DUTY. The sweetest lives are those to duty wed, Whose deeds, both great and small, Are close knit strands of an unbroken thread. Where love ennobles all. The world may sound no trumpet, ring no bells; The book of life the shining record tells.

Thy love shall chant its own beatitudes Atter its own life-working. A child's kiss

Set on thy singing lips, shall make thee glad;

A poor man served by thee shall make thee rich: A sick man helped by thee shall make thee strong: Thou shalt be served thyself by every Of service which thou renderest.

Women's Canadian Historical Society.

The Woman's Canadian History So-ciety of Toronto held its annual meet-ing at the Canadian Institute. Mrs. Forsyth Grant, president, stated that by resolution of the executive the meet-ing would be confined exclusively to necessary business, as a mark of re-ment to their late vice president. Mrs. spect to their late vice-president, Mrs. John A. Paterson. A resolution com-memorating the important work for the society by Mrs. Paterson, was

"The Test." in which Blanche Walsh opened a three days' engagement at the Princess last night, may be con-fidently recommended to that class of theatre-goers who take their pleasures sadly. Not that the present contribu-tion of Jules Eckert Goodwin is so ortent in its depressing influence as "The Kreutzer Sonata," in which Miss Walsh appeared in Toronto last sea-son, but its seriousness of purpose is o evident that one might almost sus-pect the author of being a young uni-versity graduate, who has specialized in soc ological studies and has plumbed the depths of knowledge of human suf-fering by several months' dabbling in settlement work. Mr. Goodwin has a fondness for the coining of epigrams on the impulses and fradkies of human kind, and by creating as the chief male character Arthur Thone, who writes onveis after the style of Henry James, he allows himself scope for a good deal of moralizing on the wherefore and whyness of things in general. The plot appears to offer some incon-sistencies. Emma Ellynge, a young woman of the middle class, has made for the actifices ten years be-fore the action of the viav opens her "The Test." in which Blanche Walsh

Billy Watson and his troupe of bur-lesquers, "Girls From Happyland," drew two good crowds at the Gayety yesterday. Billy is well-known here, and he is as funny as ever. The opening turn, a musical medley entitled "Two Hot Nights," gives the principals of the show many oppor-tunities to show their ability as laugh-makers, and there is lots of fun all the way thru. Billy Watson and his slide, and Charlie Brown are creating mirth all the time. Mabel Leslie, billed as the queen of burlesque, sings a couple of catchy songs in a way to capture the house. The chorus work is excellent, the girls being well drilled and pretty, and they can all sing fairly. A Vory Pleasing Shirtwaist
