

VERY PRETTY ROMANCE.

EVERYTHING CONSPIRED TO PRODUCE THE RESULTS TO BE DESIRED.

In 1871, Joseph W. Walters, broker, Brooklyn, died, leaving $100,000 to his widow. She was about 48 years old, and her son, Lester D. Walters, was 16. The boy was of a roving disposition, and, weary of the discipline of his mother, resolved to leave home. Having saved a little money, he packed his trunk one day and took a sudden departure. His mother was prepared to kill the fatid off as soon as the prodigal returned. Time passed and no tidings of the truant were received. After a while the widow inserted an advertisement in a New York paper calling for a young lady companion. Among those who applied for the position was Miss Marie De Lacy, who had been brought up in Paris. She was of the prepossessing appearance and manner, an accomplished reader and conversationalist, and a fine pianist. She was soon the closest friend of the widow. They continued to live in Brooklyn for years, and then, nothing having been heard from young Walters, they spent two years in travel, going as far as Palestine. Mrs. Walters became strongly attached to the young woman, and treated her as a daughter. They returned to this country where they continued their travels. In 1882 Mrs. Walters died and left a curious will.

"The will is at my office," said Mr. Griffith, "but its exact terms are nearly as follows:

"I give, devise and bequeath all my property, both real and personal, of every kind and nature whatsoever the same may be situated, in trust upon the following conditions: First, it is my will and intention that my friend, Marie De Lacy, after my decease, shall faithfully search for and find, if possible, my son, Lester D. Walters, and, if she find him, she shall be my friend, Marie De Lacy, join in the bonds of holy wedlock. If either my son or my friend, Marie De Lacy, shall not consent to said marriage, then the share hereinafter mentioned shall revert to the one who refuses to abide by my wish. Second, if my said son, Lester D. Walters, refuses to abide by my wish, I give and devise and bequeath to him one quarter of my estate, both real and personal, and the remaining three quarters I give, devise and bequeath to my friend Marie De Lacy; and if said marriage takes place I give, devise and bequeath all my property, both real and personal, to my beloved friend Marie De Lacy, and my beloved friend Marie De Lacy, to be divided between them equally, share and share alike. The expenses growing out of the search for my son are to be paid out of my estate."

Mr. Griffith two years ago was introduced to Miss De Lacy. Having learned the facts of the case, and having also learned from a school mate of Mr. Walters that he was said to be in Mexico, advertised for him in a Mexican newspaper. The advertisement was answered by Mr. Walters. Mr. Walters went to the Bijou Theatre one night about six weeks ago, where Miss De Lacy and Mr. Griffith's friend occupied a box. The young lady was pointed out to Mr. Walters, who fell in love with her at first sight. They were introduced after the play and the party went to Delmonico's. Mr. Walters, who did not know who she was, and knew nothing of the terms of the will, visited her afterward, and they became engaged to be married. Then the lawyer explained the lively plot to Mr. Walters by which they had been brought together, and told him about the will. Mr. Walters was pleased, and the wedding will take place next Friday.—New York Tribune.

THE LEAGUE IN CANADA.

A BRANCH ORGANIZED IN PETERBOROUGH—THE OFFICERS ELECTED.

PETERBOROUGH, Nov. 5.—A meeting for the formation of a branch of the Irish National League was held in Lynch's hall, Hunter street, on Tuesday night. There was a large attendance and considerable enthusiasm and determination to make the branch a success was manifested.

The meeting was called to order by the Rev. P. Canavan, who pointed out that the League was composed of men of all nationalities and of all degrees of wealth, and that the formation of large branches in important centres would be a good means of convincing the British Parliament that lovers of freedom all the world over, irrespective of creed or class, united with the Irish people in their fight for the rights of self-government, and that the great moral success of the League was the great demand of a united people could not be disregarded by any parliament of a nation. I would in a more direct sense also encourage the national party in Ireland by showing that the Irishmen abroad were not forgetful of their own down-trodden brethren in the Emerald Isle. One of the objects of the League was to collect subscriptions for the Land League Fund, a fund established to aid and assist the Irish members in their fight. Not only Irishmen, but others were contributing freely to this fund. At Pittsburgh a Mr. Carnegie, a Scotchman, had headed the list with $100. The (Father Connors) felt strongly on this subject, not only because he was an Irishman himself, but also because his own brother had been dragged from home, deprived of his first and imprisoned for a long time for no offence save that he was secretary of a branch of the League in Ireland. When such laws exist it was incumbent upon every right-thinking man to assist by all legal and constitutional means in putting an end to such oppression.

It was then moved by Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald, seconded by Mr. O'Sullivan, "Whereas the Irish National League, led by Charles Stewart Parnell, have placed before the world the wrongs of Ireland, and have by their great ability, pluck and perseverance achieved for her important concessions, and whereas with the view of an efficient union in sentiment and action Irishmen at home and abroad, the Irish National League has been established—Be it resolved, that the Irishmen of Peterborough in sympathy with the people of Ireland in their efforts to obtain Home Rule, such as we in Canada enjoy, do form our selves into a branch of the Irish National League of America, and pledge ourselves to render to the cause of Ireland all the moral and material aid in our power."

Mr. O'Sullivan, in seconding the resolution, said he looked upon the association as one formed for the purpose of obtaining self-government for Ireland. It was not an organization of a secret character, nor had it any connection with the Fenian or other organizations which had preceded it. Its meetings were open, its purposes plain, and every man who cherished in his heart sympathy for the down-trodden and oppressed was cordially invited to take part in it. One great end to be gained by such a society was the dissemination of a better knowledge of Ireland's wants, aims and aspirations than had hitherto existed. A great many knew not the real object of the Irish agitation. A subsidized landlord and paragon press had at all times sought to make it appear that Ireland's aim was total separation from the British Empire. Such was not the aim or end of the movement. They wanted Home Rule, such as we enjoy in Canada and this was only their just right. He was a Canadian born himself, but he felt for the down-trodden and oppressed people of Ireland, and would assist them as far as his means would permit.

The resolution was carried unanimously. The election of officers then took place. Dr. O'Sullivan was proposed as President by Mr. J. Hackett, seconded by Mr. J. Corkery, and unanimously elected.

Dr. Kincaid was proposed for First Vice-President by Mr. J. O'Meara, who referred in warm terms to the doctor's generosity, and to his sympathy with their objects.

Dr. O'Sullivan was seconded the motion, and pointed out instances in the past where Dr. Kincaid had proved the faith that was in him.

Mr. T. Cahill, second vice-president, Mr. J. O'Meara, secretary, Mr. John Corkery, treasurer, and Messrs Hackett, Kelly, Kennedy, McInroy, Delaney, Daly, Sheehy, O'Neill, Hurley and Fee, as a committee of management.

Mr. O'Meara then, in a brief but brilliant speech, set forth the needs of the hour, and called upon the meeting to subscribe something worthy of Peterborough in aid of the fund.

The appeal was generously responded to, about $100 being collected on the spot. Mr. O'Meara at the close of the meeting received $12 more. Some 30 members joined the league on the spot, and 30 more names were placed on the league list today. The names of the contributors will be published later on. In the meantime subscription can be handed or mailed to the Treasurer, Secretary or any of the members of the Committee.

The meeting adjourned to reassemble in two weeks at the same time and place. Mr. Flaherty kindly placed his hall at the disposal of the branch, and offer gratefully accepted and duly acknowledged.

FOOLING AN ELDERLY GENTLEMAN.

THE ELEVATOR BOY DRESSED AS A CHAMBERMAID.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Mr. Staples, proprietor of Willard's, was observed by the congregate crowd leading Joe Smith, the elevator boy, by the ear and ejecting him forcibly from the hotel. This simple occurrence has developed a hilarious episode in the social life of Washington. It seems that one of the elderly guests solicited a pretty chambermaid to sew some buttons on his pants. This service she declined, but promised to send another girl who would perform the task. The girls, for reasons best known to themselves, put up a job on the ancient individual, dressed her in the elevator boy's uniform, and dispatched him to the guest's apartment. The room being dark the elderly gentleman, failing to detect the shifty maid, advanced his gallantry so far as to hug and kiss and otherwise tempt to caress the supposed maid. The affair coming to Mr. Staples' knowledge he summarily "bounced" the elevator boy, who in turn had Mr. Staples arrested for assault. The interest in the queer affair was to discover who was the victim of this imposition. The critic of this evening says:—"The identity of the guest who sustains one of the principal roles in this truly dramatic episode is pretty well established. He is supposed to be an ex-Congressman. Who was recently sent by the government on an important mission to Paris, and it would seem as if the atmosphere of Paris had exerted an exhilarating influence upon the formerly old gentleman's temperance. While this episode is the topic of general conversation it is noticed that the Missouri contingent at home but little to say. However, the quintessence of the affair is that James O. Brodhead, of Missouri, an ex-member of Congress; that he is recently returned from an important government mission to France, is a guest at Willard's, and that his eyesight is not as good as it was fifty years ago."

Mr. Griffith two years ago was introduced to Miss De Lacy. Mr. Walters was pleased, and the wedding will take place next Friday.—New York Tribune.

Mr. Griffith two years ago was introduced to Miss De Lacy. Having learned the facts of the case, and having also learned from a school mate of Mr. Walters that he was said to be in Mexico, advertised for him in a Mexican newspaper. The advertisement was answered by Mr. Walters. Mr. Walters went to the Bijou Theatre one night about six weeks ago, where Miss De Lacy and Mr. Griffith's friend occupied a box. The young lady was pointed out to Mr. Walters, who fell in love with her at first sight. They were introduced after the play and the party went to Delmonico's. Mr. Walters, who did not know who she was, and knew nothing of the terms of the will, visited her afterward, and they became engaged to be married. Then the lawyer explained the lively plot to Mr. Walters by which they had been brought together, and told him about the will. Mr. Walters was pleased, and the wedding will take place next Friday.—New York Tribune.
