

STUKELY MILLS, &c.

I was assigned three appointments, namely, North and South Ely and Stukely Mills. At the latter place, as there remains but one Protestant family, the others formerly there having emigrated to the United States, I thought it well to preach at Lawrenceville, the place of my residence, and the centre of a vast Roman Catholic population. Our English friends there have kindly offered me the use of their church, and, through their influence, several Roman Catholics may be seen in our meetings. I have also visited Stukely Mills occasionally. I have preached 130 sermons, have held 110 prayer-meetings and four class-meetings; I have made 800 pastoral calls among Protestants and Catholics; distributed thirty Bibles and Testaments, and baptized two children. The average attendance at our meetings is from fifty to sixty, while the number of communicants is about twenty-seven. The work seems to give favorable indications for the future. While waiting for "better days," we are working and praying that God may bless the labor of our hands.

ANTOINE GEOFFROY.

OTTAWA AND HULL.

We feel very thankful to God our Father for the measure of success that has crowned our labor during the past year. It is not that we can add any one truly converted to the number reported last year by my predecessor, but, with thankful heart to our common Lord, we can say that many persons and families have been greatly influenced under our feeble efforts, and, more especially, two among those families, though they have not yet pronounced themselves free from the Church of Rome, are strongly in favor of our Church, and more especially of the Bible. They say they believe it to be the guide of life. I may state here that the population in general in Hull, and Ottawa as well, seems to be better disposed to receive the Gospel to-day than ever before, and I believe, if this field is properly cultivated in the future, great success will be the result. I therefore hope that all possible means will be employed to continue the work of the Gospel in these appointments.
