Big Attractions at the Majestic Next Week

CELEBRATED DANCER AND MIND READER.

The public are anxiously awaiting the arrival of Mem-O-Rea, the man who is designated to possess a thousand minds. As you will note by today's advertisement, if you have any secrets, stay away from the Majestic. This does not naturally mean that if you have a skeleton in the closet, it will be disclosed, because there are many things which will occupy the minds and attentions of the public. Another attraction is Miss Rita Johnston, who is known as the champion international dancer. She is some "dancer" if the press reports are to be relied upon. Anyway, the public will learn for themselves the correctness or otherwise of the way many complimentary references accorded her.

The feature is "Fools in the Dark," starring Patsy Ruth Miller. By reason of these added attractions, the night prices return to the old rate of 50c, whilst the Matinee prices will remain the same as at present.

In Abraham's Days

There is a temporary exhibition at the British Museum of antiquities recovered from the Ur site. Ur of the Chaldees is mentioned in the Bible as the original home of Abraham.

In the collection are pigmy women in finesses, trills, or accordion players, and wearing all sorts of good-luck charms, consisting of the heads of lions, bulls, and tigers.

Four or five thousand years ago children learnt grammar and arithmetic. Teaching tablets were unearthed upon one of which was inscribed "The Property of the Boy's School."

Another exhibit is a vase intended to be inlaid in a casket. Upon it is a beardless figure with long hair, resembling a modern type of intellectual.

Tablets were found on which (in the form of twelve columns) the accounts of a factory run by a Temple were recorded. The Temple received wool from farmers for tiling or rent, and distributed it to women slaves for weaving.

A strict account was kept of the weight of wool issued, of the amount
