THE WASHINGTON KNIFE THAT has been so laboriously sharpened by "Bystander" and his fellow-plotters, must have its edgo turned by the ballot to-day and thus save the national throat of Canada. Uncovering her young, her promising and beautiful neck for the traitor's ruthless blow is not a chiralrous or heroic business. Yet this has been the relentless and unmanly work of the Master of the Queen's English ever since he came to this country, apparently forgetting that already Canadian hemp had been stretched on a misbehaved Oxford man as a wholesome warning to blue-blooded people to intrude their wicked deeds on a spirited, industrious and peaceful people. Canada's innocent throat or the traitor's knife is really the question before the people to-day.
