

- (ii) industries which are substantially owned and effectively controlled by an individual or enterprise of a Member State or Member States themselves;
- (iii) industries with special export potential;
- (iv) industries which contribute significantly to the reduction of unemployment in the Member States;
- (v) industries defined by the Member States as integration industries;
- (vi) industrial and related services required for the acceleration of the industrial development of Member States;
- (vii) industries which are located in the Less Developed Countries of the Caribbean Community and the Common Market.

5. Member States, in order to facilitate industrial cooperation for the purposes of this Agreement, will provide indications of their individual industrial development priorities to complement the foregoing more general priorities of Member States. Such additional national development intentions, by sector or other appropriate breakdown, together with Canadian indications of sectoral interests will form the basis for discussion of specific industrial cooperation initiatives.

6. The Contracting Parties will also cooperate in the transfer of technology and possible establishment and expansion of industrial research facilities in Member States. In particular, Canada will assist in the development of industrial management and engineering skills in Member States through such measures as training assistance and the possible utilization of Member States' consultants and consulting firms, wherever practical in association with Canadian firms, in Canadian development assistance projects.

7. The Contracting Parties agree to encourage the adoption of measures to promote industrial cooperation by regional institutions such as the Caribbean Development Bank and the Caribbean Investment Corporation. They recognize the importance of financing, such as export credit facilities on conditions as favourable as possible, for the further development of their trade and industrial relations. They also recognize the importance of facilitating the exchange of information on investment possibilities, the utilization of investment missions, and similar measures in order to draw attention to possibilities of industrial cooperation.

8. Canada and the Member States agree to examine the most effective marketing methods, techniques and strategies for the expansion of trade in the products of the industries of Member States, particularly the less developed ones, especially with respect to products of industrial cooperation projects arranged under the Agreement, both within the Joint Trade and Economic Committee established under the Agreement and, as appropriate, through other bilateral and multilateral fora.
