"A sharp knife cut my bonds, as Ned's wice shipmend in my sea to me "A sharp knife cut my bonds, as Ned's voice whispered in my ear to rise softly and follow him. Crouching and skulking, we succeeded, under cover of the night, in putting some distance between the village and ourselves, then we started on a rapid run. No words passed between us, as we knew the danger was not yet over, for it could not be long before our escape would be noticed.

"Just hear him!" exclaimed, each clocking at the other.

"If ten of you have boys-without holes in the knees of their pants, this X goes to the Society," said Johnson.

"Our flight had been discovered!

"By the light on the Britannia we knew that all was action and excitement there. Was there time for our comrades to come to our help before we should again be captured and led back to certain death?

"Closer came the blood-thirsty yells; but just then we heard over the water:

"Sourage, mates, we're come to specific. We found it to the paper for inspection. We found it to the paper for inspection. We found it to the paper for inspection.

"Courage, mates, we're coming!"
"Nearer came our rescuers—we could hear the splash of their oars.
"Then one of the savages saw us, and with a furious shout of vengeful triumph, our dusky foes surrounded us, and had not Providence mercifully interposed, the brave lad and I would have fallen, pierced by a hundred knives.

"Do you not understand? I am Stowaway Ned, the boy whom you loved and who loved you; and the daughter you seek has been my wife these twenty years!" Turning to the little, golden-haired Mamie, Mr. Langley said: "Go call your mother daughter."

A few moments passed. The door opened and before the old man's eyes entered a form like and yet unlike his own lost Mary's.

The above events had passed so rapidly that his half-stunned brain had failed to entirely grasp their meaning, as Mrs. Langley, a fair noble-looking woman, came to her husband's side, evidently surprised at the strange excitement she 20 Octaves OLD SCOTCH WHISKEY,

Suddenly he comprehended all, and exclaiming, in broken tones:

"Found! found! my Mary! my daughter!" he would have fallen had not strong arms caught him.

"With a loud English cheer our makes charged upon the cowardly horde. Then sharp, stinging pain shot through me, and I knew no more till I opened my eyes on the Britanna's deck, to find solicitous faces bending over me and my forehead wet with Ned's tears.

"When I was better Ned told us how, with a great deal of difficulty, he had secreted akmife, and when, through his pretended submission to his lot, his captors had ceased watching him so closely, he had stolen in the dead of the night and had released me as I have already told.

"That was my first voyage to those parts. In consequence of my wound I had to give up shipboard life after that for several years; and I stayed in England with my little daughter, whom I had named Mary, after her mothers but as soon as I was strong again I once more became a sailor. Though Ned and I were parted—he staying on the Britannia—I heard from him whenever he could send me a message.

"After a time came grand news. Agentleman of means had seen and taken fancy to the bright lad, and had offered to adopt and educate him if he would leave his seafaring life. The boy had always craved for book-learning, and so he consented gladly.

Nearly every person that has taken any preparation of Cod-Liver-Oil, knows how very liable it is to disagree with them after a time; this is mainly due to the inability of the stomach (weak-ned by disease) to digest the full amount of the oil taken.
To overcome this trouble we have added Panceratine to our Emulsion, which not only assists in digesting the oil, but is an acknowledged remedy of itself in the treatment of Consumption.

In taking Mattison's Pancreatic Emulsion of CodLiver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime, you receive the benefit of two of the best remedies known to science, in the treatment of any of the above
