Actions for Slander.

Mr. MacKay, in moving the second reading of his bill dealing with libel actions against newspapers, said that the present Ontario law was practically the same as that which had been repealed in Britain in 1888, following upon the premature publication by The London Times of an official police report charging a Swiss firm with extensive swindling. Mr. MacKay also referred to the recent outcome of proceedings against a Toronto newspaper for publishing an anticipatory report, in support of his bill, which would make it permissible for newspapers to publish reports of proceedings of any deliberative body to which the reporter was admitted, or of any official government or municin statement issued any official government or muni-

"I would not sell the Dolly Varden trade mark, which is registered in Canada and the United States, for a million dollars," said the president of the Dolly Varden Shoe Company, who was recently at the King Edward.

(Dolly Varden Shoe Trade Mark.)

The trade mark is taken from the best story Charles Dickens ever wrote, and the engaging little heroine who captivates the hearts of all, has a myiad of admirers, both masculine and feminine. She was the creator of feminine fashion. Whatever she wore became the vogue in London. Never fantastic or flashy in her attire, Dolly Varden always exhibited that good taste which marks the highest type of cultured gentlewoman.
