, and the regular business of the meeting disposed of, after which the following matters were dealt with.

The Deputy Colonial Secretary forwarded a copy of reports from the Council of the Board of Trade and their sub-committee, in reference to the supply of light and power for the city of St. John's from the standpoint of the consumer, together with a report on the Electric Plant. The matter was discussed at last meeting, and is deferred for further consideration.

A petition signed by a number of City Sportmen, asking that the License Fees for sporting dogs be the same as last season, was tabled. The Council has already fixed the Fees to be paid this year, and are therefore unable to accede to the request of the petitioners.

D. Smith applied for position in connection with the Sanitary Staff. There is no vacancy.

M. W. Myrick drew attention to the necessity of having a gully placed at the corner of Knight Street and Military Road. The Engineer will enquire into same.

Complaint was received that the land in the vicinity of Newtown Road is being used for dump purposes. During the past few days this was discontinued.

R. Sutton's offer of land for the deposition of garbage was referred to the Sanitary Supervisor.

The Dominion Vulcanizing Company's application for permission to install gasoline tank at their station, Adelaide Street, was referred to the Inspector General.

Household Notes.

To get the true flavor of raspberries, sprinkle with sifted sugar and stand in sun for an hour, covered with light muslin to keep flies away.

Shrimp and cucumber make an excellent combination for a summer salad. Run the shrimp through the food chopper and garnish with water-cress.

When putting up lunches or picnic meals, use the small receptacles which have no cover of their own by pouring melted paraffin over top after filling.

Before heating apples for cooking, pour scalding water over them and allow them to stand for several minutes. The peeling will come off as thin as paper.

A deliciously cool drink for a hot summer day is made by pouring one pint hot tea over cracked ice, and adding one pint bottle ginger ale. Serve with sugared lemon slices.

If you are having an ice or fruit punch as part of a menu of a formal dinner, serve it between the meat and game courses. If game is not served, omit the ice.

A very delicious dessert is made by using ordinary unfrosted layer cake. Split the cake, spread on lower half of the favorite ice cream, and then replace the upper half, and serve with hot chocolate or fruit sauce.
