

3. What did nine of them do?

Went away without saying "thank you" to Jesus.

4. What did the other one do?

He thanked and worshipped Jesus.

5. For what should we love and thank Jesus?

For all he has done for us.

We thank thee, Lord, for all things
That come from thy good hand;
The great, the good, the small things
That crown our happy land.

JOLLY'S RIGHTS.

Running here and there, the four puppies had frolicked, making the old barn their playground all the morning. But they were tired by the time their dinner came; and Gyp and Nep were stretched out on a low box to rest, while Fritz and Jolly lay on the straw near by. The plate Bridget had brought out for them looked tempting, but Gyp stretched himself lazily.

"O-o-o! I'm too tired to get down there," he said; "give me a bite of it up here, Jolly."

Good-natured little Jolly did as he was asked, and then settled himself to his own dinner with his bright eyes twinkling.

"That's nice," said Nep. "You'll give me a piece, won't you, Fritz?"

But Fritz barked sharply: "No, sir; guess I won't! You can come down here and get your dinner for yourself, if you want any. I don't have to wait on you."

Nep whined a little, scrambled down, and then he and Fritz quarrelled for the best pieces until there was not much left for either of them.

"I don't have to do what other folks want; I'm going to stand up for my rights," said Fritz.

"So am I," answered wise little Jolly; "but I'm going to stand up for my right to be kind most of all. I believe if everybody would take care of that one, the rest of their rights would take care of themselves."