Montreal Market.

Montreal, May 11—The market shows little change in character from what we have been having for some weeks.

The dealing remains relatively quiet, while investment account is playing quite a part in the buying power. See no reason to change views that stock are a purchase for investment.

James Reid-Wilson died this morning in London.

C. N. R. first week May decrease $40,000; from July 1 to 1913, $77,000.

Twin City lines, fourth week April increase $17,210; April increase $44,991; from July 1 increase, $17,947.

Wall Street Notes.

New York, May 11—Syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. offering $50,000,000 New Haven 5 per cent notes.

Illinois coal miners' operations have agreed upon settlement of differences.

New York merchants estimate that loss in trade with Mexico amounts to $200,000 a day.

Immigration to the United States has declined heavily.

April fire losses $17,000,800, or nearly $1,000,000 more than in April, 1913.

American in London heavy, 1-4 to 3-4 off.

Stock market is promised for the stock market standard issues on all new issues.

Stock offered at low prices will go in to strong hands.

Cheap money is reported over the end of the year. Advantage is understood to be taken of the situation by pool investors.

Steel trade revives, says the Commercial.

Bank statement shows unusually strong position.

London hopeful, Paris less acute.

The Outlook.

New York, May 9—The market is at last beginning to show itself capable of some analysis after weeks of disturbed irregularity, during which, in the fog of little forecasting light has been discernable. The situation may be summed up as follows:

First, the Mexican outlook, while reports are one day favorable and the next adverse, seems to be slowly clearing, and the Wilson policies are beginning in some quarters to be reluctantly admitted as a policy of execution. News from Mexico is said to be quite unreliable, but indications are that Huerta is a man of more sense than he is credited with, and whatever may follow him, the policy of pacification, possibly with guns back of it, is bound to proceed. At any rate, the Mexican situation is a market factor, is to some extent becoming negligible.

The next in importance (perhaps more important) is the railroad situation. This, too, is clearing a little, as far as rate advance is concerned. It is becoming apparent that the Interstate Commerce Commission is reluctantly yielding. At least, if it is not, congress itself may take a hand and force this unwieldy, impracticable body to do the only sensible thing: create a commission and can direct it.

The democratic leaders must see that the party is doomed if business continues to decline. The one remedy at the moment is the rehabilitation of earning power for the railroads. An immediate raising rates is the only hope here, and if the commission does not act promptly, congress may force it to do so.

If the business of the country were trending towards activity and prosperity, anti-trust legislation would cease to hold terrors for it.

The iron trade situation indicates recovery somewhere around July, if by that time, railroad rates are raised, and the path will be open for better feeding and confident activity. The latest government crop report shows ideal indications for the grains. Money is easy and the installation of the federal reserve system will smooth out the fall squabbles and put the country on a solid basis financially for a long future.

All this will probably be indicated in the stock market (as is usually the case) some time before the factors actually materialize in the business world. Unpropitious happenings, however, are always liable to develop when war clouds are hanging over, and with the railroads in peril, might change the whole aspect of things.

BISHOP OF STEPHNEY SAW KAISER'S BLUNT REMARK AS A JOKE

Dr. Henry Luke Paget, D. D., Bishop of Stepney, tells the following story on himself and the Kaiser.

The bishop was conducting the then Princess Louise (now the Duchess of Brunswick) around St. Paul's Cathedral, and, as usual, he and the princess were snatched by newspaper-representatives.

On her return to Berlin the princess proudly produced the photographs for her imperial father to see. The Kaiser studied one of the pictures attentively, then said bluntly: "If Englishmen of peace look like that, what must their prize fighters look like?"

DETECTIVES GUARD MAYOR OF MONTREAL

Montreal, May 11—Detectives are this morning guarding Mayor Melville's house, as a result of the labor situation. There have been rumors of threats of violence on the part of foreign elements who declare that the city officials have held out promises of labor which have not been realized.

The mayor is particularly blamed for two weeks ago he informed a gathering that in a few days there would be work for all.

Among the reports to the city council the board of control this morning are three asking authorization of loans amounting to $12,000,000. One for $7,300,000 constitutes the balance of a $18,000,000 loan for permanent works authorized last year. The three loans will bring the total of the city's debt up to $88,000,000.

PROVIDES LIGHT AND AIR

As a solution of the overcrowding evil as well as the ventilation of the many American and Canadian cities, and as a remedy for the lack of light and air, which characterizes so many of them, the St. John's Housing Commission has come to the fore. It has been erected in Paris, France, and is regarded by students of the housing problem as a model of the housing problem as a model of the housing problem.

April fire losses $17,000,800, or nearly $1,000,000 more than in April, 1913.
