

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TELEGRAPH, ST. JOHN, N. B., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 6, 1903.

Around the Town.

Mistaken identity often leads people into awkward situations, and when the mistaken identity is signified by boisterous recognition the awkwardness is intensified. A few days ago a newly married clergyman entered a local barber shop and was about to seat himself. He turned to hang up his hat. Just then a man rose from another chair after being shaved and, thinking he recognized the newcomer, stepped up behind him, slapped him vigorously between the back of his shoulders and said: "Hello, Billy, when did you come to town?" He knocked the wind out of the minister both literally and figuratively. After the parson got his second wind, he turned on him to remonstrate at such boisterous salutation to a perfect stranger. But the man had realized his mistake and fled.

"I didn't know there were 25 idiots of immense wealth in America outside of the insane asylum." The remark was made by a summer visitor from New York who reached St. John yesterday morning, and was passed in surprise and waited for an explanation. "Yes there is, 25 of them; may be more, but there's 25 at any rate." And this was the explanation of the books which are being published by the publisher of the "Sundays" for fair. There are only 25 sets being published, and there are 130 volumes to be set. Only four volumes are published each year, so it takes each subscriber nearly 25 years to get his complete set. Each set costs $100.00 or $1,000 a volume and are for as many volumes required for this edition of Dickens is that it is published on parchment, and this fact, together with the decorations of the books which are hand painted, and the handsome binding, accounts for the cost. And then, of course, only 25 sets are being struck off. Each volume after being bound is put in a velvet plush case of artistic design, and the binding of each volume is of a different style from every other. But the curious part of it all is that the sets are fully subscribed for. The twenty-five subscribers, I murmured, who are they? "Oh, the same old lot you read about in the Sunday papers—Two Vanderbilts, Geo. Gould, one of the Astors, Pierpont Morgan, Schwab, a Mexican lady who owns a big cattle ranch, and a few other millionaires."

Verily a fool and his money are easily parted, I rejoined, having in mind the story of the boy in Sunday school who was asked for a text when the collection plate was being passed, rather than having any real or vivid impression of the amount of money wanted in this silly de luxe edition of Dickens. "You may say so. It makes two men rich. First the canvassing agent, for a canvasser took the entire 25 subscriptions. For this he received one cent of the subscription price, or the next sum of $750.00. Then the publisher must have at least 100 per cent profit to justify the risk he runs, the cost of protection and the time occupied in the carrying through of the project. "The scheme was originated by the canvasser, who offered to put up property he owned in Brooklyn as security that he could get 25 subscribers to subscribe for the edition, if the publisher would go to the expense of getting him up a sample volume to canvass with."

"Oh, there's a sucker born every minute," said the publisher.

OBITUARY.

Francis Crawford.
After quite a lengthy illness, the death took place on Thursday evening, at his residence, Duke street, Carleton, of Francis Crawford, aged sixty years. He is survived by his wife and two small children.

Mrs. Fletcher.
St. John friends will regret to hear of the death recently at Brookline (Mass.), of Mrs. Nina Jessie Fletcher. The deceased young woman was a niece of Mrs. H. J. Olive, now of Mission (Washington), and on different occasions visited this city. Her death resulted from diabetes. Mrs. Fletcher leaves a child five months old.

H. R. Belyea.
H. R. Belyea died at his home, 155 Adelaide street, Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. He was in the seventy-seventh year of his age, and had been troubled with cancer of the liver, which ultimately caused his death.

James MacLeod.
The death occurred on Saturday, at his residence, 243 Brunswick street, of James MacLeod. He was the son of Mr. James MacLeod, of Summersville, P. E. Island, but had lived in St. John for quite a number of years. He was formerly employed in the railway, and leaves a widow, a daughter of Joseph Boyd, of this city.

Rev. E. P. Churchill.
Harvey G. Tedford, of Yarmouth, was called to Dover (N. H.) recently by a telegram announcing that his son-in-law, Rev. E. P. Churchill, was dying. Mr. Tedford, on his arrival in Dover, found that death had won the race. The deceased was thirty-eight years of age. Up to last spring he was in robust health. On May 28 he was compelled by indisposition to give up work. He thought the trouble was indigestion, but it was diagnosed cancer of the stomach and intestines. The course of the disease was rapid, resulting in paralysis of the heart. Mr. Churchill was a native of Milton, Queens Co., N. S. He took the degree of B. A. at the University and was ordained in 1897. His first pastorate was at Bridgewater. While taking a post graduate course at Newton Theological Seminary, he was called to the Baptist church at Dover (N. H.), where he was meeting with flattering success. He leaves a widow (formerly Miss Jose Tedford, of South Ohio, Yarmouth county) and two children.

Mrs. S. R. Foster.
The death of Mrs. Foster, widow of S. R. Foster, took place on Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. S. Bridges. The deceased lady, who had reached the advanced age of 87 years, was a native of St. John, and prior to her marriage was Miss Elizabeth A. Wade. She is survived by four children, Mrs. Bridges, Granville F. Foster, engaged in educational work in California, E. C. Foster, of London, and and he caught the 25 with the biggest wad." The merit of this story is that it is absolutely true.

It was on the Eastern Steamship line and illustrates how even the most certain of ladies can be mistaken. She had purchased her summer ticket and received change for $5.00. In fact the lady had refused to accept soiled bank bills in change, insisting on receiving fresh, crisp bank notes. She was almost through supper, when the purser came along, stopped and spoke to her. I could not hear what he said, but her reply was emphatic. "Quite sure, why there could not possibly be a mistake. I only had the one bill in my purse and it was an American $5." At this point her brother asked the purser what the trouble was. "I am quite sure the lady gave me a $2 note, and I have given her back change for $5. One of the waiters noticed it at the time, but to make sure I counted my cash and find it is out $3." Again the lady vigorously remonstrated at the idleness of the supposition that she was mistaken. "Why certainly you are wrong, and this gentleman is right. You only had the one $5 bill, and that you changed at Portland to pay for our supper last night. And then she remembered and graciously apologized for the mistake. When the mistake had been rectified and the official had retired, the lady murmured in surprise: "And to think I could have been mistaken. I ought to teach one a lesson." But it won't.

He was from Kings county and so was we. It was there he had wood and was (to him) the fairest flower of the village. It was there that two sad hearts parted when he bid her farewell to come to the city in search of work. He secured an employment, but the income was small, yet he possessed an untold wealth of love for that self same country girl. In time she, too, came to the city and the two were privately married at the home of the officiating clergyman. When the ceremony was over the contract signed and delivered, the groom tendered a half-dollar for the service rendered. The preacher accepted the money, smiled and wished them all the happiness and good-fortune that generally go with the deal. The groom's face which, up to this time was radiant with delight and wreathed with glad smiles, became sullen as he watched the good man drop that piece of silver into his vest pocket and place a hand on the knob of the street door. "Good evening," said the minister opening the door and smilingly stood aside to let the couple pass. But the groom hung back, fumbling his hat and gazing blankly at the chandler overhead. The minister noticed that there was something troubling the new husband's mind and that he was somewhat shy in making his wishes known. The preacher knew, so far as he himself was concerned, that he had performed his duty well—given them all that was coming to them—the necessary document and his blessing. Moreover he wished them long life and happiness and riches galore. "Is there anything more I can do for you?" inquired the minister of the man with the knitted brows. "Yes," he replied, "you didn't gimme no change."

And it came to pass that the good man of the household put his hand in his pocket and made a search thereof for a piece of silver equal to half the value of currency tendered and gave it to him.

Mrs. Clarence Reid, of Cambridge (Mass.).
Mrs. Reid was well known by the elder generation of citizens, who heard of her death with regret.

Mrs. A. Starkey.
The death of Mrs. Arch. Starkey at her home Lower Metcalf street, Indian town, Friday night, was a shock to her friends throughout the city. Deceased, who was a woman of about thirty-seven years of age, had been ailing with cancer for over a year. Sunday week Mrs. Starkey was out of her bed and was entertained at a friend's house Tuesday evening. Wednesday she grew very ill, sinking rapidly. A son, Whitfield, and husband survive. The remains were conveyed to Thornton, Queen's county, Monday for interment.

Mrs. A. E. Hanson.
Mrs. Mary E. Hanson, wife of Albert E. Hanson, passed away on Saturday afternoon at her late residence on Veep street at the age of sixty-four years.

Mrs. Hanson was the daughter of the late John Hawkes of St. John (N. B.), in which city she spent the earlier years of her life, but has been a resident of Portland for many years past. She possessed a strong character, with positive ideas and great energy. She had a kindly heart and was always ready to espouse the cause of any one whom she thought unjustly treated. She formed strong friendships and always proved true to her friends. She died a firm believer in the Christian faith and possessed of that hope which is like an anchor to the soul both sure and steadfast.

She leaves a husband and one son, who is now in the west, to mourn her loss, together with many friends who have known her intimately in life—Portland (Me.) Argus, July 27.

Funeral of Mrs. Walter McAllister.
Sussex, N. B., Aug. 2.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. Walter McAllister took place today at 2 p. m. The body was taken to the family lot at Keirwood Mount and was accompanied by a large number of friends and relatives.

Probably ground will be broken today or Wednesday for the Carleton street railway line. It is the intention to run a line from the bridge to Tilton's corner, and then one truck will go down King to Union street; the other line will continue along the road in front of the Carleton cemetery and the tower and down in front of the Roman Catholic church through St. John street to Union, meeting the other branch, and making a complete circle of Carleton.

Rev. Fr. Doherty, S.J., who is a native of St. John, is in the city, having arrived last evening from Halifax. He is returning to Montreal after attending the jubilee of his lordship, Bishop Cameron, of Antigonish (N. B.), and is the guest of his lordship, Bishop Casey. Father Doherty was met at the depot by Rev. A. W. Meahan and escorted to the palace. He is one of the most distinguished members of the Jesuit Order.

LAVINIA BANTRY HAS A BROKEN LEG.

Half Crazed With Liquor She Leaped from Second Story Window.

Half crazed with liquor, and in an attempt to get more, Lavinia Bantry jumped from a second story window to the ground Monday night and is now lying at the General Public Hospital with a broken leg. Lavinia Bantry is a white woman of about thirty years of age and for some time past has been living with George Hope, a colored man, whose home is a two story wooden building in the famous Black Alley at the foot of Duke street. The woman is well known in police circles, having been frequently arrested for drunkenness. Yesterday afternoon she managed to procure enough liquor to become quite intoxicated. With George Hope she lived on the upper floor of the house, and to prevent the woman from going out and getting more liquor, Hope thought the safest way was to lock the door and keep her in, however, for about 9.30 o'clock she raised a window in the rear of the house and unhesitatingly jumped about twenty feet to the ground, where she lay helpless. Her cries for help soon brought a crowd of neighbors to her aid and she was carried up to her room and Dr. D. E. Berryman summoned. It was found that her right leg was broken just above the ankle. She was made as comfortable as possible and was sent to the hospital in the ambulance by Sergeant Campbell.

ABOUT 115 IN CAMP AT FORT DUFFERIN.

The local soldiers commenced drill at Fort Dufferin Monday. No. 1 company, under the command of Captain Robinson and Lieut. Fowler, while No. 2 company sent the full quota of twenty men under the command of Capt. Robinson. The officers and men of No. 1 company now under canvas are: Capt. Robinson, Lieut. Fowler, Serge. Selby, Patches and Corporals: Corp. Fisher, Gunn, Fitchell, Raymond, Tins, Whitehouse, Burnside, McLean, London, Linton, Lynch, Lamb, Brown and Smith. No. 2 company, under the command of Capt. Robinson, Lieut. Fowler, Serge. Selby, Patches and Corporals: Corp. Fisher, Gunn, Fitchell, Raymond, Tins, Whitehouse, Burnside, McLean, London, Linton, Lynch, Lamb, Brown and Smith. No. 2 company, under the command of Capt. Robinson, Lieut. Fowler, Serge. Selby, Patches and Corporals: Corp. Fisher, Gunn, Fitchell, Raymond, Tins, Whitehouse, Burnside, McLean, London, Linton, Lynch, Lamb, Brown and Smith.

Monday's work consisted mostly of the testing of the layers and setting, and when this had been completed, preliminary practice will be the order of the day. It is expected that these two preliminary details will occupy the attention of the soldiers, so it will not be until Wednesday that they will get down to the real competitive work.

The targets, between which the gunners strive to shoot, are from 1,500 to 1,800 yards out in the bay and at this range are towed back and forth while the men use the six and twelve pounder rapid fire guns in their practice.

With the arrival of the local men at camp Monday morning the number of men and officers under canvas is about 115, and this will be about the average population of the camp for the next three weeks.
