Affirms the importance which it attaches to the abolition of all systems of forced or "corrective" labour, whether employed as a means of political coercion or punishment for holding or expressing political views or on such a scale as to constitute an important element in the economy of a country,

Invites the Economic and Social Council and the International Labour Organisation, as a matter of urgency, to give early consideration to the report of the Ad Hoc Committee on Forced Labour at their next sessions with this aim in view,

Requests the Secretary-General to consult with governments who have not yet found it possible to provide to the effect that they submit such information before the seventeenth session of the Economic and Social Council so that these replies may be brought to the attention of the Council, and the United State Committee within the Continue of the United State Committee of the United State

Requests the Economic and Social Council to report of the General Assembly.

Solution of the General Assembly, and the peoples of the peoples of the people of the sale negation specific that the Economic and Social Geneil sale to a system the session was unable to consider there considering that systems of forced labour constitute as serious threat to fundamental human rights and jeopardize as serious threat to fundamental human rights and jeopardize the freedom and status of workers in contravention of the fine obligations and provisions of the Chapter of the United Nations.

on Forced Labour has now been placed on the agenda of the on the agenda of the seventheenth session of the Economia and Social Council and seventheenth session of the Governing Body of the International Labour Office.

Considering that is view of this delay there is still time for certain governments which have not yet done so to provide information in response to the Ad Hoc Committee's request for comments and observations on the