Whitney because Sir James has done what is right. I might say that I have taken to cot of against my party and I propose to explain these to you tonight. On one occasion I voted against the child labor bill. Many times have I seen little girls coming home from work from shops in Toronto, and it made me think that these girls should have at least two years more before going out to earn their pittance, and when the Factory Act was brought before the house I voted for the amendment moved by a Labor member, which was to the effect that the age limit should have been 12 and not 10. I then voted against the government, and will do it again if I think it is necessary. I believe that on a question of principle I should fight my party's battles, but I do not think that I should be bound to vote against the propose to explain on the limit is party as so my own bill. It was an amendment to the Marriage Act. I believe that marriage is the most sacred and serious contract that any two people could enter into. I have no use for divorce except in most extreme provocation. When I drew the streme provocation the other provided the provided the streme provocation. There are already two acts on the statute books of this province, the Temperance Act and the Local Option Act, which is in force in a great number of places in Ontario. You cannot legislate a man to be good, it is impossible, it is just a question of treatment. There is no doubt but that if we could wash the drink traffic off the face of the earth we would be much better off; but we have it with us, and you cannot say to a man, 'you must do this and you must not drink,' because the very first thing he will do will be to do that which you say he must not."

The doctor then took up the question of the naval bill, at present before the house of parliament at Ottawa. He expressed his approval of the Borden proposition in every way, explaining that Canada must show, the

W. F. Maclean then addressed the meeting. It was his intention in the coming summer to make a tour of the coming s being done for the betterment of the people and even to improve the condition of the women. Some people are taking objection to the women movement in England. The women in England have a grievance. They are trying to bring their cause before parliament in England. They may, perhaps, be a little rough-shod in some of their methods, bue the women will be heard, and the government of Engbe heard, and the government of Eng-

Dr. Godfrey paid a splendid tribute to the late Lord Beaconsfield, whom be classed as one of the great statesmen of England.

In dealing with some criticism of the action of the member for South York, the doctor said: "I want to say that no member or representative in the legislature should be bound to vote exactly as his party votes. An Unusual Building Week.

Last week was one of the most remarkable building weeks for many months. The total was not unusual, altho it was only a few dollars short of the million mark, but it was made up almost entirely of permits for dwellings, without any large single buildings to swell the figures. Permits for 323 dwellings were taken out, and if this rate were kept up, which it will not be, it would mean 13,000 houses a year.

The average cost of the houses for which building permission was granted was $2400, which would mean a selling price for

When I drew the attention of the Ontario Government to this they promised to bring forward a bill similar to mine if I would cancel mine; but when the bill was introduced it did not go quite so far as I wanted it to go. The bills did not go so far as I should have liked with regard to the marriage of idlots. Next session I am going to bring forward another amendment to the Marriage Act and will proceed with it until it is right.

"These are the only two apologies I have to make, I have been a Tory all my life, but a mighty independent one, and if I think my party are wrong I would not heistate to vote against them. I left my party once and will do so again if necessary.
