THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impair digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is sagged, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

He Didn't Even Start

The dark world had become rosy and sweet. A new dawn had entered into Harkaway's vision, and it was all glorious golden. Mabel as they paced the sands on that wonderful moonlight night had yielded to his passionate entreaties, in which he had voiced all the aspirations of his ardent nature and had spoken a soft yes to his question.

"Yes, Harold," she had murmured, with a shy glance at the moon—"yes, dear, I will be your wife."

For a long while Harkaway was silent. He feared to break the spell of the moment with ordinary human speech. So far and away beyond his real expectations had her answer been that it was difficult for him for the time being to realize that it was not all a dream, and who could tell but that the sound of his own voice would awaken him to a lonely reality? Thus they walked on for a brief period, and then, summoning his courage to his aid, he ventured:

"Say it again, Mabel: let the enchanting assent come once more to my devoted ears that I may know it is true!"

"Yes, Harold she repeated—"yes, dear, I will be your wife."

He folded her in his arms, and a kindly cloud obscured the moon for a second, as though to hide her blushes.

"Tomorrow I shall go to New York," he cried, his heart elate. "What is your father's address, sweetheart?"

"Father?" she repeated. "Oh, father's address! Why, it is steen hundred and two Wall street. What do you want daddy's address for, dear?"

"I am going to ask him to smile up on our"—he began.

"Oh, no, Harold," she remonstrated. "I wouldn't do that. Dad's very busy, and we never bother him with little things."

"Little things?" he cried.

"Yes, dear; they annoy him very much indeed," she replied. "I don't think I'm engaged to a single man now who's been to see popper. It makes him so mad when the fall comes and I break off.—Harper's Weekly.

Be Somebody

The world is wide. If you wish to be somebody "pitch in." The brave always have friends. Where others have gone you can go. If the old track doesn't suit you, make a new one; somebody will walk in it. Don't hurry too fast, especially till you know the road or become acquainted with your team. Mind your own business and look after it yourself. Don't stop to gossip. You may grow weary, but remember this is not a world of ease, and rest lies beyond.

Success is never obtained in a country like this without effort. If you fail once try again. If you fail down get up! If it is dark, strike a light. If in the shade move around; if there is a shadow on one side there is sure to be sunshine on the other. It takes longer to skin an elephant than a mouse, but the skin is worth something. Never be content with doing what another has done—excel him. A trade is a good thing to have it is better than gold—being a larger premium, but to make a premium, the trade must be perfect. Determine in your mind to be a good workman. Never slip your work. Every job you do is a sign. Poor signs are against success. People always speak well of a man who minds his own business, and who seems disposed to be somebody. This is a queer world; many people are watching us, and help often comes when and from whom we least expect. Confidence is the safe in which men often deposit rich treasures, and as you prove worthy so will your reward of success be.—Canadian Workman.

Frederickton, Sept. 7.—Mystery still surrounds the finding of part of the skeleton of an infant child under the floor of the bathroom at Linden Hall: Dr. J. W. Weaver, coroner, in whose possession the bones are now has, communicated with Attorney General Hazen, but has not as yet had time to get a reply to his letter:

George Bellake, who resided at Linden Hall, a year or so ago, when he read of the ghastly find expressed the opinion that the bones were those of a cat which disappeared while he was living there. It also became reported about the city that the bones were those of a cat, but Dr. Weaver said he was positive the remains were not those of a cat or other animal, but of a child.

"See, darling," said a mother to a little lad as she pointed to some London waifs, "those poor little boys have no kind father and mother and no good aunt Jane!" "Oh," cried the son, who did not get on well with his mother's sister, "let's give them Aunt Jane!"

Fearful Crime of Black Hand.

Regio De Calabria, Italy, Sept. 8: To the vengeance of the Black Hand Society in New York is ascribed the revolting murder of Policeman Regolino and his wife and six children in the little village of Pollara, which lies eight miles south of Reggio, on the strait of Messina.

At 2 o'clock in the morning some of the town's people of Pollara were awakened by the shrieks of a child, and rushing to the cottage occupied by the Regolino family, found the three-year old daughter of the policeman lying with her throat cut before the open door of her home.

Picking up the child, the villagers carried her inside the house, where they found the remaining members of her family dead, all terribly mutilated with blows of the axe.

The crime was revolting in its barbarity. Beside the mother lay her four months old baby with its skull crushed in. Despite the efforts of the surgeons to save the life of the little girl, whose cries aroused the neighborhood, she died.

None of the townspeople saw or heard the murderers, who escaped from the village without leaving a clue as to their identity.
