STREET RAILWAY
ASKS AID OF LAW

Wants Interpretation of Agreement With the City
Over Percentages.

A special meeting of the board of control will be held this morning, to deal with the developments in the fight between the city and the Toronto Railway Company, over the non-payment of percentages due the city from earnings of the Toronto Railway Company. Mayor Church, it is understood, will press the board to instruct the city solicitor to issue a writ against the company at once, and have the sheriff take possession of the system until the overdue percentages are paid.

There was some surprise in the city hall yesterday, when it was learned the company had applied to Osgoode Hall for an interpretation of their agreement with the city, and desired particularly to know whether, in the event of postponement of the payments to the end of the franchise, the city's lien would take precedence over the claims of the bondholders.

The city's legal advisers have argued that the company could not make a special agreement to give the city first claim on their assets for payment of the percentages without the consent of the bondholders, and that the provincial legislature would not approve of such an agreement without that consent. The present action of the company seems to be to find out whether their bondholders really hold the whip hand.

When the company first made its application to the city for the privilege of withholding the payments until the end of the franchise, Mayor Church instructed the city solicitor to have a writ issued at once, but the solicitor decided to wait for instructions from the board of control.

Commenting on the situation, Mayor Church said yesterday:

"It is just what I thought," was the mayor's comment. "The company were not acting in good faith when they made their applications to the board of control."

"During vacation, my instructions were upset by the board of control, altho they had no power in law to do that, and allowed time in which to hear the company. The company got a three months' adjournment, and now owe the city about half a million dollars. They have been playing a game of hide and seek with our officials. The object of putting that lien in the street railway agreement was to make sure that the city secured prompt payment of the percentages as they fell due. If they were not paid, then we could exercise that lien by securing a summary judgment against the company and place the sheriff in to collect the amount. That was the reason why the late S. H. Blake had a clause like that inserted."
