

A FISHING TRIP NEAR THE SEA.

Among the Trout Streams and Salmon Pools of New Brunswick-Lakes That Abound With the Finny Tribes.

(Our Toronto Star.) Now the Fourway Lodge is opened; Now the Humber and the Snake; Now the Smokes of Spring go up to clear the brain, And the Sea-Trout's jumping crazy for the Fry.

There were five clear days for sport at the end of May and the beginning of June. The weather was ideal. The lake was full. The trout were jumping. The anglers were busy. The day was bright. The sun was shining. The water was clear. The fish were fat.

The Maritime express on the Intercontinental took a goodly company of fishermen. They were going to the Grand Cascapedia. They were going to the St. John's River. They were going to the Miramichi. They were going to the Restigouche. They were going to the Gadeaux.

Plunging into the forests on the I. C. R., beyond St. Joseph, there were some fine views. The mountains were high. The valleys were deep. The forests were dense. The water was clear. The air was fresh.

Mr. Mowat, who is a native of the Restigouche country, has been the pioneer of fish preservation on New Brunswick. He has been successful. He has been generous. He has been helpful. He has been kind. He has been good.

Gray daylight at Metapedia, where one sleeper was left, and a few miles farther at Tidewater. A birch canoe, with a couple of Indians, was on the shore. The water was calm. The sky was clear. The sun was bright.

Salmon rivers are among the most valuable assets of the provinces, and the right to fish in them is one of the oldest rights. The law is clear. The court is just. The people are happy. The country is prosperous.

The sea trout is first caught or stepped to him of the brook, but running larger, up to six pounds or more, and it is very good to eat. It is very fresh. It is very tender. It is very delicious. It is very healthy.

For the rest of the morning we paddled about among the rocks and trees. In likely places, getting a trout occasionally, though they do not rise with the same vigor as in the early hours. After a while, however, we were lase for an hour or two in friendly shade, and towards evening start for Campbello. On the way there is a boom, perhaps a fall, and the water is wide enough to walk in comfort. There is good water on either side, and one can command the river with the fly.

There is a large trout on the bank, and it is a very good one. It is a very large one. It is a very fat one. It is a very fresh one. It is a very tender one. It is a very delicious one. It is a very healthy one.

Just a little further down we had a chance to see the salmon hatchery, where were thousands of little fry, hatched from eggs gathered the previous season, and soon to be deposited in the river to supply the nets through netting and otherwise. Alexander E. Mowat, who has charge of the hatchery, and an old acquaintance, came there at the request of the fisherman to place the nets for this season's catch of breeding salmon, and explained the process of spawning the fish and caring for the eggs. The salmon were taken out of the nets and placed in a pond near the shore, where they are kept till the spawn is ripe, late in the autumn. They are then set out on the stream, and the female fish added and stirred in to impregnate the ova, which are placed in troughs to hatch, a process which takes about ten days.

which takes a couple of months or more. The process is watched with great care, and the percentage of eggs that become fry is large. There are a good many opinions as to the practical value of artificial hatching, some contending that the bulk of the fry are gobbled up by the trout, some saying that when first placed in the big water, but there is no doubt that the eggs justly justify the expense.

Lake fishing for a change next day. The fish are good in New Brunswick, but the hills are so high, and the wind which is 1,800 feet high, and a landmark for many miles, and then up, through the woods, where we were many large patches of snow still left in the shade places. Now we are at Partridge's Lake, a beautiful little mountain lake, with a perfect island and a few hundred yards wide, full of red trout, many of which run a pound or over. They are not quite so lively as the ones in the St. John's, but give plenty of sport, especially in the morning, and at twilight, when they take the fly readily. The major-domo of Partridge's Lake and land adjacent is an Englishman, an Englishman, a blue-coat boy at that, who, after years of wandering in foreign parts, settled down with his family to enjoy the life of a country gentleman, and his surroundings in Canadian wilds, for he is a rare old sport, and his den is filled with trophies of the chase, including a few bears, a moose, and a caribou, and a few other animals. He has a fine collection of birds, and a few other animals. He has a fine collection of birds, and a few other animals. He has a fine collection of birds, and a few other animals.

It was in 1858, before the execution of Louis Riel, that Quebec was in a ferment, and Bergeron and other conservative were present at the great meeting held in the Champ de Mars, at which Sir John Macdonald's government was bitterly denounced for permitting the hanging of the noble Riel. It was in 1858, before the execution of Louis Riel, that Quebec was in a ferment, and Bergeron and other conservative were present at the great meeting held in the Champ de Mars, at which Sir John Macdonald's government was bitterly denounced for permitting the hanging of the noble Riel.

Then it was that John Roche and another newspaper man proceeded to pour oil on the flames of the French-Canadian wrath. They were both employed in the printing department, and their articles were full of fire and brimstone. They were both employed in the printing department, and their articles were full of fire and brimstone.

The morning was pleasant, but the heat of the day made it a labor to cast, and it is a pretty good exercise at the time, with a 16-foot rod and twenty or thirty yards of line, and the only regret of the morning's work was a couple of trout and a small minnow. The fish were good. The day was bright. The sun was shining. The water was clear.

There are all sorts of salmon-pool-ers, some there in a heavy rain, with a deep pool below, and others who are long stretch of comparatively smooth water, from two to six or eight feet deep, in which one can see the stones at the bottom. The canoe is kept close to the bank, and the fish are taken from the shore. The water is clear. The sky is blue.

One who has not done much trout-fishing is more than likely to take it as a great feat to see a man take a fly, and can hardly resist the inclination to strike; if he does he jerks the fly out of the water, and loses it altogether, with perhaps a small trout to boot. It is a very common thing to see a man take a fly, and can hardly resist the inclination to strike.

It was not long after landing the first fish that there was another rise; a black one this time, so Ferguson said, he had to be fought with all the same, and handled carefully at the end of the line without losing the fly, all of which was successfully accomplished.

Then there was another, which seemed sure, until just as the fly touched him at the water's edge he made a mighty splash and got away, and still another—a nice mate to the first, which gave us a merry laugh down the river and was safely landed just at twilight.

With two good salmon rolled up in our gear, which were kept in the moonlight. There is a sleeper on the bank, and it is a very good one. It is a very large one. It is a very fat one. It is a very fresh one. It is a very tender one. It is a very delicious one. It is a very healthy one.

It was very smoky as we neared the river, and the smoke was so thick that we could not see the hills. The river was full. The water was clear. The fish were fat. The anglers were busy.

Justing from the letters of people up in year there is no medicine which so promptly frees them of aches and pains as the famous regularity of the kidneys and liver, which is so distinguished by the Levis' Kidney-Liver Pills. Even when all other means have failed old people can turn to this great medicine with full assurance of relief and cure.

LONDON LIFE.

Local Notions.

Its Wickedness and Its Vice Only. There are very few cleaning operations in which Sunlight Soap cannot be used to advantage. It makes the home bright and clean.

How a Countryman Views the World's Metropolis When He Visits It—Native.

Do Not Take in the Sights. The wickedness of London and the inherent vice of London are firmly rooted notions in the provincial mind which take a good deal of eradicating.

They draw general conclusions from the facts of London and account their vice cases which are altogether too sweeping. We have our little fallings and our little inconspicuous; but after all a man may safely take the last tramway car home from the city to his suburb in spite of the vicious hoodlums, and a lady may do her shopping in Bond Street and walk in High street, Kensington, without fear of being kidnapped in broad daylight. But the provincial on their first visit to London take a little time to shake off their nervousness of such things.

Nevertheless the Londoner is much envied for living in the centre of civilization. "What a privilege to live in touch with the British Museum," says the country gentleman, with a sigh of regret, "suppose you drop in there constantly?" "How glorious to live within a penny's bus ride of the National Gallery?" says the artistic young lady.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

FREDERIGTON.

A Man at Geary, Sunbury Co. Arrested for Incendiarism.

As It Ever was, There Is a Woman at the Bottom of the Case—Court News—Also Some Local Matters.

FREDERIGTON, June 18.—The June term of the York nisi prius sittings opened this morning with Chief Justice Tuck presiding, and a large attendance of the bar. The grand jury congratulated his honor upon his recovery from his recent indisposition. The chief justice made a felicitous reply, after which he discharged the grand jury from further attendance. The following civil docket was made up:

W. Harvey Clark v. Samuel Kennedy, F. B. Carvell files record. A. B. Connel, K. C., and J. R. Murphy, K. C., Ira Frederick v. John Gibson and Wallace Gibson, executors of the last will and testament of Wm. Gibson, deceased. J. D. Finney, K. C., for defendant. Frederick B. Edgcombe v. Alfred G. Edgcombe, R. W. McLeellan files record. J. D. Finney, K. C., for defendant.

Allen B. Wilnot, administrator of James D. Macpherson, deceased, v. James Macpherson, deceased, v. James Macpherson, deceased, v. James Macpherson, deceased. C. files record. Winslow and Allen for defendant.

The case of Clark v. Kennedy, an action of trespass to lands in the parish of Canterbury, was then taken up, and was tried all day and continues tomorrow.

Palmer Carey of Geary, Sunbury Co., was arrested last Saturday night at Geary on a warrant sworn out by James B. Smith of that place, whose house and contents were destroyed by fire on Thursday night last, charging Carey with incendiarism. Mr. Smith claims to have direct evidence connecting Carey with the crime. It seems that there has been bad feeling between the two men for some time past owing to the attitude of Smith in supporting last night's examination of the redoubtable Carr's advances. Carr is reported to have used threatening language against the Smith family last night, and it is considered will take place at Ormocote Saturday morning. R. W. McLeellan, prosecuting. The prisoner has retained A. J. Gray, K. C., to defend him.

The party of children from the Middlemore Home, Birmingham, Eng., numbering fifty, who arrived in the city last night, were all accommodated in comfortable homes this morning by the committee in charge. In fact there were three applications for every child, and a much greater number could have been placed had they arrived as expected.

The log stealer case against Alexander George of Kingsclear, on the information of the Log Driving Association, was again before the police magistrate this morning, and several witnesses examined. The case was again adjourned.

The street committee of the city council has received an offer from the C. R. Drivage Co. for an all night service at 50¢ per shift, commencing at the expiration of the present contract. The matter will be further considered Thursday evening.

Opinion as to the city installing its own system is divided. Mr. Redmond expressed regret at Mr. Wyndham's decision and said that if the amendment was not accepted by the government he was afraid they had arrived at the position, in the way. The nationalists must stand by the amendment, and there must be further consideration of this point by the government, otherwise 95 per cent. of the Irish members would be in the lobby against the government. Mr. Wyndham said he realized the gravity of the situation, but the minimum reduction must be 15 per cent. in minimum price, and 25 per cent. in the case of second term rents and to 25 per cent. in the case of first term rents.

Mr. Redmond expressed regret at Mr. Wyndham's decision and said that if the amendment was not accepted by the government he was afraid they had arrived at the position, in the way. The nationalists must stand by the amendment, and there must be further consideration of this point by the government, otherwise 95 per cent. of the Irish members would be in the lobby against the government. Mr. Wyndham said he realized the gravity of the situation, but the minimum reduction must be 15 per cent. in minimum price, and 25 per cent. in the case of second term rents and to 25 per cent. in the case of first term rents.

LONDON, June 18.—The deadlock which has arisen between chief Irish Secretary Wyndham and the Irish leader, John Redmond, as a result of today's debate in the house of commons in which John Redmond's amendment to the land bill abolishing minimum price at which the landlord may sell, was opposed by Mr. Wyndham and rejected by a vote of 17 to 17.

The whole body of nationalists voted in support of John Redmond's amendment, with the result that the government's majority was reduced to 41 votes. The Liberal leaders at a meeting tonight resolved not to challenge Mr. Chamberlain's sullen proposals by a vote of 17 to 17. Some nationalist leaders have already announced that they will not vote in support of the government's policy whenever an opportunity occurs. To cure Headaches in ten minutes use KUMFORD'S Headache Powder.

TERRIBLE FLOOD.

Local Notions.

There are very few cleaning operations in which Sunlight Soap cannot be used to advantage. It makes the home bright and clean.

How a Countryman Views the World's Metropolis When He Visits It—Native.

Do Not Take in the Sights. The wickedness of London and the inherent vice of London are firmly rooted notions in the provincial mind which take a good deal of eradicating.

They draw general conclusions from the facts of London and account their vice cases which are altogether too sweeping. We have our little fallings and our little inconspicuous; but after all a man may safely take the last tramway car home from the city to his suburb in spite of the vicious hoodlums, and a lady may do her shopping in Bond Street and walk in High street, Kensington, without fear of being kidnapped in broad daylight. But the provincial on their first visit to London take a little time to shake off their nervousness of such things.

Nevertheless the Londoner is much envied for living in the centre of civilization. "What a privilege to live in touch with the British Museum," says the country gentleman, with a sigh of regret, "suppose you drop in there constantly?" "How glorious to live within a penny's bus ride of the National Gallery?" says the artistic young lady.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

SOFT PLANK.

Local Notions.

There are very few cleaning operations in which Sunlight Soap cannot be used to advantage. It makes the home bright and clean.

How a Countryman Views the World's Metropolis When He Visits It—Native.

Do Not Take in the Sights. The wickedness of London and the inherent vice of London are firmly rooted notions in the provincial mind which take a good deal of eradicating.

They draw general conclusions from the facts of London and account their vice cases which are altogether too sweeping. We have our little fallings and our little inconspicuous; but after all a man may safely take the last tramway car home from the city to his suburb in spite of the vicious hoodlums, and a lady may do her shopping in Bond Street and walk in High street, Kensington, without fear of being kidnapped in broad daylight. But the provincial on their first visit to London take a little time to shake off their nervousness of such things.

Nevertheless the Londoner is much envied for living in the centre of civilization. "What a privilege to live in touch with the British Museum," says the country gentleman, with a sigh of regret, "suppose you drop in there constantly?" "How glorious to live within a penny's bus ride of the National Gallery?" says the artistic young lady.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

MONEY TO LOAN.

Local Notions.

There are very few cleaning operations in which Sunlight Soap cannot be used to advantage. It makes the home bright and clean.

How a Countryman Views the World's Metropolis When He Visits It—Native.

Do Not Take in the Sights. The wickedness of London and the inherent vice of London are firmly rooted notions in the provincial mind which take a good deal of eradicating.

They draw general conclusions from the facts of London and account their vice cases which are altogether too sweeping. We have our little fallings and our little inconspicuous; but after all a man may safely take the last tramway car home from the city to his suburb in spite of the vicious hoodlums, and a lady may do her shopping in Bond Street and walk in High street, Kensington, without fear of being kidnapped in broad daylight. But the provincial on their first visit to London take a little time to shake off their nervousness of such things.

Nevertheless the Londoner is much envied for living in the centre of civilization. "What a privilege to live in touch with the British Museum," says the country gentleman, with a sigh of regret, "suppose you drop in there constantly?" "How glorious to live within a penny's bus ride of the National Gallery?" says the artistic young lady.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

SUN.

Local Notions.

There are very few cleaning operations in which Sunlight Soap cannot be used to advantage. It makes the home bright and clean.

How a Countryman Views the World's Metropolis When He Visits It—Native.

Do Not Take in the Sights. The wickedness of London and the inherent vice of London are firmly rooted notions in the provincial mind which take a good deal of eradicating.

They draw general conclusions from the facts of London and account their vice cases which are altogether too sweeping. We have our little fallings and our little inconspicuous; but after all a man may safely take the last tramway car home from the city to his suburb in spite of the vicious hoodlums, and a lady may do her shopping in Bond Street and walk in High street, Kensington, without fear of being kidnapped in broad daylight. But the provincial on their first visit to London take a little time to shake off their nervousness of such things.

Nevertheless the Londoner is much envied for living in the centre of civilization. "What a privilege to live in touch with the British Museum," says the country gentleman, with a sigh of regret, "suppose you drop in there constantly?" "How glorious to live within a penny's bus ride of the National Gallery?" says the artistic young lady.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there many a time, and found the gallery a very nice place, and the art treasures are very fine, and the staff are very good, and the building is very nice, and the view is very fine, and the atmosphere is very pleasant, and the light is very good, and the air is very fresh, and the water is very clear, and the fish are very fat, and the anglers are very busy, and the day is very bright, and the sun is very shining, and the water is very clear.

As for the National Gallery, I have been there